WALTHAM WATCHES
THE AMERICAN WATCH
The public of the United States and Canada have now had over ten years experience of WALTHAM WATCHES, and they are now everywhere acknowledged to be the ONLY RELIABLE
TIME-KEEPERS!
Almost all other watches are sold under false pretences; and one in a hundred bears the name of the real maker; the public have absolutely no security, and have, therefore, been constantly imposed upon. On the contrary, every buyer of a Waltham Watch gets a guarantee of the company, and no matter from whom he buys it, has positive security that he is getting a TIME KEEPER.
It must be admitted that the apparent interest of watchmakers lies in selling other watches, of which they can make larger profits; but most of everyone to the trade, jewelers, artists of large and lovely take, and which leaves no bad stock. It is small profits and quick returns."
These watches can be had in several grades (all guaranteed) the silver cases are made from coin silver, and run 2 to 6 ounces to weight. The gold cases are made to 18 carat size, and from 3 4to 4 ounces in weight; the size for ladies are richly engraved or enamelled. For the quality both is cold and silver, are the
CHEAPEST WATCHES IN THE WORLD
These watches can be ordered of any reliable watchmaker or jeweller in the Dominion; but the guarantee of the Company should be invariably required. The Company in all cases pay the Government duty, which makes the Canadian consumer a privileged purchaser

The German Empire.

(From the London Economist, Dec. 17.)

The new constitution of the German Empire can hardly be said from any point of view to be a satisfactory one. Neither does it give satisfactory power as yet to the central constitution, nor is the machinery of that constitution, even in those matters over which it is paramount, satisfactory. Let us deal with the first point first. It is a step in the direction of complete unity no doubt, for it comprehends Hesse, Baden, Wurtemburg, and Bavaria, which were not included in the North German Bund. But the gain in comprehension has been attained by a certain relaxation of the central ties. Bavaria, for instance, retains particularist rights which, if exercised, will interrupt seriously

THE HOMOGENEITY OF THE EMPIRE.

The railways, posts, and telegrams of Bavaria are not subject to the imperial legislation except for military purposes; nor will the insurance laws of the empire be valid in that State except with the assent of the state. Bavaria may restrain her subjects from residing in other parts of the empire, the imperial laws of domicile not extending to Bavaria. Baden, Wurtemburg, and Bavaria will all be exempt from the imperial laws of excise on beer and spirits. Bavaria retains complete control of her own army in time of peace, only pledging herself to adopt the imperial system of military organization, and putting her army under the Emperor's control in time of war. Wurtemburg accepts an imperial commander in chief even in peace, appointing all the other military officers herself. Elsewhere the commander-in-chief and the commanders of all fortresses are appointed by the Emperor, while the general officers, though appointed by the state, must be continued by the Emperor. It is obvious from even this brief statement that neither the commercial nor the military unity of Germany is yet attained. Still less is legislative unity attained. As regards the laws of the Empire, speaking generally, only criminal law and commercial law are touched by the Imperial legislation. The whole civil law and ecclesiastical law of each state remains under the exclusive jurisdiction of the local diet. The same is true of the system of education. Moreover, none of the special concessions to Bavaria, Wurtemberg, &c., can be withdrawn without the consent of the state in possession of these privileges. In other words, further steps towards true unity can only be attained by either persuasion or those violent measures which defy all law. There is no constitutional provision for completing the process of centralization at the will of the Empire, even though the whole Empire, with the exception of the particular State whose privileges should be involved were unanimous on the subject. It is obvious that these arrangements are exceedingly incomplete and inchoate, and leave much for future changes to accomplish.
Now, as regards the popular House or Reichstag
