We regret to learn that the cold has affected Lady Young seriously, but we are happy to receive the intelligence that she is now letter and able to leave her room for a few hours in the day.

WE understand that HIS EXCELLENCY THE ADMINISTRATOR OF THE GOVERNMENT, has leen pleased to commute the sentence death passed on CHARLES CAMP, convicted of rape, at the late Assizes for the County of Wentworth, into imprisonment in the Kingston Penttentiary for life.

Our confrere, the Citizen, not only under took the Herculean ta k of setting one of " editorial staff" to comment upon our remarks concerning the stupid blunder in th procession of the Governor-General Tuesday last; but also copied on Saturda certain comments of the Montreal Herai anent the same event. We hope our neighbour is pleased with his efforts. The dyspeptic wit of the Herald is at least readable. and while we can comfortably afford to-lister to, or read, any or all of the comments of our neighbours on our little bit of plain speaking against a piece of inexcusable stupidity, if was nothing worse, we can scarcely help expressing the regret that such an important engine as the press should be in the hands of those who deem truth-telling a crime. However, "tastes differ," and it our neighbour prefers to earth the reputation of " doing "up things smoothly" at the expense of his veracity, we have no objection to his indulging his peculiar faffey. All we have to say ple. We are far better pleased, even at the risk of offending some of those who count themselves our friends, to deserve our reputation for hones'y and plain speaking. splendid celebration with which Sir Joux Young's arrival amongst us was greeted by bate took place. our citizens; but beyond that, and within that, we were totally unconscious that any didly admits, and it goes the length obligation rested upon us to lie for the reputation of Ottawa. Of course the Citizen is older than the TIMES, and may, therefore, be | We were far more considerate, having hinted presumed to know better what suits the that by a cheap advertisement some country market, but our own success has been such schoolmaster might be induced to furnish as to fully confirm us in the wisdom of our course, even if that course does not slways for a very small reward. By way of very meet the approval of our accommodating neighbour. As to the Montreal the Leader says: Herald, we have only to express our regre that such an able journal should be subject to the chronic affliction of "a bad stomach." It is quite true, as the Herald says, that Sit John will have another opportunity of visit ing Sparks-st.; but it is very doubtful indeed if the many hundred, who were anxious to see him, and who, in obedience to the published programme, had made their arrangement accordingly, will ever have the same opportunity again, and absolutely certain that they cannot take any part in welcoming him to the Capital of the Dominion as they fully intend ed to have done. The whole matter is a little too small to bear frequent stirring, but if the Citizen likes it, let it go ahead; we surely can have no objection. Our neighbour very lucidly defined it as an "uniaten-"tional mistake;" but there is a cer tain' region that shall here be nameless which is even said to be "paved with good intentions," and we don't believe that be cause a blunder was not deliberately planned in toto to all grants in favour of superior friends. These considerations should cause damp and gloomy thatow over the colony beforehand it ought, therefore, to escape passing condemnation, no matter how Legislature said, that those who desire it ought "unintentionally" it may have been brought to pay for it themselves. about. We hope that both the Citizen and the Herald may be consoled by this brie explanation; and if they have anything say about "intentional" mistakes, we shall be glad to hear it.

THE Toronto Leader has been an earnest. consistent and influential opponent of the grants to denominational colleges. It has given too many evidences of its sincerity upon this point to leave anyone room for doubt as to the purity of its motives. Even while battling on the side of those who in former times differed from it upon this question, it was always consistent and outspoken in favour of its views; and lately, since it has had a Local Government and Legislature to endorse its sentiments, we need hardly say that it has not lost anything of its former affection for its old principles.

Now wouldn't the "gentle reader"-as polite authors used to say in the old books -imagine from what we have said of the sentiments and the course of the Leader that that journal would have been immensely | G. But that decision wasn't "anything at "all," except a bit of contemptible huncombe unworthy the intelligence da deliber ative assembly, pretending to an verage degree of common sense; and, therefore the Leader; which has been in good sober earnest upon this question, is very 'far from satisfied. This seems odd at first sight; but to have been held this morning, but given the Leader credit for sincerity in its as all those present decided on the memorial, views, because we honestly believe it has, it was not considered necessary to have any before the public, and yet the demand for it is to reward the energy and enterprise of those through a pretty lengthy career, deserved it; it has held to its convictions on this question | sent -Globe. without once making use of them to excite a party cry, or win a mere political triumph: worked on the same side with it in general is much superior to anything of the kind at politics, held opposite opinions upon this one to get from other bornels and security for life and property, while, in the bene accustomed that price, which we have been accustomed entrusted than heretofore. After felicitating itself in a somewhat wershy" fashion on the fact that aid to de-Legislature the Leader goes on to say :-

" Beyond this we confess we do not think the delate has settled much. The resolution which was adopted is too vague to accomplish invibing beyond the temporary relief it afforded the Government from the attacks of ts own political friends. And, singular enough, this relief came from a prominent sember of the Opposition. We do not know whether this is a circumstance to be thankful for or not. The sectarian aspect of the question got rid of, it would not have been amiss o have had a distinct declaration from the House upon the general question of aid to intitutions engaged in the work of superior ducation, and whether for this purpose there night's debate, and we cannot conceal from surselves, that, until it is, there will be occasion given to the sectaries to fight their battle out upon a variety."

Exactly. There is not one "line" the " variety" heretofore open to the " secsaries"-so-called-that has been closed by the empty proposition of the "eminent 'chancery barrister," who came to the rescue of the Government, to save it from the wrath of its "own political friends." The matter rests exactly where it did before, except that the absence of intelligent action on the part of the Legislature will furnish an additional incentive to fresh agitation. In coming market, cautioned the young man against putting so heavy a load on a poor, brokendown beast like that, for it was cruel in the extreme. The appearance of poor Rozinante was certainly such as to warrant the humane interference, for in every part of his body the bones stuck up as though they would come through the skin, and he looked unable to drag an empty cart. The driver laughed in the face of the horse's friend, and offered to make a bet in favor of old barebones against either of his fine young beasts in a trotting match, and did so with such an air of confidence, that after a while the farmer consented to the trial, and the bet was two dollars and a-half against a carcase of mutton.
