Message from the Principal

It is most fitting that the school's activities of this memorable year should be recorded in the first issue of Acta Studentium. The editorial staff, the business staff, and all those who have contributed to the magazine deserve great credit for their initiative and effort. They have the pleasure and satisfaction, not only of seeing their work well done, but also of laying a foundation upon which future year book staffs may build.

The fine new school should inspire students of this district to provide themselves with a sound, complete education. An eduction adequate of life to-day requires much more than specific training for earning a living. To share in and enjoy the advantages of democratic citizenship, we must learn something of the history of our education and the development of our government. We cannot afford to miss the enjoyment of the rich treasures of our heritage in great literature, art and music. To be good neighbors, we must know something of the customs and languages of citizens of other countries.

The curriculum offered by your school is planned to assist your home and your church in providing you with a complete, well-rounded education. Our sincere wish is that you may bring credit to yourself and to your school. May your future be bright with success.

E. T. PALMER, Principal.
