LOCAL NEWS.

Dr. Magnuse Fluid relieves headache immediately.

The Market, Yesterday, was the smallest we have seen for some time past. There were not more than a dozen waggons on the stand.

Strawberries.—Look out for strawberries next week. The Zebl straw berries are getting ripe already, a fortnight earlier than in last.

Ottawa Senior Railway.—The work on the street railway is being rapidly proceeded with, and early next month the road will be in a proper condition for the running of cars.

The Crops.—The crops, especially the crops of hay, are reported as looking very well for this season of the year. The continued dry weather has parched the ground to such an extent as to retard the growth of all kinds of grain and grasses.

Rifle Rules.—We are authorized to state that the band of this regiment was not practicing on Sunday afternoon, as stated by a correspondent in yesterday's issue. Only a few of the men were practising sacred music under the leadership of the Bugle Major.

Survey or Lumber.—The quantity of lumber sawed and shipped by Messrs Wright & Bates, during the week ending June 4th, was as follows: sawed, 380,000 feet Shipped, 819,919 feet. The mills were only running four days. Fourteen barges are loading at the docks.

Synod of the Diocese of Ontario.—The Service, with Holy Communion will be held at Christ's Church this morning at ten o'clock, the sermon to be preached by the Rev. J. A. Murlock, of Napan. The Synod will meet for business in the afternoon at three o'clock, in the Chapel House, Sussex Street.

Ottawa Branch of the loyalty and patriotism of the people of Canada occurred during the Fenian excitement. Mr. Wallace Bruce of North Gower, volunteered his services to do duty as a private in Captain Oakley's Company No. 4 of the 43rd Battalion. His conduct was so thoroughly appreciated by the officers, that he was given the rank of Colour Sergeant.

Concert.—A large amount of provisions was received after the lunch given by A. Lyon, M.P., and others to the Carleton prisoners, has been given by Mr. Champagne to the two charitable institutions, the Hospital, and Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum. Five of the boys of those institutions were engaged all day yesterday in carrying the provisions down to their institutions in baskets and wheelbarrows.

Arrivals at the Russell House.—Monday 6th.—W. Stafford, Montreal; H. McLaren Buckingham; W. N. Ostell, Hartford; Judge Jarvis, Cornwall; J. Lovell, Pembroke; T. S. Wills, Union Place; Henry Taylor Montreal; H. Hachin, Arnprior; Walton Smith, Quebec; T. H. Johnston, Toronto; James Elliot, Pembroke; Willis Coates, Quebec; H. Block, New York; J. Hagan St. John, N. B.; J. Osborne, Sandwich; W. Gliddon, Montreal.

O'Neil and Policeman Punard dragged all day yesterday in dragging the canal below Mr. Gilmour's residence with grappling irons, for the body of Mr. Bolton. They lost one set of their irons and found an anchor chain about 40 feet in length, but did not find any trace of the missing man. Several young men, at different times during the day, spent considerable time in diving in different parts of the canal, but without any success.

Arrivals.—Steamer Mac went down yesterday with six barges freighted with lumber.

Steamer Carribou cleared with eight barges of lumber.

Steamer England came up yesterday light.

The Ald goes down to-day with ten barges, freighted with lumber, from the yards of Messrs. Perley & Patteo. We are informed this cargo is shipped for the Quebec market.

Police Court.—Yesterday George Wilson and his wife were charged with being found drunk on the public streets. Wilson pleaded that he and his wife were only a few days out from England, and that at the time he and his wife became intoxicated, they were not aware of the strength of Canadian whisky, especially when it followed a dose of beer. On account of their ignorance on that point, His Worship thought it proper to discharge them with a little admonition to beware of Canadian beer.

T. Cameron was charged with assaulting his wife. The case was adjourned till this morning.

Barry Hick and James Hogg were charged with discharging fire-works and endangering the property of the citizens of Ottawa. As neither of the men made their appearance in Court when called, warrants were issued for their arrest. Mr. Hick, however, made his appearance before the Court was closed, and answered to the charge. The fire-works were merely part of the ceremonies of wrestling, and he was not aware that it was contrary to the by-laws of the city. His Worship Mr. O'Gara, thought differently, and Mr. Hick had to pay a fine.

The Fête of the St. Jean Baptiste Society.—This day, at 4 p.m., a meeting of the Society was held in the Canadian Institute Hall for the purpose of making arrangements for the celebration of the approaching fête day of its members, but principally with a view to affording succor to the sufferers by the late disastrous fires at Lake St. John and the Saguenay. It was resolved that a collection should be observed in the Churches on that day, and that the funds generally on such occasion should be appropriated to alleviating the condition of the unfortunate families whose homes were destroyed in the conflagration. The Presidents delivered an effective address, describing in a feeling manner the sufferings of the poor people, and in which they exhorted all to subscribe—according to his means—toward the fund. At the end of the meeting the Committees were nominated to collect throughout the city. "All the money collected will be sent to the Bishop of Quebec, who will distribute it among the sufferers.

