

Pretty crafty

Milton Public Library recently hosted a children's holiday craft-making event, run by volunteer elves. Above, three-year-old Anthony Kastoun makes a snowflake out of an old CD with help from volunteer Fatima Bintul. Inset, Nahla Toorawa, 5, pours rice into a bottle to make a noise shaker. Justin Greaves / Canadian Champion (Follow on Twitter @halton_photog)

Festival's short film selections announced

Local filmmakers will once again be in the spotlight at the Milton Film Festival coming up January 23 to 25.

This is the second year for the festival, which is held at the Milton Centre for the Arts.

It also marks the second year that Milton natives Amanda Wilton and Samantha Kelly have had their work included in the shorts program. Their latest film, #Technology is based on the idea of modern day technological concepts being used on older forms of technology or their equivalents.

The film uses comedic interpretations through multiple vignettes to highlight the exponential changes in technology and its applications.

Another young Milton filmmaker, Emily Preston, will present her documentary ...A&L5
