his discrimination in favor of Dr. Commerce of one of the contending parties over th... country of the other, must be noble to a upon all other articles. If it of the contending p... powers also agree not to acquire, fortify, hold or exercise dominion over any territory through which the canal may pass, and the whole is not to be used by the Government treaty.

Across from California Bay to the 10th in-last go far to prove that the idea of a ca... along the line will have to be abandoned. Lake Nicaragua is navigable for vessels of the largest class, and will be connected with the Pacific Ocean by a canal 16 miles in length. The level of the ocean on the Pacific side is 9 feet higher than that of the Atlantic, and the difference in the height of the lake above the ocean is 110 feet. The level of the lake is 150 feet above the ocean, including the Mississippi, Mr. Marshall Roberts and Mr. Moses Taylor, have been in Washington petitioning for a Government survey of the line, and we trust it will be accomplished this year. But whether that route be found the best, or whether we are obliged to fall back upon the original route through Nicaragua, the canal we must have; and it cannot be constructed except under the guarantees of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

The Hens in Council.

BY G.S. LAMONT.

From the Scottish American.

Published at the request of a Scottish friend, who respectfully dedicates it to "A Bye Blaw."

Turner's tumult in the hen-coop,
There's clockin' on the rail
Is this a fowl proceedin',
Or isn't a ladies sale?
Mobinks I'll softly enter—
What's this? Some scartin' here?
"The Clockin' Hens' Convention—
Nae rooster neck appear.

Lush! what a fearfu' talkin'
I'll stand here by the door—
An ancient hen is clockin',
And now she has the floor,
Her neck looks rather withered,
Her feathers much decayed
That cob is slightly redder
Than when she was a maid.

Out spoke this ancient layer—
Her voice was thin and shrill—
"My sisters, O my sisters,
This nae will make me ill
To hear I'm not a chicken,
"I'm twenty-one the day."
"Her twenty!—sic a leg'er"—
I heard a wee hen say.

She cough-ed and she cough-ed—
She couldna speak, puir thing—
Out cam' a wee bit bottle
Frae underneath her wing.
"Ma freens, I'll tak' my mixture
Afore our woos I tell."
"I heard a whisper, "Speerits.
I ken it by the smell."

"The subject of my lecture
Is on our rights ye ken—
Tis time that we were crowin'.
As sure as I'm a hen.
Too long has we been hatchin'
For other people's shelves—
The time's arrived, my sisters,
To hatch eggs for ourselves.

"Shall we gie a' our scrapins
To feed anither's maw,
And has him crowin' awre us
A steppin' o' our jaw?
Let us be slaves nae longer,
Far better let us die"—
"I want to be a rooster,"
I heard a maiden say.

"I hate the stuck up monsters,
Who strut, and fume, and fret,
And think we puir females
Are only made to pet.
Thank guidness I has never
Yet listened to their crow"—
"Because," remarked a chicken,
"You never had a beau."

"The day is no' far distant,
Instead of 'cousin mine,'
Our motto shall be altered
To 'cousin recti hens.'
When we shall walk in freedom,
And strut around the street,
Wi' kames upon our noddles,
And spurs upon our feet.

"When we shall hae our Henate,
Composed o' female brains,
To legislate on bonnets,
And regulate our trains.
We'll hae our lawyers, doctors,
Our commerces and our trade.
And ev...he horrid monster"—
"Don't say it," said a maid.

"Of course we can't ignore them.
Altho' we cease their yoke;
We'll keep some bonnie roosters
Who nither drink nor smoke
Noo hand around the saucer,
We're finished for to-day—
Three chicks for female suffrage"—
"Ha!—chick!—erick!—eray!"

She ceased, and as she hobbled
Upon the spar below,
An ancient eggin' rooster
Set up an awfu' crow—
"Gang hame ye clockin' grannies,
Ye've got yer wark to do—
Gang hame and mind the chickens—
A-cock-a-doodle-doo!"

Oh, sic a fearfu' clockin'
Was never heard afore,
Each spinster and each granny
Made an rush for the door.
And thus I thought, "Oh woman,
God sent you here below
To help your fellow mortal,
To bless him, not to crow."

"Queen's Birthday was kept in the usual loyal style last month, and next month the natives of the Dominion of Canada will celebrate the birth of their new and rising existence; while invalids still feel that a public holiday would be too short to celebrate all the virtues of that celebrated Indian Medicine, the great Mohawk Remedy, now on sale by the respectable druggists in your locality.