Result of the Charivari at Thurso.—In one of our issues of last week we give what may now be called the preliminary doings in this affair; we shall now give the denouement. We mentioned that one of the charivarists had been wounded by the contents of the gun which Joubert discharged into the crowd, and it appears the unfortunate young man is a son of Mr. Cameron, of that place. The next day, in spite of the entreaties of his wounded son, who said he had received nothing more than he merited, his father caused Joubert to be arrested. Joubert was brought before the Justice of the Peace, who ordered him to be liberated on the ground that he had fired in self defence. When the crowd outside the Court were informed of the decision of the magistrate, they immediately began to concert means of taking a severe revenge. Joubert, aware of their intention, asked to be protected home, which one McLean succeeded in doing. They had, however, scarcely entered the house, when a band of the more infuriated came up and demanded that Joubert be delivered to them. The latter wished to go out, but was prevented doing so by McLean who gave him a revolver and secreting him in the cellar ordered him to fire without pity on any one who should attempt to go down. The crowd entered the house, and having searched all the rooms in vain, one Nash attempted to go down into the cellar, when he received a bullet in the region of the heart and another in the thigh. One Ross was also slightly wounded.

Seeing him so well armed and prepared to defend himself the crowd left carrying with them their wounded.

Joubert, consulting his safety, lost no time in decamping for Ottawa, and it was well for him, as in a few hours the company returned with reinforcements, and in their rage completely ransacked and destroyed Joubert's house and its contents as well as that of a neighbour whom they suspected of sheltering Joubert.

It is probable that Cameron and Nash will succumb to the effect of their wounds. Thus have we another example of the almost invariably tragic end of those Charivaries. In the present case two persons will pay with their lives for a moment of disgraceful folly, and an honest workman is obliged to abandon at great loss the place where he was gaining a livelihood for his family, in order that he may escape a certain death.

We direct the attention of the judicial authorities to this matter.

Irish Representation in the Cabinet.

From the Canadian Freeman.

Last week we remarked upon the recent appointments of the Hon. A. J. Archibald to the Governorship of Manitoba, and Hon. E. Kenny as Administrator of the Government of Nova Scotia, during the absence of Sir Hastings Doyle. These appointments are highly creditable to the judgment and discrimination of the Government. It will doubtless be gratifying to many Irishmen beyond the confines of the Dominion to learn of the Hon. Mr. Kenny's elevation to the high position conferred upon him; but his promotion creates a vacancy in the Senate and another in the Cabinet, both of which it may no doubt be properly contended should be filled up from Nova Scotia. Against this there is nothing in fairness to be objected, but we submit, as a matter of even-handed justice, whether it is not time that the powerful Catholic body of the West should not have some recognition in the Senate and the Executive? The question may not have much importance in the eyes of those, who, being themselves indifferent to, and unaffected by, class distinctions, do not see the consequences to others differently situated; but we have frequently called attention to the inadequate Catholic representation in the Government of late years, and have endeavoured to point out the reasons which might inspire our friends who have the chief direction of affairs, to apply a remedy. There is one member of the Canadian House of Commons from a far western constituency—Essex—who won his position by sheer dint of his own personal strength, not only unaided, but it is generally believed even opposed by Government influences. Yet, as he sought the confidence of the electors as a Conservative and an independent supporter of the Union party, he has proved by his votes and speeches in the House to have been not only a consistent but an able supporter of the Government. Mr. John O'Connor has many qualities to commend him as an able departmental head; a man of clear logical mind, a sound lawyer, and from his professional experience intimately acquainted with commercial affairs, while his parliamentary experience, though not very long measured by the number of years he sat in the House, has been improved by his not unfrequent contests for the seat which he had fairly won more than once before, though from various causes deprived of it. His old antagonist, Mr. Arthur Rankin, has dug his own political grave, crawled into it, and raked the earth over him, through his Red River escapade, and the letters he has written since its failure; so that Mr. O'Connor in his own county is undoubtedly a strong man, and if going back, with the prestige of Ministerial office, would be perfectly secure in his position. For these considerations, and because it is discouraging to Irish Catholics to be without a single representative in a Government under which they form so large a proportion of the population, we take the liberty of suggesting the name of the member for Essex as a deserving politician of the Liberal Conservative school, who in addition to his fair claims, on personal grounds, and his undoubted qualifications, would have the merit of representing the Irish Catholic element at the Privy Council Board. The progress of events may open the way to the leading Ministers to fulfil the general desire of the Irish Catholic body to have at least one representative in the Cabinet. When not unmindful of the promotion of Mr. Kenny, they cannot but remember that his elevation takes him away from the Senate and the Privy Council Chamber: and while they do not anticipate that at his time of life he would willingly consent to return to either, they are all the more disposed to consider from what direction may be drawn that representation in both to which they believe themselves to be fairly entitled. The point to which we have directed attention is not one we should like to see made the subject of frequent newspaper discussion; but there are times when it would be unfair in our allies and unjust to our friends to be silent. In the general aim of securing at least a moderate Irish Catholic representation in the Government, we bespeak the wish of the whole of that community; and if we have made free with one gentleman's name, it is only because he has already fairly earned the position, and because we believe his appointment would prove eminently satisfactory.

