At a meeting of the Board of Deputy Heads of Departments, at the requisition of Messrs. Parent, Futvoye and Tache, it was decided that the respective offices of the various day, (to-morrow) to afford the Government employes an opportunity of assisting in the public reception of His Excellency the Governor General, upon his arrival in Ottawa.

Since '98 rebellion has been a chronic disease peoiodically afflicting the "finest pea santry in the world" in a very unserviceable way, and with deteriorating effect as far as i has interfered with the material and moral progress of the country. The miserable fiasco of the cabbage garden was but a confused dream of events gone by half a century before, and the moon-struck heroes of '48 were but the prototypes of the "head-centres of eighteen hundred and sixty-five. Fenian ism as a diagnosis of the disease may die out as have "terry-ault"-ism, and a score of other absurd and villainous combinations; but the complaint is inherent, and will take generations in time, and much depletion of the body politic before it is effectually eradicated. Unfortunately for the patient there are outside irritations which on the present occasion the lent intensity to what would otherwise have been innocuous. If Fenian ism, as we believe it, is only the resuscitation of the latent spirit of insurrection, it has been cared for and nurtured with far greater solicitude in the United States than in Irelandare disgusted with the vaporing knaves wh Report gives Mr. Stephens credit for adroit. are swindling their unwary and warm-hearted ness in organization, and the movement up to countrymen and country-women out of the a certain point, betokens an amount of preconcert to which its ordinary agents are beyond all question unequal. A master-mind has evidently concected the modus-operandi-it was no dolt who planned the mo le of raising the ways and means-the example of other adventurers had not been lost upon the man who projected bonds of the Irish Republic; nor was he ignorant of the susceptible and impulsive nature of his countrymen. He had the wisdom and tact manipulate these things to the advancemen of his scheme, while he cunningly utilized individual ambition and cupidity. Men were placed in nominally high positions; were entrusted with large sums of money; flattered with titles, and made to live in a splendour that was at once novel and gratifying. Such has been the position of the lieutenants of the home to regulate and mobilize the rank and file, has contrived to attain a celebrity by the daring manner of his escape from justice. But Fenianism in Ireland is a very different portion of the British empire without let or hinderance. In America Fenianism is a the country Providence has so blessed should

Enthusiasm like other materials of rapid combustion soon burns itself out; and so has it been with Irish insurrection. Clever as the scheme has been in its inception and working in America, its vitality is palpably on the wane. "District Head Centres" begin to see something more tangible than a Fenian fleet and an Irish Republic-they begin to ask themselves how they are legally bound to hand over their collections to self-appointed chiefs-the chink of the dollar sounds more harmonius than treasonable bunkum, and the result of these reflections has already had its effect upon the coffers of the Fenian trea-
