THE JAPANESE EMBASSY From the Times of November 26.

Testerday the Ambassadors from Japan visited Reading, and received an address from the Mayor and Corporation. They arrived by train from London about 11 a. m., and were met on the platform by the Mayor (Mr. H. B. Blandy), the Recorder (Mr. J. O. Griffin), and the members of the Corporation. Mr. Blandy wore his chain of office, while the mace was borne by the proper official. The address spoke of the "high and laudable object" with Merchants' Bank Block, Sparks Street, which the Envoys had left their distant home to inquire into the means of civilization and enlightenment possessed by other nations, it expressed sympathy with the desire of His Imperial Majesty the Tenno of Japan for the full development of the resources and strength of Japan; and, while thanking their Excel tencies for the honor done to Reading, it of Public School Trustees, for the Village ventured to hope that the industrial prof Kemptville, will be received up to SD cesses to be witnessed there might give them pleasant and useful recollections on their return to their native land. To thus address the Chief Ambassador, Sionii Tomomi Tuakura, responded in Japanese, reading from a roll of paper written from right to left in beautiful characters that look like butterflies in outline flick ering over a clover field. It was at once rendered into English by one of the secretaries, a young Japanese, who has studied our tongue to some purpose, and now

The roots, which come from all parts of the United Kingdom, are exhibited in a warehouse nearly 400 feet 3042 No. 180 Broadway, New York Ci ong and 40 wide; and if the size of the roots goes on increasing, even this show room will soon be too small to contain them. Though nature is prodigal enough in their own land, the Ambassadors were astonished at the proportions reached by some of our tubers in a soil which, in a short experience of our climate, has seemed so unblessed by sunshine. Turnips there are in Japan, but when Mr. Martin Sutton pointed out some of the champion swedes, their Excellencies could hardly be persuaded that they had not before them some monstrous growth of abnormal size, hardly akin to the root which was familiar to them. Twenty-five of these champion swedes weigh 384 lbs. The mangold-wurtzel and the kohl-rabi seemed new to the Ambassadors, who took special interest in the roots grown on Her Majesty's farms at Windsor, Usborne, and Bushey Park, and in those shown by the Prince of Wales. They may have been impressed, too, by the republican impartiality of the judges, who awarded prizes to tenant farmers and to nobles, but gave to the Royal roots, no greater praise than commendation. The potatoes in so many kinds, were viewed with interest; but over and over again the eyes of the visitors were turned to the towering bulk of the bigger roots. There were drumbesd cabbages weighing 60 lbs. each. Tweive long red mangolds, grown by the Marquis of Ailesbury, weighed 489 lbs., or an aperage of more than 40 lbs apiece. There were mammoth mangolds with yellow flesh, rich in saccharine matter; and the Chief Ambassador expressed a desire to enrich the national agriculture with some of these roots, as well as with the cham-

Among the guests were Mr. Shaw Lefevre, M. P., Mr. Blagrave, Rev. A. P. Kenny Cust, Colonel Blandy, Sir Peter Spokes, Mr. J.O. Griffita. Rev. C. H. Travers, Rev. Dr. Stokoe, Rev. Canon Ringrose, Mr. G. Palmer, Mr. W. J. Palmer, the Town Clerk (Mr. Rogers), Mr. Martin Sutton, Mr. J. B. Monck, Mr. A. Sutton, Captain Laing, Dr. Wells, Rev. W. Payne, Alderman Simonds, and other members of the Corporation. The Mayor presided, and on the table opposite to him were the epergne and four side dishes. representing the Sessons, which were presented by his fellow townsmen to Sir Peter Spokes on the termination of his two years' service as Mayor of Reading The Ambassadors were hungry, and ate and drank with a hearty appreciation of English fare, which was in itself the best reward of their host. But for the unhappy barrier of language, which prevented all conversation, they would no doubt have made themselves agreeable to the ladies who sat by them. But they did what they could, and made more than one lady happy by their autographs. As
