

They have ceased to exist, and the fact has become very numerous, from the protection afforded to one, and the chase given to the other. The fish enters largely into the requirements of the system, especially after intellectual fatigue. There is no article of food that supplies the wastes of the head so thoroughly as fish diet, and the evidence of it is in the fact that the inhabitants of the sea shore the world over, are the brighter population of the country.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. On no occasion will the names of Old Advertisements be inserted here.

The Ottawa Times MONDAY, JULY 20, 1868.

For markets and interesting reading matter see Fourth Page.

The Hon. Mr. HOWLAND and the Hon. Judge WILMOT, were on Saturday gazetted as the Lieutenant-Governors of Ontario and New Brunswick, respectively.

The Hon. Mr. HOWLAND and the Hon. Judge WILMOT, were on Saturday gazetted as the Lieutenant-Governors of Ontario and New Brunswick, respectively. Our readers were, some time ago, notified to expect these appointments, and though rumour-mongers have dated for their fulfilment, and thereby given some opportunity for mercurial to the Unitarian Opposition organs at Toronto, the matter has been brought about entirely independent of the circular predictions of over-zealous friends and the sneering taunts of disappointed opponents, just at the time that public business warranted its accomplishment, and not a day sooner.

There is a strong disposition on the part of many of our business men to renew the effort to abate the silver nuisance, and we understand that it is under consideration to call a public meeting some day this week, to take the matter into consideration, and decide upon a definite course of action. We have written so much upon this silver question, endeavoring to convince our readers of the folly of tolerating a currency which almost daily is the victim of a "share," that we deem it hardly necessary now to say any more upon the subject. We have only to repeat what we have said before, that the merchants and business men bear all the inconvenience, and some part more or less of the loss, but that ultimately the greater part of the loss falls upon the industry of the country, because the merchant in self-defence is compelled to increase his percentage of profit on his goods, in order that he may be able to pay the broker's commission. The last named gentleman of course makes a profit on the silver, and certain employers who get the greater part of their returns in bankable funds make a weekly "slave" of their employees by buying silver from the broker to pay their wages. We believe that the members of the Civil Service are also in the habit of "buying silver" for current disbursements, and this proceeding is perfectly legitimate on their part, because the chances are ten to one that if they paid across the counters in bankable funds, their money would be taken at the silver rate, unless they felt disposed to huddle for the discount, which is a disagreeable task; and therefore, their only plan to get reasonable value for their money is to exchange it at the brokers, or sell it at a premium to those in search of bankable funds.

The movement in Toronto, as we have before stated, has already proved a success, and the Toronto rate of discount is being generally adopted at all the centres of trade in the West. Now, it is clear that if Eastern localities, and Ottawa among the number, should continue to accept silver at par in ordinary business transactions, they will be flooded more than ever with this depreciated currency, and the transactions of business men with the outside world will thereby be so much the more embarrassed. It is, therefore, we think, only a matter of prudence and self-defence for the business community of Ottawa, to set their faces firmly, and at once, against any longer submission to the silver nuisance. If the merchants will only act with vigor and unanimity, we are quite sure that the intelligent public will support them, because the public are really the ultimate sufferers by anything which disarranges or depreciates the currency. How quickly may have been wise policy to have quietly submitted to the inconvenience of the "silver nuisance" so long as it was tolerated in other places, it would be most impolitic now to continue to do so, and we hope our mercantile friends will make one more effort to be rid of it. A meeting should be called without delay, and for the sake of uniformity the rates of discount adopted at Toronto and other places in the West should be adopted here, and a day fixed—not very remote—for its going into general operation throughout the city.

It is reported that the Hon. Francis Hawks will hasten home from Scotland in time to try his luck in the West York election. The Englishwoman's Magazine for July has been received by Messrs. Deane & Son. It has a most attractive table of contents, and contains much that will be interesting, acceptable and instructive to Canadian women, as well as English.

people most nearly affected by the results of his policy; and if the recourse to which we have alluded results in building else, it will show by the approval with which it has been received that the people of Canada are not ungrateful to see their countrymen well-governed; and though we cannot, from the information at present at our command, go so far, we may say that the indications are, that the appointment would be a popular one.

As the time is approaching for the provincial exhibition of the City of Ottawa Agricultural Society, we should like to learn that the Directors are bestirring themselves to have a show worthy of the city and the Ottawa valley generally. What are they doing? Have they commenced to the overworking? Or is it the case that every one is waiting for every one else to move? A little information as to the labors of these gentlemen in the good cause, would be very thankfully received, as we should be glad to have an opportunity of complimenting them for their industry!

