

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Section Notice. Challenge—Wm McCaffrey. The World's Peace Jubilee. Dr Wheeler's Blood Food.

MR. CURRIER'S Central Committee meet this evening at 8. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be brought forward.

ELECTION MEETING.

The friends and supporters of Dr. BEAUBIEN are requested to attend a public meeting to be held in David Moore's late residence, York Street, opposite Lower Town Market, on Thursday, at eight o'clock, p. m. sharp.

The Ottawa Times.

THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1872. LATEST TELEGRAPHIC ITEMS.

It is stated that the Democratic Convention at Baltimore have decided upon nominating Greeley as their Presidential candidate.

The Duc de Noailles, lately appointed Minister of France to the United States is expected to arrive next week.

Senor Perez Riva has been appointed political Governor of Havana.

The New York militia will be called out in full force on the 12th inst., in order that although a serious riot is anticipated, no effort to prevent one may be neglected.

The anniversary dinner of the Ancient Corporation of the Trinity House, London, was held on the 10th ultimo, in their building, Tower Hill, at which His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, Master of the Corporation, presided.

The dinner, His Royal Highness was sworn in as Master of the Trinity House for the ensuing year, and Sir Frederick Arrows was unanimously elected as Deputy Master.

The latter gentleman has lately been in communication with Mr. Smith, the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries here, relative to the improvements recently made on the coast of Canada, to aid navigation by the erection of fog-whistles and a large number of light-houses during the last five years, the time in which his Department has been in existence.

Sir Frederick has also written the Department, asking for its official reports, and has decided to visit Canada this fall for the purpose of obtaining all the information possible about our system of lights and fog-whistles.

We are glad to see an eminent and venerable institution like the Trinity House of England sending out to Canada one of its highest officers to ascertain if there is anything in our system of coast-protection which could be advantageously adopted in the United Kingdom.

We understand Sir Frederick Arrows will be the guest of Mr. Smith during his visit here.

A SENSIBLE REASON!

No other reason being apparent for the people of Canada being guilty of such an idiotic proceeding as that of turning out of office a Government that has done so well, the leading Opposition organ brings forward an old and very absurd one.

"The books must be overhauled" says the organ: "There are many reasons for a change in our Dominion rulers, and the first of these is that upon this, that all Governments are in danger of becoming rickety when long in office, and that it is for the interest of the country that every now and then there should be an audit of accounts by a new class coming into office and having access to all the secrets of their predecessors.

When the business has been so satisfactorily managed as to show a large balance in the bankers' hands, what would be said or thought of a company who immediately turned round and said to the managing man, 'We give you notice to leave at once, not because you have not done your work well, not because you have incurred our displeasure, but because if you remain here a few years longer, it is just possible you may become rickety; besides which we want to have your books examined by a new and untried man.' If any commercial men were to act thus, it would be said, 'very justly, that they were mad. Yet this is neither more nor less than the Grit organ asks the people of Canada to do to-day.

To you are invited to turn out of office those who have served them faithfully, in order that some of whom have proved themselves hopelessly corrupt on a narrower field, and others who are known to be hostile to British American Union, shall have a chance at 'overhauling the books.' The man who writes such incoherent nonsense in the Globe must be a simpleton of more than ordinary calibre, and what is more, he must imagine that his readers are persons as silly as himself.

MR. BROWN AND THE WORKING MEN.

With excellent reason the workingmen of Ontario feel that they owe a deep debt of gratitude to Sir John Macdonald. A few months since, the Hon. George Brown, instead upon the gratification of the arrogant and tyrannical disposition which has been his base through life, took advantage of an unjust law which had remained a dead letter, and by its means wrecked his vengeance upon a number of workingmen in Toronto. The unjust and arbitrary nature of the law in question becoming apparent, Sir John Macdonald, in his capacity of Minister of Justice, determined upon its repeal. Accordingly the law with regard to the operations of trades unions, has been made to assimilate to that now in force in England, and the workingmen of the West, as we said before, naturally feel grateful to the Premier for having put it out of the power of an overbearing tyrant, like Mr. Brown, to persecute them unjustly, in order to testify their appreciation of what Sir John has done for them, the workingmen of Toronto intend to-day to present Lady Macdonald with a gold casket of beautiful design and rare workmanship. It is a graceful act on the part of the workingmen, and does honour alike to the givers and to the receiver.

Had Mr. Brown any real ground of complaint against the Premier he would have seemed to have made this event the only occasion for an editorial comment. Were he possessed of one spark of generous or gentlemanly feeling he would not have dragged the name of an estimable lady into a political dispute. Had he been gifted with a little common sense, and not been, as he is, the victim of headlong passion and a malignant temper, he would have had the sense to have refrained from heaping more insults upon the workingmen. But, no! He says in his organ, alluding to the casket:—

"The money by which it has apparently come from the clouds, been, in short, bestowed upon the Premier, in order to give him the means for a very microscopic piece of service. We wonder if anybody has 'lost any money lately.' It could not be possible surely, that Senator Macpherson dropped a copper or two to blind Belshazzar!"

