At two o'clock yesterday morning, this gallant old officer breathed his last, in his res dence, Russell Hill, on the Davenport road, near Toronto. Augustus Warren Baldwin, Rear Admiral of the White, was born in the county of Cork, on the 1st of October, 1776. He entered the Mercantile Navy as a boy, and the change in his pursuits, from con-merce to arms, was accidental and involuntary. He and one of his brothers had received cruel treatment in a merchant ship, and while making their escape from that vessel in Dunkin harbor, were met by a party of sailors, who pressed them into the service of His Majesty George III., on board the sloop Trompense. The captain of this vessel, J. Erskinne Douglas, soon discovered who his young sailor was, and at once obtained a commission for him. He for many years served under his commander in different parts of the world, and in the frigates Garland, 28, and Boston, 32. He was appointed a lieutenent of the latter ship, 28th June, 1800; and it was his good fortune, three years afterwards, to accompany Tom Mocre, the poet, home Indeed the Boston has become classical from Moore's lines, "To the Boston frigate, on leaving Halifax for England, October, 1804, and commencing :-

While in this ship he was engaged in action off Copenhagen, September, 1807. In the following year he became Lieutenant of the Implacable, 74, and saw severe fighting, and did good and brave service in the Baltic under Admiral Byam Martin. For his gallant conduct in capturing the Russian frigate Speolod, on the 26th August, 1808, when in command of his own ship, he received a gold medal. He was appointed to command the brig Tyrian, in 1812, and was made post captain January 1st, 1817. Robert Baldwin, father of the admiral, emigrated to Canada in 1789. The subject of this sketch did not come here until about the year 1820. He was brother to Dr. Wm.

Warren Baldwin. Upon his arrival in Canada Admiral Baldwin took no vere active part in public affairs, and unlike his distinguished nephew, was conservative in politics. He held, however, a position in the Executive Council during the atter part of Sir F. B. Head's Administration, and the early part of his successor's, but does not seem to have taken any active or leading' part in the Government, although he was one of its members during the stormy times of the rebellion. For many of his latter years he was a Director in the Bank of Upper Canala. In social qualities he excelled, keeping his frank, sailor bearing to the last, with a smile and pleasant word for every one. To the day he died his faculties were almost unimpaired, for although deat he never knew the use of spectacles, and occupied himself in the active superintendence of his house and grounds. In 1826 he married Augusta Melissa Jack son, daughter of J. M. Jackson, Esq., and she now survives her husband. There were three children of this marriage-a son and two daughters-but all of them died in their

The brave old Admiral has at last hauled down his flag to the grim enemy, but has left behind him the record of a long life spent in the service of his country, and a reputation unsullied by a single stain .- Globe

THE NEWSPAPER .- Without my news papers life would narrow itself to the smallest limit, of my personal experiences, and humanity be compressed into the ten or tifteen people I mix with. Now I refuse to accept this. I have not a sixpence in consols, but I want to know how they stand. I like the letters of correspondents, with their unpunctual trains, or some unwarrantable omissions in the liturgy. I even like the people who chronicle the ramfall, and record little facts about the mildness of the season. As for the advertisements, I regard them as the glass and mirror of the age. Show me but one page of the "wants" of any country, and I engage to give a sketch of the current civilization of the period. In presenting the AUTOMATIC ORGAN, We boldly announce the greatest triumph musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments with double bellows, and two pedals for the feet to operate, but the want of the reversed or #1-HAUSTED BELLOWS, (which is the only bellows used in our instruments,) made it impossible for them to produce the mellow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are. Another objection to this method of blowing was, that both feet being occupied, no opportunity was offered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this European plan of "double blowers," have been manufactured in this ountry, and to counteract this difficulty (want of a swell) a lever has been projected from the entre of the instrument, to act upon the swell AND OPERATED BY THE KNEE. The inconvenience and contortion necessary to effect this object, are disagreeable enough tom gentleman, but to

Our AUTOMATIC device obviates this difficulty entirely, the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume of the tope,
