MONTREAL, Dec. 6 .- The prevailing topic of conversation in this city, is the dreadful catastrophe at Back River. Coroner Jones opened the inquest this morning, at 9 o'clock.

M. Lajeunesse, the proprietor of the hotel, deposed that Fathers Lynch and Murphy supped by themselves, and after supper they went up into a drawing room; they each took a cigar; they also took a glass of sherry wine each; he was a little time in the room talking to them, as he knew the Rev. Mr. Murphy well; left them about a quarter to eleven; they ordered their horse ready about fifteen minutes afterwards; was in the act of the door, but before he got on the stain he heard his son calling, "Fire! fire! succeed in getting half way up when he was stopped by the smoke and flames; believed that the priests were suffocated before they were burned, as the smoke was so very dense Napoleon Lajeunesse, the son of the last witness, who was so badly burned as to be being sworn,-I saw the two priests in the parlor and showed them their room; they as they might need something. About half past three or four in the afternoon they came to my father's house from the city; one of them I knew as Mr. Murphy the other I did not know; saw them last double bedded room; they went into their room and told me to return in about half an hour in case they required anything; they passed the evening in the

their outside clothing; then I left them into the gasometer; when I had put the A man named A. R.