So it has come to this, that the workingmen of Canada, the men whose toil and industry have built up the prosperity of this country, are compared by Mr. Brown to the blind beggar Belshazzar! He intimates that they are too poor, too mean, too contemptible, to purchase this testimonial with their own money, but that necessary funds for their purchase should be necessary funds for their purchase.

We have no doubt that the workingmen of Toronto will resent this cruel, this uncalled-for insult, as it ought to be resented. We trust that the workingmen of Ottawa will do the same. Let it be remembered that Mr. Brown the earlier and a Dictator of the Grit party by his contemptible insinuations, insults not only the workingmen of Toronto, but every workingman throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. Every man who does not happen to have quite so many dollars as Mr. Brown can count, every man upon whose honor had rested the mark of honest toil, a man dignified, beggar, according to the Chief Factionist doctrine. This man, who in his time has been a friend of talking about the rights of the people, and apparently regards work as a disgrace, has done all he could to lower and degrade the working man. Now by sneering and contemptuous words he seeks to insult him. In this section of the country where at all events the dignity of labour is universally recognized and upheld, and where those who work honestly for their daily bread are not regarded as blind beggars, there are few, we imagine, who will be disposed to vote for one of Mr. Brown's candidates. Let it be remembered that the man who comes out fairly and squarely in support of the Dominion Government is the man who represents those liberal and progressive ideas so dear to Canada, so necessary to its welfare, and at the same time, so thoroughly compatible with the principles of a true and wise Conservatism.

THE "GLOBE'S" ATTACK ON MR. DODGE.

The Toronto Globe has lately made a disgraceful attack upon Mr. Dodge, the Ministerial candidate for North York. We direct the attention of our much respected American business men at the Chaudiere and elsewhere, to the fact that Mr. Dodge is a man of the Grit organ because he was born in the United States.

The United Expositor, a journal usually opposed to the Dominion Government, says:—

"In its issue last Thursday, the Globe makes an attack on Mr. Dodge, which can be characterized only as scurrilous, unjust, and shameful. The Conservative party have long served the unscrupulousness and malice of many of the utterances of the Globe, but it is also a fact that Reformers have felt burning shame and indignation at the manner in which it injures their cause by its coarse epithets and violent invectives. To show our readers that we have good reason to repudiate with scorn much of its most offensive kind of journalism, we will quote a few lines from the issue of the 10th inst. in which it referred to Mr. Dodge's Canadian origin. Speaking of Mr. Dodge's Canadian origin, it says:—

"He evidently thought with impunity to play the part of Tweed and Connelly in New York; but there is enough of sound principle in New York to send this Yankee Tory to the most contemptible kind of political exile, and to send him back to his own land, in spite of all the money he can spend. We hope the Reform committee of the county will meet at once, and organize such a resistance to corruption as will show Mr. Dodge, that he has chosen the wrong place in which to play the role of Tweed."

Our readers are aware that Messrs. Tweed and Connelly have lately been convicted of some of the most flagrant acts of dishonesty and corruption that have ever taken place in New York. They are known to be hostile to British American Union, and we have a chance at 'overhauling the books.' The man who writes such incoherent nonsense in the Globe must be a simpleton of more than ordinary calibre, and what is more, he must imagine that his readers are persons as silly as himself.

MR. BROWN AND THE WORKING MEN. With excellent reason the workingmen of Ontario feel that they owe a deep debt of gratitude to Sir John Macdonald. A few months since, the Hon. George Brown, instead upon the gratification of the arrogant and tyrannical disposition which has been his base through life, took advantage of an unjust law which had remained a dead letter, and by its means wrecked his vengeance upon a number of workingmen in Toronto. The unjust and arbitrary nature of the law in question becoming apparent, Sir John Macdonald, in his capacity of Minister of Justice, determined upon its repeal. Accordingly the law with regard to the operations of trades unions, has been made to assimilate to that now in force in England, and the workingmen of the West, as we said before, naturally feel grateful to the Premier for having put it out of the power of an overbearing tyrant, like Mr. Brown, to persecute them unjustly, in order to testify their appreciation of what Sir John has done for them, the workingmen of Toronto intend to-day to present Lady Macdonald with a gold casket of beautiful design and rare workmanship. It is a graceful act on the part of the workingmen, and does honour alike to the givers and to the receiver.

