Local Intelligence.

OUGHT TO BE REMOVED.—A cart with the wheel on the right side broken, has been suffered to remain on Maria street, near Bay street, for the past three weeks.

OUT OF PLACE.—Boilers are very necessary and are, indeed, exceedingly useful institutions, but ought not necessarily be either made or repaired on the public street.

BOARD OF PUBLIC SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Public School Trustees will be held in the City Hall to-morrow night. Considerable business of importance has to be transacted.

WATER AT LAST.—The residects of Murray street, who have been expressing considerable anxiety ever since the freezing up of the pipes in that vicinity last winter, were yester lay agreeably surprised with a good supply of wat er.

TIMBER ARRIVAL.—A raft of seventy-two cribs, belonging to the Messrs. Hurdman of this city, and consisting of white pine, from the Mattawa, ran the slides yesterday, and is now at the foot of the locks being rafted for a tow to Grenville.

THE RAILWAY BONUS.—By a slight inadvertence in yesterday's issue, it was stated that the voting on the railway bonus would take place to-day. It should have been to-morrow (Thursday) the 3rd inst. The poll will open at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m.

ANY BONUS MEETINGS.—A meeting of those opposed to the Canada Central Railway bonus was held the night before last in St. Patrick street, at which the proposed by-law was condemned. Another meeting for a similar purpose was held last night at O'Meara's Hotel, George street.

NEW PLATFORM.—A new sidewalk is being laid down in front of the Nelson House, on the south side of Wellington street, much to the joy of the residents of that locality. It will be continued to Dufferin bridge immediately on the completion of the Carleton Club House and new Post Office.

FALSE ALARM.—About three o'clock yesterday evening an alarm of fire was struck from Box 52, at the corner of Church and Dalhousie streets. After a hard run to the spot, which is very trying to the firemen during the warm weather, they could find no fire, and accordingly returned disgusted, and angry with the individual who turned in the alarm.

Real live public benefactors are a rara avis. Men generally live niggardly to die rich. They are blessed only in their graves. Now we think it is better to benefit the living while we live. This philosophy can have no more worthy example than in the lives of those men who buy in the cheapest of all markets and sell their goods at a small profit, vide J. M. Ross & Co., 82 Spark Street Ottawa

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—As a butcher's cart was being driven down through Sparks and Rideau streets yesterday afternoon, a calf might have been observed with its front leg and head protruding through the hind part of the vehicle in such a manner as to subject the poor brute to the most intense suffering. The reckless and inhuman driver merited a good horsewhipping for such relentless cruelty.

FIRES.—Extensive and serious fires are said to be raging on the Upper Ottawa in the vicinity of Mattawa and Lake Temiscamingue. Houses, barns and fences are being destroyed, and great fears are entertained for the safety of the timber limits in that region. The weather has been very dry, causing the fire to spread to an alarming extent. Rain is anxiously looked for by the residents of this section of the country.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—A man who was walking alongside the band while playing in front of the procession in Rideau street yesterday, was picked up by the shaft of the Sally street reel and carried a considerable distance until released from his perilous position between the wheel and shaft. It is a mystery to those who observed the incident how he was picked up, but it is more marvellous still that he was not killed, considering the rate at which the horse was going at the time.

REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—This church is steadily gaining ground, and daily receiving new accessions to its ranks. A member of the Emmanuel Church in this city has been informed that Bishop Cummins has quite recently received a letter from the Rev. A. C. Walshe, a clergyman of the Church of England in Tobago, (Windward Islands), Wes Indies, stating that the several congregations of the Church of England in the parishes of St. David and St. Patrick, numbering 3000 attendants and 500 communicants, have applied to be united with the Reformed Episcopal Church.

ANOTHER FIRE.—A second alarm was turned in from Box 3, by a policeman about six o'clock yesterday evening. There was something amiss again in giving the alarm as the firemen succeeded only with the greatest difficulty in finding the fire. The fire was in the third story of Messrs. Oliver & Son's furniture warehouse on Sparks near O'Connor street, and originated in the carelessness of one of the employees, who was smoking in the paint shop where all the varnish and benzine, &c., of the establishment is kept, and some of the combustible material ignited from a match which he threw on the floor. The man's hands were severely burned, and he had to fly for his life. The fire gained considerable headway, as it was fully five minutes before any assistanse from the firemen was rendered. Reel No. 2 was first upon the scene and soon extinguished the flames. The damage could not be ascertained, but it cannot be a very serious one. Mr. Oliver is insured in the Royal Canadian for a sum that will fully cover his loss. The building is owned by Mr. Titus, and is also covered by insurance.

