Spartans tearing up Tier 2 junior field hockey division

Having made the playoffs last fall after a winless — and scoreless — 2012 season, Andrew Brennan believed the Spartans' upswing could very well continue.

But he certainly wasn't prepared for what was in store.

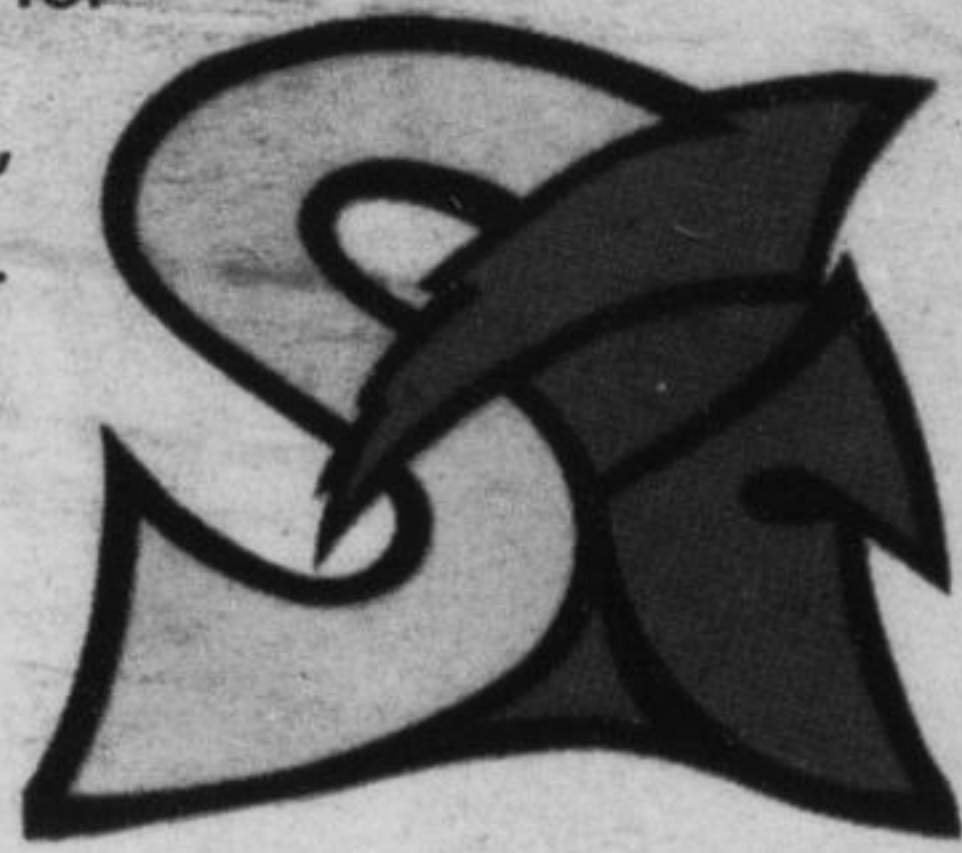

"This is completely unexpected," admitted the Craig Kielburger junior girls field hockey coach, whose team headed into yesterday afternoon's clash with Bishop Reding at a perfect 5-0 and yet to be scored on — having out-gunned its Halton Tier 2 opposition a collective 12-0.

The Spartans' dominance has been so thorough that at times they've recorded more goals than their opponents have shots on net. The latest case of that came in a 3-0 white-wash of the M.M. Robinson Rams October 8, with Kielburger putting things away with two goals midway through the second half after taking the lead shortly before intermission. Claudia Koziol found the back of the net to lift her team-leading tally to four goals, while also scoring were Alia Raza and Caitlyn McCarthy.

First-year goalie Ariana Giglio turned back a couple of shots and got topnotch defensive support, particularly from co-captain Heather Davidson and Maddy Workman.

While not enjoying a lot of overall experience in the game, Brennan stressed that having an all-purpose star in co-captain Madison Babineau — who's earned a national championship and Ontario Summer Games medal in the past few months — and a fair amount of speed up front have been a formidable combination. "We've got a lot of athletic-minded and dedicated players," noted Brennan, who's been with Kielburger for the past two seasons. Before that he coached at Burlington Central and led the juniors to a Halton Tier 2 title in 2011. "And they really play as a team." One of the junior Spartans' second-year standouts, Babineau has three goals this season and — like she was at M.M. Robinson — has been even more dependable in the role of playmaker.
