THE MEMBER FOR CENTRE WELLINGTON.

There are some people who never appear to understand the difference between what is proper and what is grossly improper. Without going the length of classing the member for Centre Wellington amongst this lot, we can scarcely refrain from saying that his conduct under present circumstances is about as indiscreet and improper as it is possible to conceive. We have already called attention to the and voted without subscribing to the oath. | the leader of the "Left Centre"-we know Perhaps ignorance is the most miserable not which was responsible-must have impropriety of the kind, but the doctor having offered it, of course we were bound so far to accept it. It will be remembered that when the attention of Parliament of Canada. Premier expressed very grave doubts whether Mr. Orton had not, in addition to rendering himself liable to the statutory penalty, virtually disqualified himself from being a member of the House at all, and the probability that a new election would be necessary, was considered so strong that it was remitted for decision to the Committee on Privileges and Elections