Had Mr. Brown any real ground of complaint against the Premier he would have seemed to have made this event the only occasion for an editorial comment. Were he possessed of one spark of generous or gentlemanly feeling he would not have dragged the name of an estimable lady into a political dispute. Had he been gifted with a little common sense, and not been, as he is, the victim of headlong passion and a malignant temper, he would have had the sense to have refrained from heaping more insults upon the workingmen. But, no! He says in his organ, alluding to the casket:—

"The money by which it has apparently come from the clouds, been, in short, bestowed upon the Premier, in order to give him the means for a very microscopic piece of service. We wonder if anybody has 'lost any money lately.' It could not be possible surely, that Senator Macpherson dropped a copper or two to blind Belshazzar!"

So it has come to this, that the workingmen of Canada, the men whose toil and industry have built up the prosperity of this country, are compared by Mr. Brown to the blind beggar Belshazzar! He intimates that they are too poor, too mean, too contemptible, to purchase this testimonial with their own money, but that necessary funds for their purchase should be necessary funds for their purchase.

We have no doubt that the workingmen of Toronto will resent this cruel, this uncalled-for insult, as it ought to be resented. We trust that the workingmen of Ottawa will do the same. Let it be remembered that Mr. Brown the earlier and a Dictator of the Grit party by his contemptible insinuations, insults not only the workingmen of Toronto, but every workingman throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. Every man who does not happen to have quite so many dollars as Mr. Brown can count, every man upon whose honor had rested the mark of honest toil, a man dignified, beggar, according to the Chief Factionist doctrine. This man, who in his time has been a friend of talking about the rights of the people, and apparently regards work as a disgrace, has done all he could to lower and degrade the working man. Now by sneering and contemptuous words he seeks to insult him. In this section of the country where at all events the dignity of labour is universally recognized and upheld, and where those who work honestly for their daily bread are not regarded as blind beggars, there are few, we imagine, who will be disposed to vote for one of Mr. Brown's candidates. Let it be remembered that the man who comes out fairly and squarely in support of the Dominion Government is the man who represents those liberal and progressive ideas so dear to Canada, so necessary to its welfare, and at the same time, so thoroughly compatible with the principles of a true and wise Conservatism.

The Toronto Globe has lately made a disgraceful attack upon Mr. Dodge, the Ministerial candidate for North York. We direct the attention of our much respected American business men at the Chaudiere and elsewhere, to the fact that Mr. Dodge is a man of the Grit organ because he was born in the United States.

The United Expositor, a journal usually opposed to the Dominion Government, says:—

"In its issue last Thursday, the Globe makes an attack on Mr. Dodge, which can be characterized only as scurrilous, unjust, and shameful. The Conservative party have long served the unscrupulousness and malice of many of the utterances of the Globe, but it is also a fact that Reformers have felt burning shame and indignation at the manner in which it injures their cause by its coarse epithets and violent invectives. To show our readers that we have good reason to repudiate with scorn much of its most offensive kind of journalism, we will quote a few lines from the issue of the 10th inst. in which it referred to Mr. Dodge's Canadian origin. Speaking of Mr. Dodge's Canadian origin, it says:—

"He evidently thought with impunity to play the part of Tweed and Connelly in New York; but there is enough of sound principle in New York to send this Yankee Tory to the most contemptible kind of political exile, and to send him back to his own land, in spite of all the money he can spend. We hope the Reform committee of the county will meet at once, and organize such a resistance to corruption as will show Mr. Dodge, that he has chosen the wrong place in which to play the role of Tweed."

Our readers are aware that Messrs. Tweed and Connelly have lately been convicted of some of the most flagrant acts of dishonesty and corruption that have ever taken place in New York. They are known to be hostile to British American Union, and we have a chance at 'overhauling the books.' The man who writes such incoherent nonsense in the Globe must be a simpleton of more than ordinary calibre, and what is more, he must imagine that his readers are persons as silly as himself.

MR. BROWN AND THE WORKING MEN. With excellent reason the workingmen of Ontario feel that they owe a deep debt of gratitude to Sir John Macdonald. A few months since, the Hon. George Brown, instead upon the gratification of the arrogant and tyrannical disposition which has been his base through life, took advantage of an unjust law which had remained a dead letter, and by its means wrecked his vengeance upon a number of workingmen in Toronto. The unjust and arbitrary nature of the law in question becoming apparent, Sir John Macdonald, in his capacity of Minister of Justice, determined upon its repeal. Accordingly the law with regard to the operations of trades unions, has been made to assimilate to that now in force in England, and the workingmen of the West, as we said before, naturally feel grateful to the Premier for having put it out of the power of an overbearing tyrant, like Mr. Brown, to persecute them unjustly, in order to testify their appreciation of what Sir John has done for them, the workingmen of Toronto intend to-day to present Lady Macdonald with a gold casket of beautiful design and rare workmanship. It is a graceful act on the part of the workingmen, and does honour alike to the givers and to the receiver.

