Library and Archives Canada's Listen, Hear Our Voices Initiative

Library and Archives Canada (LAC) has launched the Listen, Hear Our Voices initiative that offers funding and digitization services to preserve Indigenous culture and language recordings.

This initiative provides funding of up to $100,000 per project to eligible Indigenous organizations to digitize existing culture and language recordings, and to help them build the skills, knowledge and resources they need to carry out this work in their communities.

Indigenous organizations and individuals can also receive digitization services from LAC to digitize their existing culture and language recordings. LAC will digitize these recordings at our facilities and send back all original and digital files afterwards—it is not an acquisition project. If a community does not have the capacity to store these digital files, LAC is also offering deposit storage on our servers and we will return the files when requested.

In addition, LAC's Indigenous Heritage Action Plan lists activities LAC will undertake over the next five years. Actions will focus on institutional change, managing records in LAC's collection, as well as engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities.

Science Literacy Week 2019

Science Literacy Week is a nationwide celebration of science bringing together science groups coast to coast in a big blitz of activities and book displays meant to highlight the wide and wonderful world of science to Canadians coast to coast.

Libraries are the heart of the week, and together put on 80% of the over 800 events in 2018. For 2019's week, September 16-22 they are looking to get every library in Canada involved - especially as they seek to highlight oceans and marine research in this, the country with the longest coastline on earth! Learn more about how you can get involved here.
