

Help available to find family doctor

Don't have a family doctor? You're certainly not alone. According to Statistics Canada, approximately 3.6 million Canadians don't have a family physician.

The Mississauga Halton Community Care Access Centre (CCAC) hopes to curb that number by raising awareness of Health Care Connect — a free service designed to help Ontarians find a family health-care provider who's accepting new patients in your community. To be eligible for this service, you must not be enrolled with a family health-care provider, have a valid Ontario Health Care and have an up-to-date mailing address.

Those interested can register for the service by calling 1-800-445-1822 or visiting www.ontario.ca/healthcareconnect.

The Mississauga Halton CCAC has three Care Connectors working to find suitable matches for new patients.

Supporting Mike
