We present to-day, as briefly as possible, a reply to the Montreal Gazette's extraordito dele ce of the Auditor in relation to the R. FFE TEIN frauds. The Gazette says: "Wh 'e it is certain that the person most immediately and directly responsible, accor mag to official routine, was the permanent . hi f of Mr. Reiffenstein's own department, and the mast was the chief of the accountant's sie atment-the Deputy Inspector General a dead set has been somewhat unfairly made upon the Auditor of Public Accounts, as if he were the party solely and altogether at

Let our that we have been discharging a painful but from it. How could the government be made in surveying and locating three lines of rail. The interest in the Harvard and Oxford contemporary produce it. Next we find in the same Act :

" Sec. 21. It shall be the duty of the Deputy Inspector General, to prepare all money warrants on the certificate of the auditor-to countersign all Canadian debentures, Receiver General's cheques and receipts-to keep a debenture book, which shall contain a record and description interference. of all debeutures outstanding or to be issued, shewing the date of issue, period of redemption, when cancelled, and payment of interest, and also a register of Provincial Notes or Notes of the Dominion issued or cancelled, and an Interest Account :- to classify all appropriations of public moneys and keep posted up a book to be called the Appropriation Book, containing an account, under separate and distinct heads, of every such appropriation, whether permanent or temporary, enter ing under each head the amounts drawn on account of such appropriation, with the dates and names of the parties to whom Warrants are issued,-to examine and audit the accounts current of the Officers of Customs and Inland Revenue or Excise, and to keep the Public Accounts of the Dominion."

How far does this clause implicate the DEPUTY INSPECTOR GENERAL? No further than this, that he may have been bound, as the Appros pretended he was simply bound, we have a few facts in reserve to which we promise, for the behoof of our contemporary's Alexander Galt's ability, parliamentary and promise, for the behoof of our contemporary's Alexander Galt's ability, parliamentary and state that they do not need any men from abroad to come; be opposed to any plan for giving the State was continued without interruption, until be opposed to any plan for giving the State was continued without interruption. client, to give a faithful airing; and to let departmental; and yet we are not disposed to election. All acceptable for the foundations of the found enough to obtain it for all the parties impli-

Now as to the Gazette's pet, against whom "a dead set has been," according to our contemporary, "somewhat unfairly made," let us see how the law defines his duties :

" Sec. 22. It shall be the duty of the Auditor to examine, check and audit all other accounts of the receipt and expenditure of public moneys, whether appertaining to the Dominion of Canada, or received or expended by the Dominion on account of or in trust for any other party or parties; and all receipts and expenditure, which by the foregoing sections are required to be primarily audited by other members of the Beard of Audit shall nevertheless be submitted to the Auditor for final audit and Review."

Does not this clause fairly bring the account which was manipulated by REIFFEN-STEIN under the primary audit of the AUDI-TOR? If not, it certainly makes him responsible for the final audit of this, as of all other public accounts; and therefore with emment its last article—has held the Auditon ought to do so as the chief of some other deresponsible for the toleration of a long continued system of gross fraud, which the most | The projudice which still exists in Ontario ordinary supervision would have been amply competent to detect. And we believe, the Gazette to the contrary not vithstanding, that the country will endorse the almost unanimous opinion of the press, and hold the AUDITOR to account for the irregularities by himself.

So far as the law goes we have shewn the Gazette's statements to be utterly at variance opinion, and we know how impossible it is with truth. But if we had not the Gazette to counteract the jealousies between commuitself to put into the box to bear testimony to nites regarding each other as rivals, however the Auditon's gross inefficiency we should ill-founded they may be. odd. It now says the Municipalities Fund account " came in late of course, was printed and sent in without being seen, if we are " not mistaken, by either of the three deputy heads in the two Finance Departments."