The date named for the exhibition is the 7th October, but we have heard it suggested that the early part of September, say before the 14th, the date of the Provincial Exhibition at Montreal, would be a better time. Excellent ground for the exhibition can be found in a field on Bank street, the property of Mr. McCORMACK, which we believe is now being fitted up for a race course, and arrangements can be made for the running of an omnibus between the exhibition and different parts of the city, so that visitors would have every facility for attending.

It is but reasonable that the adjoining counties should assist in procuring subscriptions and getting stock, &c., into condition for the exhibition. The intention is to make it as much as possible a "general" exhibition for this part of the country, and the Township and County organizations should assist in making it a success. The prize list will be issued in a few days, but we understand that the amounts to be awarded have not been inserted. The Directors probably not knowing precisely how much money the liberality of the public would impose upon them for distribution.

This is a very important point which ought to be determined without delay. Much of the success of the exhibition will depend upon the amount which the society will be able to set apart as prize money, and as the city will largely benefit by the influx of visitors to the city, it behoves the business community to assist liberally in getting up a creditable exhibition. We hope to hear soon that the Directors have made a direct appeal to the public at large, and that that appeal has been responded to with becoming generosity, and that the exhibition will be such as will do honor to the City of Ottawa Agricultural Society's first effort.

There is a strong disposition on the part of many of our business men to renew the effort to abate the silver nuisance, and we understand that it is under consideration to call a public meeting some day this week, to take the matter into consideration, and decide upon a definite course of action. We have written so much upon this silver question, endeavoring to convince our readers of the folly of tolerating a currency which almost daily is the victim of a "share," that we deem it hardly necessary now to say any more upon the subject. We have only to repeat what we have said before, that the merchants and business men bear all the inconvenience, and some part more or less of the loss, but that ultimately the greater part of the loss falls upon the industry of the country, because the merchant in self-defence is compelled to increase his percentage of profit on his goods, in order that he may be able to pay the broker's commission. The last named gentleman of course makes a profit on the silver, and certain employers who get the greater part of their returns in bankable funds make a weekly "slave" of their employees by buying silver from the broker to pay their wages. We believe that the members of the Civil Service are also in the habit of "buying silver" for current disbursements, and this proceeding is perfectly legitimate on their part, because the chances are ten to one that if they paid across the counters in bankable funds, their money would be taken at the silver rate, unless they felt disposed to huddle for the discount, which is a disagreeable task; and therefore, their only plan to get reasonable value for their money is to exchange it at the brokers, or sell it at a premium to those in search of bankable funds.

The movement in Toronto, as we have before stated, has already proved a success, and the Toronto rate of discount is being generally adopted at all the centres of trade in the West. Now, it is clear that if Eastern localities, and Ottawa among the number, should continue to accept silver at par in ordinary business transactions, they will be flooded more than ever with this depreciated currency, and the transactions of business men with the outside world will thereby be so much the more embarrassed. It is, therefore, we think, only a matter of prudence and self-defence for the business community of Ottawa, to set their faces firmly, and at once, against any longer submission to the silver nuisance. If the merchants will only act with vigor and unanimity, we are quite sure that the intelligent public will support them, because the public are really the ultimate sufferers by anything which disarranges or depreciates the currency. How quickly may have been wise policy to have quietly submitted to the inconvenience of the "silver nuisance" so long as it was tolerated in other places, it would be most impolitic now to continue to do so, and we hope our mercantile friends will make one more effort to be rid of it. A meeting should be called without delay, and for the sake of uniformity the rates of discount adopted at Toronto and other places in the West should be adopted here, and a day fixed—not very remote—for its going into general operation throughout the city.

It is reported that the Hon. Francis Hawks will hasten home from Scotland in time to try his luck in the West York election. The Englishwoman's Magazine for July has been received by Messrs. Deane & Son. It has a most attractive table of contents, and contains much that will be interesting, acceptable and instructive to Canadian women, as well as English.

It is reported that the Hon. Francis Hawks will hasten home from Scotland in time to try his luck in the West York election. The Englishwoman's Magazine for July has been received by Messrs. Deane & Son. It has a most attractive table of contents, and contains much that will be interesting, acceptable and instructive to Canadian women, as well as English.

The Canada Gazette of Saturday contains Her Majesty's proclamation, enjoining the strict observance of neutrality upon all British subjects in the present civil war in Japan.

