The Minister of Public Works will arrive here to-day.

It is stated that the reported interview between General Schenck, the new U.S. Minister to England, and a reporter, an account of which was telegraphed to the Canadian press a day or two since, never took place.

A letter received from Paris, and dated Dec. 10th, says:

"We have sufficient food to last us till Easter. Only during the past few days we have eaten salt meat. As to eating rats and dogs, that is a lie invented by the French."

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says that the Census work has been delayed so long that it is doubtful now whether it can be got ready in time for the summer session. This statement has no foundation in fact; there is no doubt about the work being ready in time.

In another column we reproduce an article from the London Globe, which deals in a very comprehensive manner with the Fisheries question. It will well repay perusal. The English journal generally condemns President Grant's late message as unsatisfactory and hostile in its tone.

The New Year commenced in New York in the best manner. A woman was scolded in Cherry street, there was a fight between policemen and burglars, a desperate affray in a public house, and several collisions with the police. During the year 1870 there were 41 murders and 112 cases of suicide recorded by the coroners of New York city.

THE RECORD OF THE PAST.

We are confident that any unprejudiced person who considers what has been done by the present Dominion Government during the past three years, will agree with us in asserting that its record is one of which any statesman might feel proud.

The policy of the Colonial Union has been quietly but persistently carried on, and an acquisition of territory consummated such as never before in the history of the world has been peacefully accomplished. Within four years from the time when first we celebrated the establishment of the Union between the four Provinces, there is every reason to believe that the whole of British America from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be included in the Dominion.

Meanwhile, conscious that any political Union to be successful must be a union of "heads and hearts" and not of territory alone, the statesmen of Canada have laboured anxiously and earnestly to remove every possible cause of jealousy and distrust from the minds of our fellow subjects in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Misled by factious and by the false statements of men who, devoid alike of patriotism and principle, sought only their own advancement and self aggrandizement, the people of the Maritime Provinces imagined, or at least a large portion of them did, that Ontario and Quebec desired to enrich themselves at the cost of the other provinces. Just and prudent legislation, however, has dispelled this idea, and proved to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick that all the supporters of the Confederation desired to be a union of "heads and hearts" and not of territory alone, and which would promote the prosperity and progress of every portion of British America. The result of the late elections in the Maritime provinces has proved that a material change of feeling has occurred, and that a great reaction has commenced against the demagogues who sought to lead the people astray.

While this has been the general result of the Ministerial policy as regards the question of Union, their financial policy has been equally wise. The "Silver Nuisance" which for years has been complained of by the people of this country, has been completely done away with, and the amount of protection afforded to native industry has resulted in a general prosperity throughout the country, which is altogether without parallel so far as Canada is concerned. Such are the general results, very briefly stated, of the practical and statesmanlike course pursued by the Government during the past three years. Of course there are many minor matters to which we might refer, which prove in an equally unimpeachable manner that the present Ministry are fully entitled to the confidence and support of the people at large. "Oh, but," say the opponents of the Government without reference to the present position of national affairs, "these men did not agree together formerly on all those questions which agitated the public mind in times past, and therefore they are corrupt coalitionists." One proof of their being together in accord on all questions of present interest is found in the success of the policy adopted by them, and which is such as seldom if ever exists upon a divided Cabinet. Pointing to the record of the past we may confidently say that the verdict of the people. Their rallying cry is, not "down with" anybody or anything, but "UNION, PROGRESS, AND BIRTH OF A NATION." This is one which appeals to the heart and patriotic man far more forcibly than that of "down with Sandfield and the Patent Combination."

GENERAL BUTLER AND CANADA.

In the city of Montreal there lives a young man named Lanigan, who, unable to procure more reputable employment, devotes the whole of his time and energies to the manufacture of falsehoods concerning Canadian political affairs. These falsehoods he offers to the New York journals and sells to the highest bidder. He does not for a moment pretend that there is any foundation for the false assertions he makes, but justifies his course by saying that no other style of correspondence would be approved of by his employers, and that in order to render a Canadian letter acceptable to a New York journal, it is necessary that it should contain a certain amount of talk about an annexation sentiment which has no existence here. We notice that this ingenious but totally unprincipled writer has lately succeeded in disposing of communications to the N. Y. Herald and the N. Y. World which contain an unusual amount of falsehood and absurdity. Under ordinary circumstances we should not refer to them; so long as American journals desire to publish nothing but untruths concerning this country and its people they will no doubt find plenty of accounts of annexation meetings which never occurred, and of treasonable plots which never had any existence, save in the writer's brain. In Mr. Lanigan's latest production, however, he quotes a letter which he asserts positively was written by General Butler. We are disposed to think that the assertion is untrue, and that the letter given is really General Butler's handwriting, it may be deserving of some notice. We are not informed to whom the letter is addressed, but you will find it in the following words:—

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 18, 1870.

Dear Sir:—

I have read your note of the 7th Dec. with much interest, and am so very glad to see that you do not permit me to give you a seizure more worthy of the great subject of which we are treating.

I can have no doubt of the correctness of your statement that the time has now come, both in view of the condition of things in England, in America, and in Canada, for pressing the annexation question. We here in the United States are entirely united upon that question, and no party is so much opposed to it as I am. I have no difficulty in making it a party issue, in the event of anything like opposition. I think not only one out of eight persons in the United States will make this subject a plank in their political platform, but I have no difficulty in making it a party issue, in the event of anything like opposition.

