

AUGUST 5, 1936

in New Jersey by Dr. C. C. Abbot at Bordentown.

RANDOM CASTS

Apropos of the claim by Michael Lerner, wealthy New York sportsman, that the swordfish he caught Monday last is the first ever landed with rod and line in either the North Pacific or the North Atlantic, we seem to remember that Zane Grey caught a striped Marlin swordfish of 1,040 pounds off the Californian coast some time ago.

Fifteen-year-old Ellen Bruce,

Nice Maskinonge

N. A. ARMSTRONG, of 19 Melinda street, Toronto, with a 48-inch maskinonge caught in Pigeon Lake. The fish weighed a little over 25 pounds.