He that goeth forth, weeping, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless return again with rejoicing bringing his sheaves with him.' The sermon was very good, being clear, well constructed and practical. Its lesson of self derial and Christian effort was applied with force and earnestness, the value of the reward promised in the text to labourer in God's field, being extolled as an ample, a noble inducement to all possible religious sacrifice and action. In the evening, Mr. McCorman had a considerably larger congregation, many having come to secession from the Protestant Episcopa Church of the States. He took for his text the 11th verse of the 3rd chap, of First Co rinthians-" For other foundation can is Jesus Christ." The first but a general and appropriate commentary upon the safe and precious quality of such a basis of faith and action. The preacher afterwards contrasted this foundation with that claimed by the Roman Catholic Church, whose doctrine as to Peter, his disputed, Mr. McCormac then cited "Mosheim," to show the gradual develop ment of the doctrine of superior orders in the Christi in Church, and lofty virtue and authority in connection with them, the ides of the three orders, and the high rank of the Bishops and Primates being borrowed from the Jewish economy. He also described the present practices and ten dencies of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the States, as looking towards the doc. trine of Apostolic su cession, which wa gull blown P. pery, and a way from the sound Protestantism and unpretentious lerical views of the early English Reformers, including Cranmer.
