Anti-bullying song set to be released

A Milton songwriter is part of a Halton trio set to release an anti-bullying song next week. Milton's Sandy Gemmill, Burlington singer/songwriter/producer Michael Shotton and 12-year-old singer Matt Errs of Oakville will launch their song titled 'We'll Stand for You' next Thursday at The Rad Brothers Sports Bar and Tap House (550 Ontario St. S.) Shotton and Errs will perform the song during the launch, which runs from 7 p.m. to midnight. The evening will also serve as a soft launch for

'Friends of Harmony', a new community outreach program for youth. The initiative aims to create opportunities to help youth find acceptance, love and hope through music and artistic expression. The long-term vision of the group is to create forums for expression, mentorship and collaboration by connecting youth to music and art experts. For more information on the program, contact Gemmill at (416) 561-8970 or sandygemmill@gmail.com.
