

October fundraiser to help low-income pet owners

Farley Foundation selling pet toys at vet offices

Veterinarians, veterinary clinic staff and pet owners across Ontario will unite to help low-income pet owners pay for the necessary veterinary care for their pets.

In its 11th year, Milton-based Farley Foundation has created a program through which people in need can receive assistance when their beloved pets suddenly face an illness or injury.

During October, nearly 300 veterinary clinics across the province will participate in the 2013 P&G Pet Care Fundraiser for Farley Month campaign.

Throughout the annual campaign, veterinary practices hold a variety of awareness and fundraising events like dog walk-a-thons, raffles, trivia or comedy nights and open houses.

Pet owners can visit their local veterinary clinic this month to purchase Farley Foundation dog tug toys and cat jingle balls.

P&G Pet Care has also donated 6,000 dog bag dispensers to the campaign.

The 2012 campaign raised more than $224,000 — enough to help 546 sick or injured pets receive necessary veterinary care. To view a list of participating clinics go to <http://bit.ly/1513t4H>.

"As veterinarians, we recognize that the cost of veterinary care, depending on the procedures or treatment required, can be high for those who are on a limited income," said Dr. Mark Gemmill, president of the Farley Foundation. "For people who live on restricted incomes, the decision to forego groceries or antibiotics for their dog who has just contracted a serious illness can be a very stressful situation."

"The Farley Foundation was created by Ontario veterinarians to help alleviate the cost of veterinary bills for people in our communities who are struggling to make ends meet."

In September, the annual Ride for Farley was held. Some 67 enthusiastic riders hit the road — leaving from the Ontario Veterinary Medical Association on Bronte Street — and raised $75,000.