The Fenian Insult.

From the Pittsburg Commercial.

Americans are regarded by others, and, we believe, by themselves, as a proud people. Even those who say that we have more vanity than the English, do not in consequence, as they ought to do, give us credit for more humility. On the contrary, these revilers who charge us with being vain as a peacock, also insist that as a nation we are proud even to arrogance, or like Miss McBride in Saxe's witty poem, "the very personification of pride." We confess that this imputation has never seemed to us particularly offensive. While in individuals pride is decidedly objectionable, in a nation it seems the almost necessary result of the qualities that entitle a people to the respect of the world. And for some time our chief concern has been the suspicion that our eulogists and our revilers have been equally mistaken in ascribing to us so large a portion of the virtue which is really only another name for national self-esteem. The misgivings of which we speak rest upon several grounds. To enumerate them would require an essay, and only a paragraph can be devoted to the subject. Therefore only one of these grounds of misgiving can be mentioned. Was a nation ever before so grossly insulted as the American people have been repeatedly insulted by the Fenian organization within the last six years? The wrongs of Ireland and the crimes of England, whether committed against Ireland or the United States, form no apology for the outrage upon the American Government and nation of which these Fenians are guilty. With England we are at peace, and while pacific relations continue, every principle of decency and policy forbids the American people to countenance the Fenian proceedings. In this view of propriety and duty almost the entire American people are of one mind. But these Fenians are American citizens, or claim to be, and, in absolute contempt of the general sentiment of the country which has given them a refuge from oppression, in open defiance of our laws and treaty obligations they organize a pretended independent government on its soil, and wage war upon England. The only sort of success possible to the organization is a raid of plunder and murder. The mere agitation of the subject, from the nature of its objects is an affront to the people among whom it is carried on. It is an insult because it defies the common sense of morality and decency, and because it inevitably compromises and degrades us in the estimation of all civilized nations. In another point of view it is still worse. Whatever the course the American Government may take with respect to it, or however aid in arresting its nefarious schemes, the effect of the movement is to complicate the already delicate and difficult questions in controversy between England and the United States. The people of this country are tired of war, and surely they do not desire war with Great Britain, if honor can be maintained in peaceful ways. But the purpose and earnest wish of these Fenians are to involve us in such a war. Should they succeed, the effect would be to vitiate our cause, by identifying it in part with men and methods of action abhorred by the Christian world. For all these and other reasons an obvious suggestion of American pride and self-respect would seem to be to frown upon and by mere moral force to put down this miserable and disreputable agitation. But however generally disapproved of, it has not been thus met. The insult offered to the moral sense and intelligence of the American people is borne with indifference or treated as a joke, or still more frequently, it enlists a certain sympathy as the exciting sensation of the day. The reception of so inexcusable an insult in this manner is by no means indicative of extraordinary pride either of character or principle in the American people. Instead of being one of the proudest we must be one of the meekest nations on earth.

The Supreme Court of one state of New York have issued a perpetual injunction against Eaton and Jenkins for counterfeiting Ayer's Cathartic Pills, holding them responsible for the cruel imposition in what they have done and restraining them from further like injury to the public. or any class of our people more than another need the interposition of law to shield them from imposture, it is the sick and suffering who are unable to protect themselves. A remedy so universally employed as Ayer's Pills by all classes, both to cure and prevent disease, should as it does, have every security the law can afford from counterfeit and imitation.—Cabinet, Schenectady.

Everybody says So.—That is all who has ever used the article themselves or witnessed its effects when used by others; all such, and they are only fit to judge, are unanimous in the opinion that "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Invigorating Remedy" is superior to anything of the kind heretofore or at present in use for coughs, colds, thick wind, and all diseases which affect the wind of horses. As a condition medicine it has no equal; there is nothing in it which can injure a horse whether sick or well—nor need the horse be kept from working while using it; it is just the article which all who own horses require, and which they should have constantly on hand. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd and Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada.

Marravilla Cocoa.—For Breakfast.—The "Globe" says:—"Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoas, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Marravilla' Cocoa. Adopting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedes every other Cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocoa above all others. For homœopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage." Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor Brothers, as at Homœopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate. Essex Mills—Brick Lane, London Eng.

The mind governs the muscles through the nervous system, as the telegraph apparatus is influenced by a remote operator through the wire. If the mind is impaired by age or disease, the muscles are made to perform strange or unnecessary acts; but if the nervous system is diseased, the muscles of the Stomach, Liver, Heart, Lungs and Genital Organs, are sure to suffer, and from their inaction produce Dyspepsia, Disease of the Heart, Weak Lungs and General Debility, with their accompanying trains of evil and resulting diseases.

A Diseased Nervous System, Vitiated Blood, Bad Digestion and Weak Lungs, always precede Consumption.

By the timely use of Fellows' Compound Hypophosphites the nerves regain their vigor, the brain becomes clear and powerful, the muscles healthy, Dyspepsia a disease of the past, the heart's regular action is restored, the blood made pure, the lungs strong, and all the functions of the body are brought up to a healthy standard.

We are enabled to state the above on the most convincing testimony.
