Fall painting prep can be a breeze

As the seasons change, many homeowners refresh their interiors to coincide with the colours found outdoors. With fall underway, now is a great time to swap out your summer brights for the bold hues of autumn. Here are a few ways that you can infuse seasonal colour into your fall painting plans:

Before you pick the perfect shade for your walls, you need to gather the tools to complete your project, including painter's tape. Painter's Mate Green tape allows DIYers to achieve a neat paint job on a variety of surfaces without breaking the budget. The tape's premium paper and adhesion is ideal for indoor and outdoor projects, so be sure to have the tape ready.

Next, determine your new colour scheme by browsing your local paint retailer to see what catches your eye. Since rich, warm tones are found in nature during this time of year, select a bold colour to serve as a focal point and a few coordinating shades to add contrast. Before settling on a palette, refer to a colour wheel to visualize how various shades work together to create an aesthetically pleasing look.

Now that you have your tools and paint, it's time to plan where you would like your paint updates to be made. Will you opt for a fresh and bold border for your den, or a daring focal wall that's complementary to your current décor? Deciding this in advance will help to prevent any last-minute stress.

With the proper preparation, transitioning your home from summer to fall with paint can be a simple task. More information is available online at PaintersMateGreen.com.
