The Principal's Message

PRINCIPAL E. T. PALMER

The publication of the school Year Book, Acta Studentium, is truly a student enterprise. It is conducted with a minimum of assistance and direction from the teaching staff. Its success or failure depends upon the initiative and leadership of the editor-in-chief and the assistant editors, and upon the co-operation with them of the students in all grades. When this enterprise is successful—and we are confident this year's will be—it is a matter of great satisfaction to all concerned.

With the opening of the addition this fall, our school will have increased educational opportunities to offer. These facilities should provide added inspiration for all students to acquire a sound education. Yet fine equipment and accommodation alone will not produce education. Learning always has required, and always will require, work, and plenty of work. A thorough mastery, first, of language, and, second, of the basic principles of mathematics, is essential for success in practically all lines of work today. To acquire this knowledge means patient, diligent work, and no attempt should be made to avoid it. If a weak foundation for one's own education is laid by just "getting by" with the least possible effort, the chances of building a successful career through further practical training will be slight

To make the best use of one's educational opportunities, one must, first really and truly want an education, second, be willing to work for it, and third, have confidence in one's ability to get it.

They find success, their zeal to fan; They can because they think they can.

E. T. PALMER, Principal.