Had Mr. Brown any real ground of complaint against the Premier he would have seemed to have made this event the only occasion for an editorial comment. Were he possessed of one spark of generous or gentlemanly feeling he would not have dragged the name of an estimable lady into a political dispute. Had he been gifted with a little common sense, and not been, as he is, the victim of headlong passion and a malignant temper, he would have had the sense to have refrained from heaping more insults upon the workingmen. But, no! He says in his organ, alluding to the casket:—

"The money by which it has apparently come from the clouds, been, in short, bestowed upon the Premier, in order to give him the means for a very microscopic piece of service. We wonder if anybody has 'lost any money lately.' It could not be possible surely, that Senator Macpherson dropped a copper or two to blind Belshazzar!"

So it has come to this, that the workingmen of Canada, the men whose toil and industry have built up the prosperity of this country, are compared by Mr. Brown to the blind beggar Belshazzar! He intimates that they are too poor, too mean, too contemptible, to purchase this testimonial with their own money, but that necessary funds for their purchase should be necessary funds for their purchase.

We have no doubt that the workingmen of Toronto will resent this cruel, this uncalled-for insult, as it ought to be resented. We trust that the workingmen of Ottawa will do the same. Let it be remembered that Mr. Brown the earlier and a Dictator of the Grit party by his contemptible insinuations, insults not only the workingmen of Toronto, but every workingman throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. Every man who does not happen to have quite so many dollars as Mr. Brown can count, every man upon whose honor had rested the mark of honest toil, a man dignified, beggar, according to the Chief Factionist doctrine. This man, who in his time has been a friend of talking about the rights of the people, and apparently regards work as a disgrace, has done all he could to lower and degrade the working man. Now by sneering and contemptuous words he seeks to insult him. In this section of the country where at all events the dignity of labour is universally recognized and upheld, and where those who work honestly for their daily bread are not regarded as blind beggars, there are few, we imagine, who will be disposed to vote for one of Mr. Brown's candidates. Let it be remembered that the man who comes out fairly and squarely in support of the Dominion Government is the man who represents those liberal and progressive ideas so dear to Canada, so necessary to its welfare, and at the same time, so thoroughly compatible with the principles of a true and wise Conservatism.

The Toronto Globe has lately made a disgraceful attack upon Mr. Dodge, the Ministerial candidate for North York. We direct the attention of our much respected American business men at the Chaudiere and elsewhere, to the fact that Mr. Dodge is a man of the Grit organ because he was born in the United States.

The United Expositor, a journal usually opposed to the Dominion Government, says:—

their exodus from New York to Toronto, and aspired not only to fill a place in the Legislative Hall, but even to teach our senators wisdom!" preferred as usual, strangers though they were—to be the cradle of all high and generous things, civil and religious, and to be the seat of a man with vigorous intellect and noble religion to accept an invitation to be nominated as a Commissioner, because he is a man who knows what antecedents, and began at once to teach the whole community purity, politics and patriotism in the name of the Grit organ.

Had we a vote in New York we might give it against Mr. Dodge, but whatever our political opinions may be, we are glad to see that the Grit organ is persecuting and persecuting tendency as the Globe has been guilty of regarding our much respected neighbour, Mr. Dodge.

Extensive stock of Wool Carpets, in two and three ply; also, ex. Super, which we are offering at last season's prices. Call and examine.

RUSSELL & WATSON'S.

The Peterborough Baquet.

SPLENDID DEMONSTRATION IN HONOUR OF THE PREMIER.

The banquet at Peterborough on Tuesday evening in honour of Sir John Macdonald was a magnificent success.

Sir John on rising to respond to the toast of the health of the Premier, in perfect order. On the subject of the banquet, he said that he should be inexcusable, and devoid of all proper feeling, if he did not express to the bottom of his heart the great gratification he received at his hands. When he looked around him, and saw so many of the bone and sinew of the country; at this season of the year, when the harvest is being reaped, and the farmer is busy with his plough and his sickle, and when he saw gentlemen assembling at the banquet, and the working men of the country, he felt that he was in the presence of a people who were united in their affection for the Premier, and who were united in their affection for the Premier.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

Why, the very best emigrant settlers in the world, the railroad companies; the United States Government employed no emigration agent, but the railway companies did, and see what enormous numbers of settlers were attracted there. (Hear, hear.) Some reference had been made in regard to the MILITIA.

The Government in that matter had done just what every free government must do, if it were aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government.

And in order to appreciate themselves the position of the Premier, he said that he remembered that four years ago there was a war between the North and the South, and the Americans felt themselves to be very much aggrieved by the measures which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by the British Government, and which they alleged had been taken by