NATIONAL OLD CLOTHES. (Examiner.) "What is the glory of having fine clothes?" says the Chinese proverb.

But it was not a penal war, and did not our troops go forth as vindicators and avengers? How else could the storming of Magdala, the capture of the city, be justified, if not the general's desire to lay the city in ashes after many days of the peaceable occupation?

It was only a few months ago that the lash was wrenched by a Liberal majority from the hands of the Horse Guards, who pleaded till the last that it was indispensable for the maintenance of order and discipline, and who would have kept it on till now for the sake of example.

THE SALE OF MEN-OF-WAR.—The Controller of the Navy is reported, says the United Service Gazette, to have explained to the Committee of the House of Commons that when a purchaser pays £200 for a ship and gets back £1,655 for a part of it, that as the part received back was worth that sum and would fetch that amount in the market, the Admiralty were clear gainers of £250.
