

Campbellville Old Park plan will include outfield fence

The Campbellville Old Park redevelopment project will move ahead this spring with the park's baseball diamond fence remaining intact.

The issue of whether the existing outfield fence should be kept has been heavily discussed at a number of Town meetings over the last year with the matter closed at a recent town council meeting.

Ward 3 Councillor Cindy Lunau asked her fellow councillors to reopen the discussion about the neighbourhood park plan in order to hear what residents discussed with Town staff from the time the plan was approved last June up until now.

"This (motion) is simply here to consider all facts," she said. "Not to consider all the facts, as submitted by the community, I think is not fair to the council and the Campbellville community."

The motion, which needed a two-thirds majority, failed with four of the 11 councillors voting against it.

During discussion Ward 4 Councillor Rick Malboeuf said enough time has been spent on debating about the outfield fence.

"Staff have done their due diligence on this issue," he said. "Council had deliberated on it and made a decision. It's time to move on and get this park rehabilitation moving."

Lunau responded that when the plan was approved, staff was verbally told by council to consult with residents in the area and the baseball diamond users to tweak the plan and make minor modifications if necessary.

An agreement was reached in "good faith" she said, when the decision was made to take down the fence to accommodate a hard-surfaced looped trail system.

She continued a compromise was reached between users of the park and was only recently withdrawn when staff was asked to look into the matter again.

"This council needs to consider the plan and the comprise on its own," said Lunau. "The only thing worse than making a bad decision is recognizing that it wasn't the best and not doing something about it."

The vote was one vote shy of a two-thirds majority.

The redevelopment of the park will begin this spring and is expected to be open for public use by 2014.

The baseball diamond and the existing outfield fence will be kept, along with outdoor skating. Improvements include naturalized areas and tree planting, a children's play area, expanded multi-use courts and a trail system.