DRAINAGE.—Nearly every house on Sally Street has its cellar full of water, the result of imperfect drainage. Messrs. P. Thompson and Robt. Skead, who pay annually into the funds of the corporation something like $1,200 are in this predicament. They had made drains for themselves extending to Bank Street, but recent erections have changed or cut off the original drains with the bad results mentioned. The corporation's new drain in Sally Street has been completed to within thirty feet of the main drain on [illegible] Street and there stops!

STREET HOSE.—A considerable amount of dissatisfaction exists in the City at the reckless way in which boys are allowed to use the street hose recently introduced in many places for watering the streets. Ladies feel greatly annoyed at the way in which their clothes are soiled in consequence of the work being overdone. Merchants would do well to keep a strict surveillance over their boys while using this sprinkling apparatus. They serve a good purpose, it is true, but like a good many other useful things, are liable to be abused.

PARLIAMENT SQUARE.—The work of grading Parliament Square is being pushed on vigorously, now by Mr Robertson, Superintendent of Works. Yesterday a large force of men and horses were put on, and in one day the change was manifest in the levelling of mounds of earth and filling up of excavations. The hope is expressed that the grading will be completed in a month, after which the grounds will be tastefully laid out. The work of laying green sod on the declivity opposite the office is also progressing satisfactorily and presents a splendid appearance. The trees, which are about to be removed from the square, would look well if placed on the north side of Wellington street, along the edge of the new Nicholson pavement. It is thought, although the season is somewhat advanced, the work of transplanting might be successfully accomplished.

THE UNITY PROTESTANT BENEFIT SOCIETY.

The Anniversary Celebration—Procession to Church—Presentation to the President—Grand Banquet.

Yesterday the members of the Unity Protestant Benefit Society of this city duly celebrated their third anniversary. They assembled in their hall at 2 o'clock p. m. Mr. T. H. Kirby, President in the chair, and after transacting some routine business, marched in procession to the church of St. John the Evangelist, where the Rev. Mr. Pollard preached an able and eloquent discourse from Prov. xxii and iv, "A good man is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold." Previous to going to church the procession proceeded down Rideau, down Cumberland, up York, up Sussex street to the church, and after service they proceeded over the Sapper's Bridge up Sparks, down Bay, up Wellington and over Dufferin Bridge to the place of starting where they dispersed. The fine band of the Governor General's Foot Guard's headed the procession and played a number of appropriate airs. The Union Jack and Dominion Flag were carried in the procession which numbered some one hundred persons. It presented a very respectable appearance.

THE BANQUET.

The members of the Society and their guests sat down at 5 o'clock p.m., to a splendid banquet prepared by Mr. Fooks, of the London Restaurant. Mr. Kirby, President of the Society, occupied the Chair, and amongst those present were His Worship Mayor Featherstone, Dr. Sweetland, Ald. Birkett, Ald. Robertson, Rev. Mr. Pollard, Messrs. Wm. Mills, H. Meadows, Benjamin Huckell S. Rogers, George Bett, Hugh Davis, and a large number of the leading artisans of this city who form the bulk of the members of the Society. The good things provided by the host of the "London" were heartily partaken of, after which the cloth was removed and the presentation of an address and testimonial to the president followed.

DR. SWEETLAND in making the presentation on behalf of the members of the Society, stated that he did so with a great deal of pleasure, from the fact that Mr. Kirby had evinced a great deal of interest for the welfare of the institution. The members were sensible of this and hence their desire on this occasion to mark their esteem and regard for one who took such interest in the prosperity of the Society. He would call upon Mr. Mills the hon. Secretary to read the address.

Mr. Mills then read the following address:—

To Thomas Holden Kirby, Esq., President of the Unity Protestant Benefit Society, Ottawa.

DEAR SIR,—The officers and members of the Unity Protestant Benefit Society, on this, the seventh anniversary of its existence, desire to convey to you the sentiments of esteem in which you are held by them individually and as a corporate body.

