Milton getting more than $650,000 in ice storm relief funding

The Province has dished out more than $4.7 million in disaster relief funding to Regional and local governments in Halton in a little more than a year after a severe ice storm caused widespread damage.

The deadline to submit a claim for the Ice Storm Assistance Program was December 31, 2014, and the Province is in the process of reviewing the submissions.

"Our government is pleased to provide financial relief to these municipalities and conservation authorities. Through this program, we're helping Ontario communities get back on their feet and recover from this significant event," said Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing Ted McMeekin.

The following local municipalities and conservation authority were awarded partial funds to assist with their budgets while claims are being finalized:

- Halton Region — $996,639
