About the Festival: The Festival is Canada's largest literary event for young readers and is continuing to grow. More than 10,000 people attend this event in Toronto, which is co-presented by IFOA, at Harbourfront Centre. The satellite Festivals are attended by thousands more. In addition to the award presentations featuring the nominated authors/illustrators, the days are packed with fun and engaging activities, including workshops put on by the authors/illustrators themselves.

Give The Gift of Reading! Donate To The Festival of Trees™

The Festival of Trees™ occupies a major place of prominence in Canada's literary landscape. The Festival is Canada's largest literary event for young readers and continues to grow each year.

Impact of the Festival:

- cultivates a love of reading in children and helps foster life-long readers
- children get the chance to meet authors/illustrators from their favourite books and participate in educational workshops and fun activities
- children receive free books, prizes and other giveaways
- children get to socialize with others and be a part of the largest literary event for kids in the country

Your donation will:

- assist with travel expenses to bring First Nations communities to the Festival
- enrich the programming at the Festival
- support Festival expansion into rural and at-risk communities
- ensure nominated authors can attend the Festival and interact with children through author signings and workshops