They recognize in you one of the most zealous and efficient officers the Society has ever had. In your capacity of President, to which honorable position you have been elected on three consecutive occasions, you have at all times displayed a thorough knowledge of the requirements of your office, exercising much patience and extending the greatest courtesy towards all, at the same time acting, when required to do so, in the interests of the Society, with promptitude and firmness.

It is deemed unnecessary to eulogise your many sterling qualities—they are generally known and appreciated; it is sufficient for the officers and members of the Unity Protestant Benefit Society, to assure you that in their estimation you are worthy of the most sincere regard.

They beg your acceptance of the clock which accompanies this address, and pray that He who is the disposer of all time, may continually abide with you and your respected wife and family.

JOHN SWEETLAND,
Physician U. P. B. S.
WILLIAM MILLS,
Hon. (Life) Secretary U. P. B. S.
City of Ottawa, June 1st, 1875.

At the conclusion of the reading of the address, Dr. Sweetland presented the clock, which is a really handsome one, to Mr. Kirby, remarking that it was a deserved compliment for one who took such a zealous part in promoting the success of the Unity Protestant Benefit Society.

MR. KIRBY, who seemed much affected by the surprise which greeted him, thanked the members of the Society for their handsome testimonial, but more particularly for the sentiment of their address. He accepted it the more cheerfully knowing that it came from a body of men who were prompted by honest motives. Much had been said as to the success which had attended the Society, and while but doing his duty in working on its behalf, he felt that every credit was due to the other officers and members who so cheerfully assisted in the work. He felt it an honour to preside over such a Society, and he felt this the proudest day of his life in having received the kind regards of its members as conveyed in the address just read. He begged of them again to accept of his heartfelt thanks for the address and han isome testimonial just presented him.

This ceremony over, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were gone through with. To the toast of the "Mayor and Corporation," His Worship the Mayor made a capital speech, in which he paid a high eulogium upon Mr. Kirby, whom he was pleased to see so highly honoured on this occasion. After drinking the health of the host, the agreeable dinner party was brought to a close by the singing of "God Save the Queen."

"Well, doctor, its no use, I'm going to die!" "Nonsense," said the doctor, "you're not going to die at all. No man ever died with feet as warm as yours!" "Ah, yes they did, doctor:" "I should like to know who, then?" said the doctor. "John Rogers did," said the patient.

A GAMBLER CONVERTED.

How a Circus Rider and Three-Card Monte Man Became a Christian.

From the Atlanta News, May 25.

It having been announced that Monday, the circus rider and "three-card monte man," who has been converted and joined the Baptist Church, would relate his experience in James's Hall last evening, some 250 of the fastest young men in the city assembled to hear him. Monday was accompanied to the stage by Dr. A. T. Spalding and Mr. John McGuire. After prayer by Mr. McGuire and a short introductory address by Dr. Spalding, Mr. Munday addressed the audience for half an hour on the subject of his Christian experience. He said, in substance:

I had a praying father and mother. My mother, when I was but a boy, used to often take me by her knee, and talk to me of Heaven and of Jesus, and read the Bible to me, but I heeded her but little, and when between sixteen and seventeen years of age I ran away from my parents, and ventured upon the life that I have led until within the last few days. I went first to Dadeville, Va., but soon left there and joined a theatre troupe, with which I staid for some time. But even the restraints of an actor in a theatre were too great for me, and I left the troupe and joined a circus. I came to this city with the circus and rode in it here, and while here I spent a day in a gambling house. (I was all this time addicted to gambling.) I went with the circus to various cities, and finally left the one I was with and joined another, which I also afterwards left. I left this second circus at Chattanooga. I went from there to Nashville, where I staid for a long time; and while there, of course, I frequented and spent very much time in gambling houses, as I had always done the worst of places. The lowest sinks of sin and vice were my daily places of resort. From Nashville I wandered off through the country, getting my living—well, just as I could—from time to time, and from place to place; the constant inmate of gambling houses, often drunk, and always with my mouth and heart filled with oaths and blasphemy.

I came to Atlanta last March, and spent my time while here gambling. I was at your gambling houses in this city. From here I found my way to Norcross, and while there engaged to work a few days. While at work one day Mr. Fackler, the preacher who was spending some time in town preaching, passed by and asked me if I was a Christian. I told him I was not. He told me of Jesus, and talking a few minutes about religion, gave me a tract, and asking me to come to church, left me. I laughed at him, and cursed him and cursed the little tract he had left, and laughed at that. But after all, I concluded to go to church that night, and I went. I heard him preach; and oh, when I came away I could not get over it nor shake off the impressions on my mind. I was not satisfied; I went again—and again; and once while he was preaching I got up and left the house, resolved never to go in a church again.

