The New York Tribune.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF ITALY.—The long fragmentary and impotent into one powerful State, with Rome as its capital, the humiliation of France through a series of crushing defeats, ending with the siege and capitulation of Paris, and every metropolis; the proud and gay metropolis; the submission of the Papal States, the capture of the Pope, and the usurpation of a son of the most liberal among royal houses; the virtual absorption of the kingdoms of Saxony, Wurtemberg, Bavaria, with Baden, Hesse, the Hanse Towns, etc., under the leadership of Prussia; and the arming of Rome to reassert her pre-eminence in the councils of Europe, or to prosecute her often postponed and well-reasoned designs on the great and wealthy dominions of the Medici, Pisa, Genoa, Naples, Sicily, and other parts of Italy, and the rest of the world, to invest with profound interest the evening pages of our tidings from the Old World. The Tribune, through trusted correspondents stationed at all points in Europe where great movements are in progress or imminent, since the formation of the new State, has given a series of events on that continent, and to mirror the prolonged struggle between middle age Feudalism and Ecclesiasticism on the one hand and Nineteenth-Century scepticism and secularism on the other. Recognising the rôle of Providence in the proceedings and in the course of events, the Tribune has done its duty in presenting the "vision of the future" to the people of Italy, and in doing so, has done its best to give personal service to our readers.