Is Health Worth Having?—If it is protect it well as it is jewels—easily lost as virtue, and it many cases as difficult to recover. In this climate, and more particularly at this season of the year, people are very apt to take cold and suffer from sore throat, coughs, spitting of blood and pulmonary complaints generally which if not checked immediately lead to serious consequences. The question arises which is the quickest and most effectual remedy?

—The efficacy of Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers in Sore Coughs, Colds, and all Bronchial affections on meeting the afflicted, has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where these marvellous Wafers are known, they bear down opposition and eclipse all rivalry; the demand for them has steadily increased for the last twenty years, until now the sales average over hundred thousand boxes a year. Eminent members of the medical profession without number attest that they know of no preparation producing such beneficial results as these Wafers. When taken in season they affect a permanent cure. Sold by every druggist and most of the respectable stores through at the Province, at 25 cents per box.

—Maravilla Cocoa.—For Breakfast—The "Globe" says:—"Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoas, but we doubt whether any thoroughly success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocoa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedes every other Cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the nutrient elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocoa above all others. For homeopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage." Sold in packets only by all grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor Brothers' Pure Cocoa, at Homœopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate, 10 Adam Mills—British Lease, London Eng.

NEW PHASE OF FREE LOVE.

A Personal Advertisement and What Came of It—A Married Lothario Wants Another Man's Wife

From the New York Sun.

Scarcely has the excitement which surrounded the McFarland case begun to abate than we are called upon to chronicle another instance of the teachings of passional affinity, which, of late years, have been so insidiously inculcated in the minds of the American people. Although unattended with the fatal consequences of the Tribune affair, the present case is no less significant and worthy of note, in making the ruinous spread of free love doctrines; and while it may have differed from the former so widely as to have terminated in an ingeniously concocted joke, its moral must similarly impress us of the dangers which now threaten our social system.

A FREE LOVE ADVERTISEMENT.

Some two weeks ago an advertisement appeared in the columns of a morning newspaper, under the head of "Personal," which ran thus:—

"A young married gentleman, of ample means, is desirous of forming the acquaintance of a young lady similarly situated, or more so. Address "Cupid," box 243, N. Y. Post Office.

The significance of such a "want," expressed through public print, and while the principle which underlays it was being brought promptly before the popular view, could not be mistaken. It might have been a bait thrown out by some wag to test the extent of the evil which sent Richardson to his grave, and placed McFarland on the trial of his life; but, at all events, it was a scandalous parade of the worst form of elective affinities. A few days after the appearance of the advertisement, the advertiser received bids for his new fancy-less affections. How many we are unable to say; nor with what misgivings or confidence he absorbed their contents, is, and we presume must ever to us remain a mystery. One thing we do know, that among the candidates to share his "ample means," he selected one whose story of the domestic wrongs she was then suffering at the hands of a cruel and intemperate husband—pen pictured in sweet and delicate phraseology—led him to give her the preference. The letter of this favoured fair one was as follows:—

A LETTER WHICH SHOULD HAVE BEEN READ AT THE M'FARLAND TRIAL

New York, May 3, 1870.

Sir:—Should you be sincere in the desire expressed in your advertisement, I have no objection to discuss the matter with you. Of course, the conventionalities of the age would be shocked at my action, as no doubt many people are of yours, but those conventionalities have not provided means by which incompatibility in the marriage state can be remedied, and hence, since every kind of wrong has been my portion during the few years I have lived with a man made odius by his conduct towards me, I have always held myself justified to employ any honorable means offered me to effect my rescue from a hapless condition.

The married state is no doubt a happy one; but where experience has shown the utter absence of sympathy between the husband and wife, I believe the divine sanction has been denied it. What have been my miseries—unheeded, heaven knows, in my case—I withhold for the present. You shall know all, should circumstances require me to tell you. I presume you have good reasons for withdrawing your affections from another. That they are perfectly good is a necessary condition of the transfer of mine to you.

Meantime, should you desire to continue this correspondence, you will freely define your position, and address me at 26 East Twentieth street, by the name [assumed] which I subscribe.

LUCY MORPETH.

P. S.—Do not call personally under any circumstances.

In order to clear away a part of the mystery which would now seem to gather upon our narrative, we may here state that the above letter of Lucy Morpeth was the production of an ingenious wag, employing as his ammenuensis an equally waggish little spinster; but that the "advertiser" was performing his part in all manner of sincerity. Hence, upon receipt of the epistle, his ecstacy knew no bounds, and with as little as possible, he replied in the following terms:

THE FREE LOVER'S REPLY.

New York, May 4—Evening.

Dear Madam:—Among the replies which I have received to my advertisement I have selected yours only, to which I wish to respond. It is a reflection of all that I desire in a woman—education, sympathy, and that lofty ideality of life which is so little appreciated by those content to be in those ruts which a temporary fate may have consigned them to. You wish me to define my position. I hasten to do so, in proof of the anxiety which I already feel to possess your heart.

