THE LIBERATOR.

Mr. Luby, the well-known author of "The Life and Times of Daniel O'Connell," says the curse of Ireland is disunion There can be no doubt of it. Disunion does not arise on account of differences in religious opinions or modes of worship. It pervades the whole island from the Giants Causeway to Cape Clear. It is common to every class of religionists, Presbyterianis not ir ore opposed to Catholicism than Orangemen are opposed to each other, while Catholics, at home and abroad, all the world over in fact are constantly repeating the Donnybrook Fair clallenge: "Tramp on the tail of my coat if you

He knew no distinction of party. He collected the "rent" and used it. but he used it as much in the interest of the "Black North," as in the interest of those who consider that Ireland especially belongs to the wearers of the green. He never forgot that the green immortal shamrock is common to both North and South. He always knew that yellow and blue make green. In his time Mitchell and the United Irishman sprang into existence, and that rabid Presbyterian, John Mitchell, advocated measures which the more prudent and skilful O'Conned never dreamed of. Mitchell (Commissioner Smith, of the Indian Exposition, Every portion of this enapproved of scarifying, scalding, and burning with vitriol the troops of Great streets of Belfast, Mr. O'Connell ad vocated a peaceable repeal of the Union now existing between Great Britain and mid-day Commissioner Smith, looking to be erected on the Schuylkill River I reland, and which, it is to be hoped, will somewhat pale and thoughtful, as well as skirting the grounds, and 4,000,000 gallons He was opposed to a brass currency and anxiously awaiting his return, as also were of street passenger railways are also being dustry in Ireland.
