

tion being paid to their presentations [hear]. Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD reinter- preted his language had been misre- ported. The Government were endeavoring to restore peace and order; and they would do right if they were not to do this. He did not wish to provoke further discussion until the Bill was presented to the House for its consideration.

the only measures of importance now on paper, were the North West Bill, Supreme Court Bill, and Supplementary Estimates. He thought the House would be glad to see some prospect of bringing the session to a close [hear, hear].

British and extol everything green or grey in Ireland to the very skies. They may say to them to white over deceased patriots and defunct heroes, and to rejoice over a disorder, destroying the land which they pretend to love; but it is the business of the Government of the United States to prevent the departure of anything in the shape of a military force from their soil to act with hostile intent upon either its or any other soil with the Government of which it is a part. It may be that it is temporarily these raids, or pretended raids, are costly to us, or that they may be claims by Canada against the people of the United States; but they are not so much blinded with sympathy for Ireland's wrongs as to do a greater wrong to themselves by winking at the rascality of those who increase while they pretend to lessen the wrongs of which they are eternally complaining.

PARLIAMENTARY SUMMARY. Ottawa, May 5th, 1870. The SPEAKER took the Chair at 3:20 p.m. The House went into Committee of Supply. Hon. Col. GRAY in the Chair. Hon. Sir FRANCIS HINKES referred to the item of $12,146.41 for printing, binding and distributing, and said that the reason why it was larger this year than last, was because last year there was no estimate made for distributing. Mr. MACKENZIE said nevertheless this was a large sum for distributing, and he would like to have a detailed statement of account which this estimate was designed to cover.

than that happy prospect of peace should be marred. He asserted that the Hon. Minister of Justice did not do the appropriate thing to come under the act showing that any unappropriated funds at the end of the year should fall back into the hands of the Government, and he thought the appropriation should be reduced. Mr. JONES (Leeds) thought the appropriation was small enough, and if made any smaller after the expenses of the day it would be a great saving. He thought the British Government had a right to give them any assistance. He thought it was a right to have full explanation of the arrangements of the Imperial Government with regard to this expedition, and before the appropriation was put to a vote full details should be made. The House did not know on what ground three-quarters of the number of the cost of the expedition should be borne by the Government of the United Kingdom, and one-quarter by the Imperial Government. He thought it was a right to have full explanation of the arrangements of the Imperial Government with regard to this expedition, and before the appropriation was put to a vote full details should be made. The House did not know on what ground three-quarters of the number of the cost of the expedition should be borne by the Government of the United Kingdom, and one-quarter by the Imperial Government.

which was worse than a crime. He asserted that the officials who had been sent out as Surveyors had contributed to the difficulty, and the copying of the maps by the Hon. Minister of the Interior, in the presence of the Hon. Secretary of State for the Provinces on the 10th of March, was a crime. He thought the Minister of the Interior should be held responsible for the actions of the Surveyors, and he thought the Minister of the Interior should be held responsible for the actions of the Surveyors. He thought the Minister of the Interior should be held responsible for the actions of the Surveyors, and he thought the Minister of the Interior should be held responsible for the actions of the Surveyors.

Office of P. O. Druggists Exchange Office, 100 Sparks Street. TORONTO. Toronto, May 5, 1870. According to the accounts returned to the Board of Health yesterday by the city assessors, the total amount of real and personal property in 1870 being a decrease of $1,315,915 as compared with 1869. The population numbers 49,325 which gives an increase during the year of 2,309. The anniversary meeting of the Canada Bible Society was held last evening in Knox Hall. The Rev. Mr. Allan presided. The report showed receipts from the sales to be $9,563, contributions and subscription $14,255, balance from the year 1869, $10,315, and $261,397. Hon. G. M. Allan presided. Hon. G. M. Allan presided. Hon. G. M. Allan presided.

LOCAL NEWS. The Ottawa Spring Session of the City Council was held last evening in the City Hall. The Mayor, Mr. G. M. Allan, presided. The report showed receipts from the sales to be $9,563, contributions and subscription $14,255, balance from the year 1869, $10,315, and $261,397. Hon. G. M. Allan presided. Hon. G. M. Allan presided. Hon. G. M. Allan presided.

NOTICE TO WEEKLY SUBSCRIBERS TO THE DAILY TIMES.

From to-day, American silver will only be accepted in payment of subscriptions at the legal rates of 40 cents for the Daily and 20 cents for the quarterly dollar, but to obviate as such as possible any inconvenience that may arise, the WEEKLY subscribers will be only called upon fortnightly, when a Quarter Dollar Dominion Note may be paid instead of silver.

SKETCH OF THE NORTH WEST OF AMERICA BY Hon. Thomas, Bishop of St. Boniface, 1842.

From Messrs. Dorr & Coy, Stationers, Sparks-street, we have received a copy of the excellent and reliable publication, of which the gallant translator thus speaks:—"The deep interest which now attaches to everything connected with the North West Territory, induces the translator to hope that this work may not be unacceptable to the public."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Opening New Establishment—C. F. Dorton. See Majesty's Theatre—Marshall's London Comedy and Burlesque Troupe. Ottawa City Passenger Railway Company—R. S. Sutton.

Buy your Carpets, Floor Oil Cloths, Curtains and Cornices from

MACKAY & RUSSELL, 126 1/2

The Ottawa Times

FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1870. For interesting news Matter see First Page; for Ottawa Markets see Fourth Page.

FENIAN PRINTS.

The item of $200,000 in the Supplementary Estimates, on account of Fenianism, led to some remarks in the House of Commons on Wednesday evening last, in reference to the expenses incurred, to guard against or to prevent the incursions into Canada of this most detestable of all organizations. It was justly supposed that if the movement of a few thousands of men should have caused so large an expenditure in Canada the expenditure of a Fenian army of invasion must be considerable, and that the Fenians might be so costly to them, if inconvenient to us, as to be one grand means of demoralizing and ultimately destroying the organization. Two or three more "scores," while only a costly annoyance to this Dominion, would assuredly have the effect of completely extinguishing the Fenians themselves. No more bloodless plan of exterminating the Fenian could possibly be devised than repeated raids, or pretended raids, rather, against Canada. All the money, which an interested hatred of the conquering and tyrannical Anglo-Saxon, could produce by the most powerful appeals to prejudice will not be sufficient to maintain the chiefs of the order in anything like comfort if these "scores" be repeated. This kind of annoyance, indeed, is beyond the power of the "brotherhood" to frequently indulge in. Canada, however, can survive a great many of such "scores."

PUBLIC REVENUE AND AUDIT.

A Bill to amend the Act respecting collection and management of the duties of public accounts and the Act of public accounts, passed through Committee.

THE ELECTION BILL.

Hon. Sir J. A. MACDONALD then moved the discharge of the order for the election bill. He said that the public interests would be better served by postponing it for another session, as there would be in all probability an appeal to the people until the present Parliament met again. The Government had the advantage, and it was a very great one of having some of the principles of the Bill very fully discussed. He would have been glad to see the Government get the opinion of the House on the various series of propositions, but they were stopped by an amendment which struck at the whole Bill. He regretted that the franchise clause had been discussed, and every possible objection and suggestion for amendment had been brought forward. The Bill, however, had not been discussed, and he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

HON. SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD—Two or three nights. He was very anxious to speak on it, but did not have an opportunity, and if the Government were to have the Bill, he thought it would be better to leave it until the next year, as he had hoped to get the Bill through in the present session.