He then went on to say that his hon. friend (Mr. Ryan,) had objected to central lization as being dangerous, but in respect to the River Police, what had been the result; why that the aggregate cost of its. maintenance had been reduced from about $34,000 to $18,000 and the whole force would be maintained by the tax of 2 cents per ton upon the tonnage of the ports; and the cost of the steam boat service had been reduced about two thirds during the last three years. In the face of those economies would the hon, member say that there was no good in centralization. As to the object he had in view, he might say that it was intended to do away with the Trinity House in Montreal. but not that inQuebec; but it was proposed to merge the Montreal Board in the Harbour Commissioners; and there would be a tax levied, of one cent per ton, which would produce about $6,000, a sum amply sufficient to pay the salaries of the officers, This tax he thought was only just to the country, which should be relieved of any burden that could properly be thrown upon particular branches of trade. This proposed reform, he said, was based upon a report of the Civil Service Commission, which had not yet been published, but which would be laid before the House in a short time. Hon. Mr. SANBORN was surprised that the Minister of Marine should go over the whole ground after it had been gone over before, and refer to reports and figures which had not been placed before the members. Referring to the Bill, he said the object was evidently to take from conferred upon them by previous Acts. If done openly and clearly, and nothing should be left in doubt. But the Minister of Marine proposed to take away the functions while leaving the salaries. If the boards had their functions taken away, the salaries should be taken away also. He was afraid that the Bill would leave the door open for the creation of offices and the increase of expenditure.

The Committee then rose, and reported progress and the House adjourned.
