

LOCAL NEWS

Passenger.—Hon. Mr. Langverin arrived at the Russell House yesterday, from Quebec.

Masses. J. Signell and Geo. Signell, who have been up the Ottawa river, arrived at the Russell House yesterday. They are residents of Three Rivers.

Another supply of fresh oysters at Kramach's ("The Queen").

Mr. Birmingham advertises to sell on Tuesday, 26th instant, (to-morrow) at 11 o'clock, at his rooms Elgin street, fifty good factory chases, 200 yards tapestry carpet, 200 bags 3 shop glass cases, and several house pumps. These are goods that are certainly required, and staple articles, and must command an audience.

House to Let.—Apply to R. A. Bradley, solicitor, at the corner of Sparks and Elgin Streets, Ottawa.

A day time is expected at the Hair-dresser B. H. on the Montreal Road this week.

Remnants of Floor Oil Cloths at reduced prices. ALLAN, McKINNON & McMORAN, 20 Sparks street.

The Eight Street Temperance Meeting was numerously attended yesterday, and able addresses were delivered.

Funeral.—The funeral of the late Mr. George Boston, took place on Saturday afternoon, and was very numerously attended.

Dresses made to order in first class style. ALLAN, McKINNON & McMORAN, 20 Sparks street.

Sparks Street.—We hope the authorities will take early steps to have the snow and ice cleared off Sparks street, between Main and Elgin streets.

Just received.—Extra value Black Glass and Green-Glass Siles, ordered before the war. ALLAN, McKINNON & McMORAN, 20 Sparks street.

Loose Bread.—Over a dozen loaves of bread were captured on Saturday by Sergeant Brown. The good Sergeant being best for charity made a raid on the bakery with the above success.

Water Works Commissioners.—Next Friday being Good Friday, the Water Works Commissioners will not meet, as announced in a previous issue, on that day. They will probably meet on Tuesday following.

The By-Wash.—It is sincerely hoped by the public that the authorities will take steps at an early day to have the By Wash filled in, or its objectionable features staved or removed in some manner.

The Market was pretty well attended on Saturday, hay and wood were in plentiful supply; potatoes and vegetables generally were scarce. Prices remain about the same as at last quotations.

The old spell was broken on Saturday. The direction of the wind changed and immediately the temperature became mild.—Considerable snow fell during the afternoon.

Police Court.—Saturday.—A case of drunkenness was dismissed.

One Joseph Colasse was charged with ill-using his family while under the influence of liquor. He was remanded.

A WELCOME PARTNER.—Our Local is the recipient of a splendid Irish head stock from Mr. Miles. It enable our Local to enjoy a feeling of safety, even when "wailing hours in the morning boys." He hopes, however, he may never have occasion to make it unpleasant duty.

Funeral.—The Rev. Father Beardon, who spent some time in the country about three months ago, he was happy to say returned to this city looking well and enjoying excellent health. In St. Joseph's parish in particular, he is beloved by the congregation, and is highly esteemed throughout the city by 1950 who have had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

L. F. B. S.—The Irish Protestant Benevolent Society is a special meeting for to-morrow night, at 8 o'clock, men here are expected to fill make appearance, as business of immediate importance is to be discussed. We understand an entertainment is to be given, in aid of the charitable fund, which will be a novelty in its way, being the first of the kind ever offered in Ottawa. Success to the enterprise.

Quap Sams.—Mr. Allan of the China Hat announces that he is selling out, as well as new goods on hand, and as he is slightly damaged by the late fire at his original cost. The whole stock must be cleared out by the 1st of May. This is an opportunity rarely afforded and one which should be taken advantage of by all who wish to purchase at a low price. Mr. Allan has a large and valuable stock on hand; and the goods are virtually as though they were never within reach of smoke. Go to the China Hat and see for yourself.

A DANGEROUS CASE.—On Saturday a person about 20 years of age was arrested on suspicion created by his own imprudent conduct, while under the influence of liquor. He has been in the city for three or four months, apparently with the hope of obtaining a situation. He incurred several petty debts, and we believe borrowed or attempted to borrow money, if he were for ought that is known to the contrary, the honest intention of returning it. He constantly asserted that he had a commission in the army, that he had held office under Sir Francis Hincks in the West Indies, and that his principal object in coming to Canada was to benefit his health. While drinking in the Russell House on Friday night, he exhibited an inclination to dine with Sir Francis Hincks and a cheque on the Montreal Bank, with Lord Liger's name signed on it. Though he did not present the cheque at the Bank, his foolish conduct was the cause of his arrest. He is a man of fine appearance, and of engaging manner and conversation. He will probably be liberated this morning as there is no charge against him.

