THE HON. MALCOLM CAMERON'S RETURN.

We publish in another column a report of the complimentary demonstration to the Hon. Malcolm Cameron. It was a fitting act on the part of the Reformers under the circumstances, and will have a good effect in encouraging worthy men to persevere in their course even when the prospect of success is not very attractive. "EXISTENCE AND THE DEITY."

The above is the tittle of a book of 900 pages, published by Robert Shaw, M. A. and printed in Montreal. It is got up neatly as all works emanating from the Montreal printing establishments usually are. The amount of reading matter in Mr. Shaw's work is somewhat heavy, evincing, however, a large amount of careful research, but his logical deductions are certainly extraordinary, showing deep thought, and a confusion of ideas as marvellous as the subject of existence which he endeavors to make clear.

The work is divided into two parts, the first of which treats of existence, "physical, spiritual, and moral." Many of the theories propounded are based on analogy, and the language used is such as almost to baffle comprehension.

According to Mr. Shaw, when life apparently has ceased, real death has not taken place. Existence continues after the heart has ceased to beat, the eye to see, and the body to feel. Deati is merely the crysalis state of changing humanity, the human caterpillar tarowing off one condition of body only to assume first a _Messrs. About fifty or sixty children of the lead ing citizens of the Capital were invited to His election proved important in a party sense, since it involved the fate of his opponent's brother in the adjoining riding. Both were now defeated, and the House was rid of men every way objectionable in Hall yesterday, the following motion was unanimously carried:

Was rid of men every way objectionable in a party sense.