MILITIA GENERAL ORDERS. HEADQUARTERS, OTTAWA, July 17, 1868. GENERAL ORDERS.

VOLUNTEER MILITIA. Montreal Brigade Garrison Artillery. To be 2nd Lieutenant, temporary, to date from 5th April, 1868: Richard Jno. Wicksteed, gentleman, M.S.

Ottawa Provisional Dragoon Garrison Artillery. No. 4 Battery. To be 1st Lieutenant, temporary: To be 2nd Lieutenant, acting till further orders: Arthur Geoffrey Malson Sprague, gentleman.

Civil Service Rifle Regiment, Ottawa. To be Lieutenant: Ernest Charles Boase, vice E. T. Tache, removed to Quebec.

To be Ensigns acting till further orders: Sergeant Joseph F. Pellant, vice Bossa, promoted. Color Sergeant James H. Rowan, vice G. H. Lane whose resignation is hereby accepted.

To be Assistant Surgeon: Edward C. Malloch, Esquire, M. D. C. M. R. C. S. To be Assistant Surgeon: Arthur Geoffrey Malson Sprague, gentleman.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR CANADA. Ottawa, 14th July, 1868. His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, has been pleased to make the following appointment, viz: The Hon. Lemuel Allen Wilmot, to be Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of New Brunswick.

His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, has been pleased to make the following appointment, viz: The Hon. Lemuel Allen Wilmot, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of New Brunswick, to be Deputy-Governor of the said Province, in the said Province, in the place and stead of Robert M. Boucher, Esquire, deceased.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR CANADA. Ottawa, 8th July, 1868. His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada has been pleased to make the following appointment, viz: Thomas Dorothy, of the township of Osnaburgh in the Province of Ontario, gentleman, to be a landing water and teacher in Her Majesty's Customs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR CANADA. Ottawa, 9th July, 1868. His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada has been pleased to make the following appointment, viz: Robert Donaldson, of Osgoode Hall, in the town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, Esquire, Barrister-at-Law, to be Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough, in the said Province, in the place and stead of Robert M. Boucher, Esquire, deceased.

LOCAL NEWS. MAGEE AND RUSSELL'S great clearing sale previous to removal continues to-day.

Don OAK JEWELLERY.—Very handsome sets of oak leaf jewelry can be had at Young & Taylor's, at 50c per set.

POSTOFFICE.—The members of No. 6 Battery are requested to take notice that their drill night for this week will be on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in place of Monday.

ANNUAL DRILL PAY.—No. 2 Company, O.P. Rifles, are ordered to parade at the drill shed this evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving their annual drill pay. See advertisement in another column.

ON PAINTING.—A fine, life-size oil painting of the illustrious dramatic artist, Macready, is on view at Mrs. Trotter's (Toronto House), and will, we are informed, be raffled for on Wednesday evening, should a sufficient number of subscribers be obtained by that time.

TWO SIBERIAN WATER.—Whilst the great majority of our people are crying more water, the good folks on the lower end of Ottawa are alarmed at the dreadful consequences to be apprehended from a pool of water in their street—a pool of filthy, stagnant water, rife with the horrors of fever and pestilence! A pool which is made the depository of filth of all kinds, and yet which the labor of six men would be sufficient to drain off in a single day, and keep dry forever. Why is it not done? Must the health of a whole city be endangered by the neglect?

GRAND PIC-NIC.—The first grand annual picnic of No. 2 O.P.B. Rifles will be held to-morrow at Bellevue Gardens. Every care has been taken, and every provision made to ensure the largest measure of success to the undertaking, and by success the managers mean the greatest possible amount of pleasure to those who visit the picnic. Gowans' band, with all its latest improvements and music, will be present. Games and amusements of various kinds, with prizes attached, will afford sufficient employment for those who delight in them.—See advertisement.

A MAN FALLS OUT OF A THREE STORY WINDOW.—On Saturday morning a man named Ringer, we believe a shopkeeper from Vaudeville, who had come to town on business, and was stopping at Mr. Chevier's hotel on St. Patrick street, finding it too warm in his bed went and sat on the window sill, where he fell last night. How long he remained there is not known, but about three o'clock he lost his balance and fell to the ground. Nothing short of nearly all his bones, neck and all being broken, could reasonably be expected. Dr. Valade was immediately called in, and found that he had sustained serious internal injury, but that no bone was broken, and no cut of any consequence on his head. The account given of his fall is, that in his descent from the third story window, his foot or some other part of his body struck the sill of the second story window, and thus, not only perpendicular line, so far as to clear the sidewalk, and to fall on the street. On Saturday evening he was getting better, and the doctor looks that with careful attention he may recover.

