Precautionary measures by the British Government for the protection of foreign residents in China appear to be in progress. The Bombay Gusette informs us that there have been four large fessels chartered by Government for the transport of troops thither. They are the steamers Bellona (1,430 tons) and Mauritius (1,341), and the ships Calcutta (2,080) and Queen of Australia (1,238). The 13th Regiment of Native Infantry, at present at Cannapore, are to leave for China. It is by orders from England that the embarkation of the former has been expedited, and we may conclude that the Home Government wants to have a stronger force there than at present.