THE OLDEST CITY IN THE WORLD. Damascus is the oldest city in the world. Tyre and Sidon have crumbled on the shore. Beelzabub, a full grown man, buried in the sands of the desert; Nineveh and Babylon have disappeared from the shores of the Tigris and Euphrates. Damascus remains what it was before the days of Abraham—a centre of trade and travel, an island of verdure in a desert, a "predestined capital," with martial and sacred associations extended beyond thirty centuries.

It was near Damascus that Saul of Tarsus saw the light from Heaven, above the brightness of the sun; the street which is called Straight, in which it is said he "prayed," still runs through the city; the caravan comes and goes; it is still the same old town; there is still the same sea, and the same mountains; the Mediterranean still occupies "with the multitude of its waves." The city which "the prophet surveyed from the heights of Mount Lebanon, and which he said he would build up to the clouds," still stands on the same site; and the same "city of the living and the dead" still exists in the same form.

THE EFFORTS OF THE SIEGE ON THE MORTALITY OF PARIS. The French journals give us some interesting statistics as to the effects of the war on the population of the capital. These statistics are only approximate; for, as many of the official registers of deaths were destroyed in the conflagration of the Hotel de Ville and the marshes, they are mainly based on the books of the administration of Pommepierre. The Pommepierre registers of course keep no record of citizen soldiers killed in the field, or of the victims of the Commune and the Versailles who were buried wholesale in the square of St. Jacques, the Park of Monceau, and the quarters of America. Allowances made, however, the following conclusions may be accepted as sufficiently accurate for all practical purposes:—The average number of deaths in Paris is 45,000. The numbers actually registered in 1870 were 73,381, while in 1871 they amounted to the startling total of 92,945, in other words, an increase of ordinary death rate. Starting as to that total, starvation, confinement, and anxiety are sufficient to explain it. But what is most striking is the fact that the number of the fatal effects of privation and discouragement is the fact that in the same period the average births had diminished by about four-fifths, while in one month, of September last, they fell, after from 1,500 to 1,729. In short, roughly speaking, the deaths at one time had doubled, while the births had diminished by half.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES. There is not the slightest prospect that the present Congress at Washington will take action on the memorial of the National Board of Trade, in favor of the negotiation of a new Reciprocity Treaty and the admission of British built ships to American ports.

A department of building stone has lately been introduced into the Museum of Natural History in Central Park, New York, the object of which is to afford builders, and all interested, an opportunity to examine and select the best quality of building stones of the country and of the world.

It is stated that the representative of Japan in the United States, desires to send British emigrants to his country to teach the English language and ordinary branches of education. Nearly four hundred applications, mainly from ladies employed in the departments, have been received.

The movement against free liquor in England seems not to have been productive of any very strong shaming good result. As a matter of fact, a temperance meeting was broken up by a mob of riotous and even the bishop, on the platform, did not escape the ignominy usually accorded unpopular speakers. The most sensible journals in England, and the most sensible of physicians have published a declaration of the danger of spirit drinking. Prohibition is strongly hinted at.

The Count de Chambord is the Bourbon claimant of the French throne and is now 52 years of age. He was proclaimed King of France, under the title of King of France, in 1830, but as his whole life has been spent in exile. The declaration which his presence and the visit of the French Legation in London, in Antwerp, is suggested by the simultaneous presence there of the ex King of Hanover, and various other distinguished princes with representatives of the late King of Spain and other reactionary interests.

The London Times, in announcing that Lord Northbrook has accepted the Governor-Generalship of India, says that no man of his years has had so wide a training or such ample experience. No man it must be added, has given greater satisfaction in the discharge of his functions in all the offices he has successively and successfully filled. He is a man of wide and unimpaired good sense, and leaves a wide-spread belief that the Indian man has been found for the right place. With all his varied experience, he is still young, and undimmed, perhaps more so, than the average vigor and strength of his age.

A man named Bradley Grant, a well to do farmer, near Kingston on New York, died on the 27th inst., of voluntary starvation. His mind had become disordered, it is supposed, through overwork, and he determined to starve himself to death. He began his death-fast on the 10th of August last, on which day he ate part of an egg beaten up with a little milk. Of this he ate only a few spoonfuls. His next meal was taken fifteen days afterwards, and consisted of a small portion of tea and a small piece of toast. His last meal consisted of one ounce of toast, which he was induced to swallow on the 15th day. A few minutes walk to the Parliament Buildings.