THE WEATHER ON SATURDAY.—Through the direct influence of the sun was felt on Saturday, the murky haze was exceedingly oppressive, and there were more workmen detained from their labors by indisposition than on any other day of the week. In fact, however, was perhaps less in consequence of Saturday's heat than the result of the preceding hot days, by which they were so much enervated. The highest range of the thermometer was 91 degrees. About five o'clock p.m. the sky began to lower, the wind blew briskly from the north, the dust rose in the streets, and was blown with some animation to the city, by a fresh shower of rain. Some faint flashes of lightning, followed by distant thunder, brought people to the doors and windows to catch the drops as they fell, and give a freshly refreshing shower cleared the heats of all, and mutual congratulations were heard on every side. Sooner after the rain ceased, nearly as hot as before there came another shower, which with the aspect of the sky left a reasonable hope that that would not be the last of it.

A GREAT SNOW COMEB.—The mammoth combination of Her Drivels' menagerie and Howe's trans-Atlantic circus, will visit this city on Monday and Tuesday, July 20th and 21st, when they will give four of their pleasing and wonderful performances. The caravan of Her Drivels, comprising eight-eighth full sets of living animals, would of itself be a sufficient attraction to insure success, as the splendid display of wild beasts, and other interesting subjects of natural history in the same pavilion, without any additional demand for admission. The animals embraced in this collection have been obtained—some at an enormous expense—from almost every region of the earth, and are said to be in the finest condition imaginable; as a menagerie, it is enough to say that Drivels' is the best travelling. We cannot add to his fame, but we can say that the menagerie is the most complete ever seen in this city, and in every respect most perfect in all its details. The press everywhere eulogizes in terms of admiration the menagerie of Mlle. Marie, a charming questioner, and principal rider, the best the world has ever produced, whose rare accomplishments make her at all times an object of admiration to the horsemen of Sig. Juan Henriquez, the wonderful Spanish lute-back rider, Mr. Ed. Watson, just arrived from England, and Master Charles Howe, the best dancing rider, or some of the distinguishing features, assisted by the wonderful dog Apollo, who will, in the lack of the pony Diana, ride a complete circle, and perform some of the most daring feats of horsemanship ever attempted by the most finished equestrian. The gymnastic exercises of this exhibition are also exceedingly strong and deserving special notice. The well renowned Gregory family, consisting of Albert, Arthur, John, James, and Victor, prodigies of strength, gymnastic dexterity, and all that constitutes the finished gymnast and acrobat. Many of the leading artists of the continent are also engaged, and you are assured in this city, and all are said to be of the highest rank in their profession. The entertainments given by the circus are such as have already acquired such a reputation for refinement and good taste that they always attract audiences of superior class. Robert Magree and J. Russell, who will perform on Monday, one hour before the circus performance begins, to give those desiring to witness them ample time to see the animals.

PAUCE COURT.—James Wilson, drunk and disorderly. The prisoner was found lying drunk on a sidewalk. He said he had been in the city but two days, and was on his way to Montreal, and that if his Worship would allow him to go, he would not remain in the city a moment; and so he was allowed to depart without fine or confinement. It was stated by one of the witnesses that the shantymen, who were on duty on Saturday, with a black eye, a man named Morrison was charged with entering the house of Mrs. Leblanc, and calling her names, when she was the assistance of another female defender of the castle, threw him out of doors, the fall resulting in sundry cuts and bruises of the face, which covered his whole head. The witness also produced evidence of defendant producing a "sweetie" in the window, he went in to purchase some for his children, and on his way home, and that a man who was then struck him, and he was knocked out of doors without intending any provocation or offence. He called on the witness, who testified to Morrison's having been attacked by a man of the house and lady beaten, the women considerably, and the witness, who testified to this till this morning. Two married ladies, the wives of brothers, whose names the respondent was not willing to disclose, had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to meet at the court on Monday morning, perhaps they will not appear this morning to make an adverse report.—Mr. Stockdale, carriage-builder, of Hudson street, was considerably surprised to find a gentleman who had been working for defendant as carriage-trimmer, for the payment of $32, the amount of wages due him. Complaining that he was not to be paid for his work, he had invoked the law for the settlement of a family feud, were sent home to arrange their difficulties, and the parties are to