

Junior Farmers celebrate 50th at Acton Legion

More than 400 people representing present and past members of Halton Junior Farmers gathered at Acton Legion Hall, Saturday evening Feb. 11 for a 50th anniversary banquet and dance.

Guest speaker was Dave Pelleterio, a past Halton and provincial president. Several awards were presented for outstanding member, first year member, and sportsmanship.

Anne Casselman was Master of Ceremonies for the evening and Cecil Patterson conducted the induction ceremony for the new executive. Past president Pat Wagner was presented with the county pin and plaque.

Officers for 1984-85 are: president, Al Hardiman; 1st vice, Martin Opstien; 2nd vice, Larry Withnell; provincial director, Doug Howden, alternate Stephen Rae; secretary Kathy Wettlaufer and treasurer, Roy Fish.

The weekly euchre at Hornby Community Centre, Feb. 11, had 13 tables in play, with the following prize winners: Billie Courmeya, Mrs. D. Dowling, Irene Goodfellow, Myrtle Cunningham, Wilmer Mason, Fred Workman, Vivian Shaw and Russell Goodfellow.—Specials prizes donated by Vivian Shaw were won by Olive Tasker and Gold Goldon.

Halton Farm Safety Council will hold their annual meeting Thurs., Feb. 16, at the Agriculture office at 17 Wilson Drive, Milton from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A film presentation will be shown, "Focus on Farmstead Hazards," followed by informative discussion and seminar.

Lunch will be provided, and all persons interested in accident prevention on the farm are invited to attend. Admission is free.

Several members from Boston and Omagh Presbyterian churches meet each Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. at Mountain View Restaurant for breakfast and Christian fellowship with their minister Rev. Cecil Cunningham. The same group meets for prayer service on Sunday at 7.30 p.m. at the manse on Woodward Avenue, Milton.

Friends are pleased to learn Robert Marshall is improving following surgery at Joseph Brant Hospital, recently.

Local 4-H homemaking clubs are progressing well in the spring project "Fitness Fare." Members prepare nutritious and tasty food for all meals of the day. The achievement program will be held Mon. April 30 at E.C. Drury school.

Two cars and a large van travelling west on MMain Street between Thompson Rd.

and James Snow Parkway on Wednesday afternoon had the misfortune to strike a very icy spot on the road and all three skidded off the road, across the ditch and into a farmer's field. A rather scary experience.

I have collected more history on the village of Omagh. There was an Orange Hall on the west corner on the McCann farm, a Methodist Church in the east corner which was later a community hall. The hall was destroyed by fire.

A few chairs which were rescued from the fire are now prized antique possessions.

Does anyone remember that there was a board sidewalk from the farm of W.C. Beaty on the east side of fourth line road? This sidewalk provided a bridge over the stream near the village and continued to the store.

There was a blacksmith shop on the land now owned by S. Lendvay, and the Queen of Omagh lived in the house next to the store. We understand her name was Smith.

The manse for the Methodist church is a fine home on the south corner. An Anglican church on the west side of Britannia Rd. served the area for many years. It was removed when membership declined and the land it was on is now a part of the lot owned by Edna Featherston.

Group can bank on book

Even the most creative cooks look to cookbooks for ideas and that is what a group of fundraisers are banking on.

Boston Ladies Fellowship Group has compiled 350 "tried and true" recipes in a cookbook called "Cooking with Boston Presbyterian Church".

There are more than 300 copies available for $6 each.

Proceeds from cookbook sales will help the group support local facilities like Tinkerbell Nursery, Halton Women's Place and Milton District Hospital.

Fellowship group member Audrey Peddie said the success of a cookbook sale several years ago prompted the publishing of a second. The latest version was first available in the fall and since that time several hundred have been sold.

"They are tried and true recipes submitted by church members," she said.

The cookbook covers everything from "the basics to microwave," according to Mrs. Peddie.

To purchase a cookbook call 878-3749 or 878-9364.

Women's month at library

By CATHY FRENCH

Much is in store for women working in and outside the home this month at Milton Public Library.

Chief Librarian Jenny Amy has set up a program for February called Women's Month.

Sandy Kerr a program consultant will have a seminar on 'Women As Role Models'. This lecture deals with women in the business world helping women who want to get into the business world.

'Identifying Your Potential' is a topic that deals with women who are at home and want to enter or re-enter the business world.

Kerr looks at various interests women have and their relationships with their families. She then picks out jobs that would be best suited for the women. Admission is $3 altogether and the dates for this are Tuesdays Feb. 21 and Feb. 28.

Sandy Greenberg, an acclaimed Maritime performer, presents 'Reflections Of Women'. The presentation deals with songs about women's triumphs and defeats in the working business. Admission is $2.50. The date is March 6 at 7.30 p.m.

Women's Month started Jan. 31 and these topics already discussed:

Judy Chicago, a world renowned artist talked about the Dinner Party. This is a tribute to women of spirit and accomplishment throughout the ages. Three tables were set up in a triangle of trinity with 13 place-settings of different time periods.

Leslie Smith, a representative from Colour Palette, discussed a program called 'Discover The Beautiful you'. The program was broken into three groups; 'Season and Colour Analysis' which dealt with colours in clothing which best suit each lady; 'Figure Analysis' which dealt with collars and types of patterns for ladies; and 'Cosmetics' which shows shades of eye shadow and blush.

There was a speech on Money Management for Women which dealt with how women could manage their money in better ways.
