

Treaties Recognition Week is just around the corner! During the first week of November, everyone is encouraged to learn more about the treaties in Ontario, and what we as individuals can do to respect and strengthen the treaty relationship with Indigenous peoples. There are libraries participating across the province – and you can too. Ontario.ca/treaties has lots of ideas to help you mark the week, as well as resources like the interactive Map of Ontario treaties and reserves. Share what you're doing online using the hashtag #TreatyON, to help spread the word about the importance of treaties.

LEARN MORE >>

Treaties Recognition Week Materials Available

If you're interested in copies of the Walk a Mile documentary, and the Canada's History Treaty Relationship issue, the Ministry of Indigenous Affairs has limited copies of the DVD and copies of the treaty relationship guide available for libraries.

If you're interested, please fill out this form with your library's name and address.

Please note: as there are limited copies available, it will be first come, first serve.

Here's the link to the Walk a Mile documentary and the Canada's History guide.

FIND OUT MORE >>

EVENTS & CONFERENCE

Super Conference Hotels and Travel Codes

Super Conference is taking place from January 29-February 1, 2020. Hotel and travel conference codes are now available on our website.

BOOK YOU HOTEL TODAY >>

Spam alert! Please note that OLA is not working with any external vendors for hotel room booking, so please disregard any emails that aren't sent to you directly by OLA.

Registration Now Open for Community-Led Think Tank!

How can libraries build more mindful, accessible, friendly communities? Join us for Community-Led Think Tank on October 3 at London Public Library for a day of insight, collaboration, and thoughtful engagement on some of library land's most important issues.

REGISTER TODAY >>

Save the Date: Child & Youth Expo

Working on collections, programs, and services for the up and coming generations?

Save the date! Child & Youth Expo is heading to Thunder Bay on October 16 this year, and promises to be an intimate gathering that will provide ample opportunity for learning and networking.