I went to the hotel and then cursed Mr. Fackler and his sermon, and said I never would go near him again or be annoyed by his sermons. But I was in trouble, and could not be at peace, and I went to church again the next night, and while there I was filled with sorrow for my sins and wanted to be a Christian, and gave him my hand. I could not speak, for my voice was choked with the sorrow that filled my soul. That man of God took me by the hand and spoke kindly to me, and asked who I was, and prayed with me. A day or two afterwards I was riding through the country with one who had been almost as bad as I, and who had recently professed conversion. He had been like me gambler, but as we rode along he talked to me of Jesus and the forgiveness of sins. Oh! my friends, that gambler talked to me of salvation through Christ. And he turned aside in the woods with me, and in the solitude of that place we knelt together and prayed. I was then willing to pray anywhere, and for anybody to pray for me. We both prayed long and earnestly, and when I left there I felt better—my heart was lighter and more at peace.

Returning to town I talked to Mr. Fackler. He said he hoped I was already converted to God, but I could not feel that I was. That night after the sermon he asked those who desired the prayers of God's people to come forward and sit on the front bench. I went, and while there I saw that God had forgiven me, that Jesus had taken me. My joy was full; I shouted the praise of God and my Saviour. Oh! I was a new man! My heart was changed. And, oh! I thought of my poor sainted mother, whose prayers were just then being heard and who had long since gone to that heaven where she had urged me to follow.

Oh, my fellow sinner—my fellow gambler—for I see familiar faces in this house, I urge you to follow me. I am going with Jesus. If you knew the happiness I feel in following him you would come to Him. I have been twice shot, at the gambling table, but God has preserved my life, to be, as I trust, His servant, and a disciple of Jesus. I am willing to speak for Christ anywhere, and, if need be, to bear persecution for Him. I beg you all to follow Him with me.

After a brief prayer by Dr. Spalding, the crowd dispersed, much impressed by the address.

A compositor on a New York daily in setting up a French word inserted a w. When the proof reader sent out his proof the compositor remonstrated, saying he followed copy. The proof-reader informed the gentleman that w was not used in the French language, whereupon the compositor inquired of the learned artist "how he would spell wheelbarrow without a w." The roar of laughter from his fellow compositors can be imagined.

Newspaper enterprise in the island of Ceylon is carried on to an extent which astonishes strangers. There are two English daily papers published in Colombo, one bi-weekly paper issued in the same language, and about half a dozen weekly papers in Tamil and Cingalese. The dailies are small and devoid of interesting news, for, except when the Legislative Council holds its annual sittings, there is but little to write about. Of course the two papers are antagonistic, and the editorials are generally devoted to personal abuse. A good story connected with the early days of these two Ceylon journals is current. It appears that, before the establishment of telegraphic communication between Colombo and Point de Galle, one of these journals organized a system of communication by means of pigeons. Point de Galle is about seventy-five miles from Colombo, and is the port at which all the mail steamers call. Through the agency of the pigeons, the newspaper which had started the undertaking was able to secure mail news at least half a day sooner than its rival. The other journal bore this manfully for some time, but at last succeeded in decoying one of the pigeons into his own establishment, and the next morning, while the pigeon post newspaper apologised for the delay of its feathered messenger, the other published concise summary of the latest mail news received by the captured bird. Never very good friends, the rival editors became acknowledged enemies from that date, and the personalities now indulged in almost daily, would be sufficient to provoke the use of a "six-shooter," if the scene of their publication were "Out West," instead of in a British colony.

The boy who answered the question in geography, "What is the shape of the world?" by answering, "Round like a brick," has grown up into a reckless man, and edits the Fort Scott Monitor. On Monday he printed all about the centennial of the battle fought at Lexington, Kentucky.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"My son," said a father to a little boy at the breakfast table, "if you had the choice to be burned at the stake, like John Rogers, or to have your head chopped off like King Charles the first, which would you choose?" "John Rogers," said the boy. "And why?" "Because," replied the boy, "I should prefer a hot steak to a cold chop."