We have differences of opinion about extending our boundaries to the south, so that questions are raised as to the admission of territory annexed to the United States. Our constitution does not guarantee freedom of religious opinion, that the Catholic Church of Canada cannot be a portion of the United States, and, when united, will be the largest body of intelligent Catholics of any nation in the world. Indeed, in view of the troubles in Italy it is not among the responsibilities that the keys of St. Peter may be transferred to this country.

I am assured, as you are, that England will not be so ready to present to get rid of the Canada which she has long been a source of profit or an element of strength or power; hence the propositions of any speech on this subject made either by me or the instruction of the people of the land as to what the intelligent thought of the country was on that subject.

True, you have seen it very severely criticised by the newspapers, but you will remember that a large portion of the newspaper writers of this country are English men, and most of the newspapers are in the hands of the British and American papers, who take alarm at anything that may possibly disturb the nation's credit or lessen the worth of the bonds, so that it is necessary to be on our guard. The newspapers are all that were lost. Intense indignation prevails over this base-faced outrage.

The President gave the report of the Council for the quarter just passed, and subjects that would be laid before the Dominion Board at the next general meeting, and the more complete system of inspection, and especially as to fish and butter were recommended.

Long correspondences were read from Mr. Allan and Capt. Armstrong relative to the twenty foot channel and river navigation in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence rivers. The Dominion Board's queries go before the Dominion Board of trade. The delegates elected to the Dominion Board are Messrs. Kerry, Grant, Halson, McLeannan and the President, Hon. John Young.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4th.

The holidays have retarded business, but provisions are quiet firm, with good prospects of winter business. No new features in the money market to-day.

Mr. T. D. Hood is out as candidate for St. Antoine's Ward.

A highly respectable citizen of this city was garrotted, knocked down and robbed in St. Denis street last night at seven o'clock. While passing Chevier's garden an arm was drawn round his neck and a glass placed to his mouth, and he was dragged to the ground. He struggled furiously, but was overcome, and fainted. When he came to he found himself nearly frozen from the snow, but succeeded in getting to Dr. Durocher's office, where he was promptly attended to. The robbers did their work in perfect silence, but are supposed to have been interrupted, as neither his watch nor pocket book in his breast pocket, containing $35, were taken. His loose silver key, memorandum book, and papers are all that were lost. Intense indignation prevails over this base-faced outrage.

AMERICAN NEWS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A number of the citizens of New York have determined to meet at the Academy of Music, to express their protest against the people of the United States towards the people of the United States, upon the occupation of their own capital, and upon the restoration of the city to the hands of the Federal Government. There is nothing in the movement of a religious or theological character. Eminent speakers will be secured, and the report of meeting will be carefully detailed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Vinnie Ream's statue of Lincoln will be erected in the city of Washington on the 18th of January, at the St. Patrick's Hall, Franklin's birthday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—None doubt the passage in the Senate of the San Domingo resolutions by the House, but it is generally expected that the Senate will probably, that there remains sufficient time for the proposed Commission to visit San Domingo and devote proper investigation to the subject to secure an intelligent report on matters connected with the Congressmen are most anxious to be informed.

ALBANY, Jan. 4.—Governor Hoffman has a meeting with the Legislature yesterday. He commended economy and retrenchment, and makes a practical suggestion in that direction with regard to the proposed canal. He is in favor of the Albany, and which threatens to involve almost unlimited expenditure.

In regard to Canada, he opposes most the aid of the Federal Government, and recommends an adherence to the general policy of low rates adopted by the last Legislature.

Regarding the tariff he says we are made to endure the evils of an oppressive and illegitimate tariff of duties, and have no immediate prospect of substantial relief. The principle of special protection is at war with the general sentiment of the world. We are the only great power which commands extended coasts on both oceans, and is a maritime power by inheritance. Yet we have become a purely inland country, the suicidal operation of our own laws, destitute of shipping. Not only have we been driven from the ocean, but our great lakes and inland waters are daily drawing trade away from us, because, costing much less, they can accept lower rates of freight. Ship-building, in which we have been so long a leader, has become a lost art among us.

The Government strongly opposes Federal interference in the elections.

The Canadian Fishery and Navigation Questions.

From the London Globe.

A very superficial glance at the passage of the American President's Message which was devoted to the allegations against Canada will suffice to show that it is not entitled to any great weight. If the charges set forth in general terms to the benefit of the Dominion were valid and tenable, even from an American point of view, no President would venture to bring them forward in a Message to Congress without at the same time producing proof of their truth. The full obligation of his office in respect both to the interests of rights and the denunciation of wrong now, as a matter of fact, General Grant can never pretend that he has proceeded in any attempt to remove the cause of the country. Then, again, it is notable that the language in which the President attacks the Canadian authorities is entirely vague, and entirely devoid of any specific and answerable point. The contents of the argument are popular are two: the course pursued by the United States has "not been marked by friendliness," and "a like unfriendly disposition has been manifested by the Canadian authorities." The latter is a mere repetition of the claim of a right to the St. Lawrence River.

When we come to inquire more closely into the imputation of "unfriendliness," we find that the President's charges have been seized without notice, "in violation of the custom previously prevailing. This is the key to the whole enquiry.
