yesterday by the Rev. Mr. Smythe, Min ister of Galt. The sermon in the forencon was impressive and full of feeling. Reading, after prayers, from the 55th chapter he steam traveller belonging to Messrs, of Isaiah, in which these words occur:--"Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call upon Him while he is near," or as it is in the original Hebrew, "Dar shu Jehovah behamotzo, krauhu behiyotho karove." Mr. Smythe gave out the 11th paraphase:- "Oh happy is the man who hears instruction's warning voice," and the First Book of Kings :- " What doest thou here, Elijah?" The Prophet Elijah having exterminated the prophets of Baal, and protected King Ahab when notice was given of an approaching storm the little cloud arising out o the sea, like a man's hand, Ahab communicated to Jezebel the importan fact that Satan's emissaries had perished through the instrumentality of Elijah, and that interesting creature immediately sent a message to Elijah in terms to this effect:-So let the gods do to me, and an eminent Irish priest, from Dublin. The more also, if I make thy life as the life of one of the extinct Saints by to-morrow the Good Shepherd Asylum. At two about this time. This was short notice o'clock the Governor General's Foot on the part of Jesebel, and the Lord's Guards Band will commence to play a Prophet had still work to perform in Is programme of select music on the rael. The band will play until 5 o'clock day's journey farther into the wilderness, in the afternoon, and the grounds will be sitting himself down under a juniper tree, expecting and asking for death :-Now, O Lord, take away my life, for am not better than my fathers." This prayer was not granted. He was commanded by an angel to eat and drink, and found a cake broken on the coals, and that there was a cruse of water at his head. He ate a second time and on the strength of that meal he went for forty days and nights unto Mount Horeb, where he took his lodgings in a cave, and heard a voice putting this important question : " What doest thou here, Elijah?" The reply was I am the only prophet of the God of larael left, and they (Abab's subjects and Satan's worshippers) seek my life to take t away. Man, said the reverend gentleman, is very apt, like Elijah, to become dispirited about religion. He does not see immediately the effects and he broods and desponds in consequence. But although a Christian people may be unable to see the fruit of their labours it is nevetheless true that such isbours necessarily brings forth good fruit, and these words will reach the ear at last, "Well done my good and faithful servant." On the desth-bed there are sometimes agonies-agonies not of remorse-agonies THE GRAND JUST THEN MADE THE FOLLOWING arising from the circumstance that the children begotten to us have not yet been brought to Jesus, and that we shull never see them in such a state of bliss, The sions of the Peace for the County of Carle- Christian, in such circumstances, desponds ton, in the Court House assembled, beg over efforts, which his eyes are not to witness the realization of.
