THE ONTARIO BANK.

There was quite a considerable run upon the Ontario Bank yesterday, a number of small depositors withdrawing their money. We understand that it was the result of a foolish remark made by a very small busi ness man in the city which was utterly unfounded on fact. We have ascertained uneasiness, the Ontario Bank being in a perfectly sound condition, and saveral of our leading merchants paid in large amounts to their credit in that Bank

From the movements of the person, he thought there was something peculiar in the case, and after the lapse of four days he resolved to enter the swamp and search for him He discovered him lying on the ground, and apparently in a wretched condition. He gave his name as John Kennedy, and said he had been wandering about the country and could get no work. He had burrowed a hole, in order, as he said, to get water, for the marsh at this season is dry. But he had had neither meat nor drink for four days and four nights, during which time he had no shelter, although exposed to heavy rains The man stated he had formerly $500,000 held a commission in the army, but subsequently became a private; but his discharge had been purchased, and he came to America.
