

is: Out of the Shadows: Taking the "Scary" out of Horror Readers' Advisory.

Join us April 29 at North York Central Library for a day of interactive learning to help you increase your knowledge of the often-misunderstood horror genre and the programming options that relate to it, from true crime podcasting to escape boxes.

Sessions with horror author Nick Cutter, horror film expert Alexandra West, the Dewey Divas and Dudes and more, will raise your comfort level in talking to patrons about both specific books and broader trends in this genre.

OCULA Spring Conference in Partnership with OSLA

Registration is now open for this year's OCULA spring conference, which is hosted in partnership with OSLA. The conference will take place April 26 in the library at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE) at 252 Bloor St. W.

Our theme is Bridge Between: Information Literacy Challenges, Needs and Opportunities for Students' Transition from High School to University/College. We look forward to convening professionals from the school, academic and public library sectors to discuss how we can support students' information literacy as they make the leap from high school to post-secondary school.

Digital Odyssey: Registration Now Open!

Registration is now open for Digital Odyssey 2019 on June 3 at North York Central Library in Toronto! This year's theme is Digital Literacy.

Digital literacy is an integrated set of skills that facilitate access, understanding, usage and creation of technological tools, content and resources. What roles can library staff play in helping library users strengthen their digital literacy skills? What are some of the challenges faced by library users in developing these skills, and how can library staff address these challenges? How can libraries support cross-departmental digital literacy among their own staff?

Digital Odyssey 2019 will explore these questions and much more! See the full program here.
