New speaker for Saturday's Public Library Awards luncheon
Shift's creator Evan Solomon sparking replacement for the Hon. Helen Johns on Saturday

Conference organizers were officially told on Monday that the Hon. Helen Johns would not be attending this Saturday's Public Library Awards luncheon. On Tuesday, Evan Solomon, the co-founder and executive editor of Shift, the award winning national magazine about media, entertainment and technology.

He is also the host of CBC Newsworld's provocative show on print culture, Hot Type, and has received two Gemini nominations as host of the highly rated, Gemini award-winning show Futureworld, which explores the latest developments in culture and technology.

Solomon is a regular columnist on the National, CBC's flagship newsmagazine show, and contributes regularly to various other television, radio and print media. Having worked as a journalist in Hong Kong for the South China Morning Post and reported throughout Asia and Europe, Evan has a global perspective on the topics he addresses. He recently published his first novel, Crossing the Distance.

His insightful views dispel many of the myths and hype surrounding the digital world, and present a unique, realistic picture of where things now stand, where they may be headed, and how to best understand the implications these rapid changes are bringing.
