There was, perhaps-and not unnaturally had it been so-some danger of our supposin ourselves and the trade of Canada of mo importance than our neighbors were inclined to admit. We might not unreasonably have fancied that a commerce of fifty millions annual value was not a thing to be light cast aside even by so powerful and popu lous a country as the United States. It was certainly gratifying to know that under the provisions of a reciprocal free intercourse an export trade which ten years ago on amounted to about a million and a quarter had grown to a magnitude exceeding twenty millions: and that goods were annually imported into Canada from the States upon an average of some two or three millions in cess of the exports. We felt that both countries were enjoying the fruits of a commerci compact made in a spirit of generoeity and friendship. We have been suddenly awaken ed from such a pleasing hallucination to fin that our neighbors acted, or were desirous acting under another stimulus. It would the policy of their Government is unive sally approved by the nation. We believe it will eventually be found that the very verse of satisfaction will prevail when the effect of this suicidal policy shall come, come it will, to be generally and severely felt. That this is apprehended we have already good evidence It is stated that the refusal of ou delegates to accept the exorbitant and absu terms proposed took the American stutho ties by surprise. The President and Mr Seward were exceedingly vexed at the abrupt termination of the negotiations, an I that efforts are now being made to rehew the con ference. Let us advise our neighbors of the fact which they have made so clear to or comprehension-they tried to deal with us an illiberal and huckstering spirit, and the are now chewing the cud of vexation at he ing over-stood their market. Thore is no cessity of our condemnation, however, whe we find their own journals speaking thus frankly: The World has the following:-

The return of the Provincial delegates to their homes without any solution of the commercial difficulties between the different governments they represent and the United States is another instance of the unfriendly sentiments held by the party in power toward that the reform horse of the present day is none all men who are of their own color, but are other than the old Whig hack brought ou The affair has been argued by the majority of Congress not only by the light of false doc- tion and an effete and worn-out leader.
