1867 more prosperous in business than ever before. The expediency of enlarging our pages—thus making The Dibune the largest and cheapest newspaper in America—was doubted by many. We have found our account in it. The circulation of The Tribune is steadily increasing, and our advertising patronage has increased so much that it is more difficult to print our news than when we used a smaller sheet, and this difficulty we can only meet by frequently publishing supplementary bune the discussion of momestons and peculiar problems. We have met them as best we could, laboring with sincerity for Freedom, Social Progress, Political Equality, Impartial Suffrage-All-Rights for All. A Republican President tecamo the enemy of Republicanism, and we have been called upon to denounce and expose the treacheries of a degraded Administration. It was not without pain, certainly not without much thinking. that we made an issue with President Johnson. The people approved our course by returning their Radical representatives to power. The elections of 1866—as important to the nation as Lee's surrender-make new duties. Reconstruction is now the duty of the country-political reconstruction-reconstruction in finances and tariffs. We are no longer pressed by war necessities, and we must amend our war experiments. The present condition of the currency is a grevious evil. Trade suf-fers; our manufacturing interests are in a precarjous state. A dollar does not mean a dollar, but its fraction. It may be sixty cents, it may be ten. It is a sentiment, not a fact. When the laborer earns his dellar, he does not know whether he has one loat or ten. All business is feverish and unsettled. We think this can only be remedied by information, of the following Notice of the erection | this we shall insist. The necessity of Protection to Labor again press es upon us. We regret that on this most important measure the Republican party is divided. An honest but mischievous minority in the West, particularly, are endeavoring to create a policy which can only result in the prostration of Ameria can industry—the degradation of labor, and the aggrandisement of English capitalists. Duringthe many years of our work we have struggled against this interest. We believe protection more necessary now than ever before, and we shall insist upon the broadest and wisest legislation for the Rights of Labor.

In the perplexing question of Reconstruction we see no reason to amend the policy which we have asserted since the close of the war. It then seemed A Light House has been erected on the Bluff, at lowed by suffrage for the black. *We did not see the South side of the entrance of Port Natal, at an ing. We had too much blood in war to ask for elevation of 292 feet above high water, a light blood in peace—even to gratify angry vengeance. from which will be exhibited on the 23rd January, It seemed important that the South should concedesuffrage, and that the North should concede amnesty. Some of our friends disapproved of this; but Congress has followed our advice. Amnesty has been approved by Congress-to a greater extent than we claimed in The Tribune. We have held that the men who starved captives in the rebel dungeons, who murdered surrendered prisoners, who frustrum of a cone, 81 feet high, painted white; violated the rules of war, and aided the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, should be tried and punished Congress and the Administration have agreed that no punishment should be inflicted even upon men (dioptric), attaining its greatest brilliancy once who are charged with these crimes, and the only measure looking like punishment is the amendment of disfranchisement from holding office, which is It is visible in all directions from North (round merely a sentimental and not a practical penalty.

On the other hand, the passage of the Civil Rights Bill, the Freedman's Bureau Bill, and the Bill for Suffrage in the District of Columbia, show that reconstruction will not be consummated without suffrage and protection for the blacks. We intend to en-large these facilities, and not only to gather news from all parts of the world, but to ask the most gifted men of other countries to write for our columns. With many of them we have already entered into negotiations which will result in giving to the readers of The Tribune a series of essays that, both for their intrinsic value and the fame of their illustrious authors, will long be memorable in the history of journalism. We postpone for the present Friends of Impartial Justice and Progress! we greet you on the bright prospects before us.