I have been married over three years to a woman who was but an ignorant servant girl, without a single quality to make a man happy. Every day we had quarrelled until I felt myself compelled to leave her. She has a sister in Williamsburgh, to whom I discovered she was continually transmitting my money; and another, a native of Bellevue Hospital, who had also enjoyed the fruits of her liberality. To a man anxious to raise in the world this is simply intolerable.

But above all this, I never liked the woman; and as you have put it so nicely, and as so many honourable and respectable persons have proved, I cannot see that any law, human or divine, could compel me to live with her. The resolution I have arrived at, and am now engaged in making preparations to make the separation final. I know that there are several good married women similary situated; hence, in rescuing one from misery I have done a double service.

As I have stated, my means are ample. I have been engaged in the shoe and leather business for the last two years, and have amassed a considerable amount of money. Before that time, I was comparatively humble in circumstances, but by industry I have thus advanced myself. You can now see what are your chances in linking your fortunes with mine.

I shall say no more at present, but wait impatiently for an interview, which I trust you will grant me soon. Although you withhold yours, I give you my name and address in full. Yours with all affection,

GEO. D. S——,
Metropolitan Hotel.

THE RESULT—A TRAP.

This gushing epistle, with its name and address in full (which we prudently withhold), was in due time conveyed by the postman to the address indicated by "Lucy." He rang the bell, and was answered by one of the junior domestics.

"Lucy Morphet?" shouted the postman, as postmen shout.

"That's me," nervously replied the girl, her eyes indicating a wonderful suspense.

The missive was handed her, and rushing down stairs, thence to a retired corner of the kitchen, began to wonder through the mysterious rounded periods which it contained. When Lucy had finished she was just as well instructed upon its meaning as when she began. Like a good faithful domestic she thought something wrong, and at once placed the letter in the hands of her employer. The pater familias was a respectable merchant tailor, and when he had read it, it was apparent that it was somewhat more intelligible to him.

"Ah, yes," mentally ejaculated the gentlemen, "Geo. D. S—— in a new role!"

He said nothing to any one; but when next left to go down town there was a mischievous twinkling in his eye.

Last Friday evening was an eventful one to George. On that night he was to interview his prospective wife. The merchant tailor returned home at an early hour and instructed Lucy Morpeth to usher her suitor into his room when he should call that evening. George did call as was expected, dressed faultlessly, but instead of meeting a discontented wife with a brutal husband, he found himself in the presence of an old acquaintance whom he had no desire to see.

HOW A TAILOR GOT HIS MONEY.

"How do you do?" was the blandishment salutation of the tailor.

But George was speechless. We don't know whether he became ashy pale, or that the hat he held in his hand fell from his nervous grasp. But certainly the meeting to him was as undersirable as it was unexpected.

"Let me save you some trouble," pursued the tailor. "Before you proceed to the immediate business of your visit to this house, which will be conducted between you and the husband of the woman you have corresponded with, I have to request you to liquidate this little bill of $37 for that suit of clothes you obtained of me last fall. As you are now blessed with ample means, it must give you but little inconvenience."

Learning that an indignant husband was waiting for him—a McFarland in prospect—he was glad of any chance to escape, so he paid the Bill, and with more alacrity than grace, beat a hasty retreat.

The mind governs the muscles through the nervous system, as the telegraph apparatus is influenced by a remote operator through the wire. If the mind is impaired by age or disease, the muscles are made to perform strange or unnecessary acts; but if the nervous system is diseased, the muscles of the Stomach, Liver, Heart, Lungs and Genital Organs, are sure to suffer, and from their inaction produce Dyspepsia, Disease of the Heart, Weak Lungs and General Debility, with their accompanying trains of evil and resulting diseases.

A Diseased Nervous System, Vitiated Blood, Bad Digestion and Weak Lungs, always precede Consumption.

By the timely use of Fellows' Compound Hypophosphites the nerves regain their vigor, the brain becomes clear and powerful, the muscles healthy, Dyspepsia a disease of the past, the heart's regular action is restored, the blood made pure, the lungs strong, and all the functions of the body are brought up to a healty standard.

We are enabled to state the above on the most convincing testimony.

Sold by apothecaries. Price $1.50 per bottle or 6 for $7.50.

Sarsaparilla,

KING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from the cures, many of which are truly marvellous. In extreme cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues to expel

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen agent is tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develop into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles, Langour and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect o'er the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a LAXATIVE Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its compositions. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Langour and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.
