The "WILLIAMS' SINGER" is the only Machine that has successfully stood the test of time and experience. During the six years that it has been before the Ottawa public, it has earned for itself the enviable reputation of being the best machine in the market. A good proof of its superiority is the fact that in nearly all the principal Dressmaking and Tailoring Establishments in the city, it is now constantly used in preference to other makes. GEO. The above property has been placed in my hands for private sale, and will be sold at a great sacrifice, the price demanded being less than the cost of erecting the building.

COLLISION AT SEA.

Four Lives Lost by the Sinking of the British Brig S. N. Collymore.

A TERRIBLE SCENE IN THE FOG.

A Captain Jumps from His Ship to Save His Life While His Wife Goes Down with His Ship.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 26.

There arrived at this port this afternoon the bark National Eagle, Captain Scars, of and from Boston, with ice from Rio Janeiro, and reports that she ran into and sunk off South Shoals, near Nantucket, during a thick fog last Tuesday morning, the brig S. N. Collymore, Captain Perry, of Yarmouth, N. S., from Trinidad for St. John, N. B., loaded with molasses, and that the wife of Captain Perry, with his steward and two of his crew, went down on the vessel.

A Herald reporter boarded the National Eagle and obtained the statements of the captains and the first mate of each of the vessels, which will tell the sad story.

Capt. Harvey Perry, of the S. N. Collymore, states that he left Trinidad May 3, bound to St. John, N.B., with molasses for Turnbull & Co. Everything went well until the morning of the 23rd. About three o'clock of that date, during a dense fog, I saw a green light on the port bow and saw almost immediately a ship close upon us; put the helm a starboard, and by this time both vessels came together with a tremendous crash. She struck us on the port bow. I then went forward to ascertain the extent of the damage. I found my vessel's bow under water, spars falling and a general breaking up of everything. I deemed it best to save my life, which I did by getting on the National Eagle. The mate, the second mate and three men had preceded me, and I was the last to leave. I got on board by catching hold of the barque's fore chains. Immediately the vessels parted and the wreck disappeared in the fog. Captain Sears, of the National Eagle, launched a boat and pulled in the direction in which the wreck was supposed to be. After the lapse of thirty minutes the boat returned, and the crew stated that they found the wreck bottom up, but they could find no signs of life. The National Eagle lay by until eight a.m., when, the fog clearing somewhat, we ran in the direction where we supposed the brig was, but could discover nothing. Captain Sears deemed it prudent to make for the nearest port to repair damages.

When interrogated by the Herald correspondent, as to why he left his vessel without making an effort to save her, he said:—"When I left the wheel my first thought was to ascertain the damage, but when I got forward I could plainly see she was sinking, and that I must do one of two things at once—viz., save my own life, or go down with my wife and those on board. I therefore deemed it best to jump on board the barque, as the sea was then breaking over her, and she was level with the water."

GREAT BRITAIN.

Winslow Remanded.

LONDON, May 30.—On application of the Government, Winslow was to-day remanded, till after June 15th without date. Members of the United States Legation here think that eventually he will be surrendered, but do not say they possess any new facts to support such a step.

A Singular Case of Deliberately Planned Suicide.

The trial is now progressing here of Wm. Kimpton Vance, medical student, and Helen Smee, a married woman, the former being charged with aiding and abetting Mrs. Smee to commit suicide, and the latter with attempt to poison herself. The circumstances of the case are that Mrs. Smee advertised asking professional aid in experiments in chemistry, which was answered by Vance, who furnished various poisons, explaining their use and effect. Several letters passed between the prisoners, the last of which, signed "W.K.V.," was opened in the dead letter office and led to the arrest of both. From this letter it would appear that Mrs. Smee desired to destroy her life in such a way that no coroner's inquest would be deemed necessary, and that a will made by the person so destroyed, should not be invalidated. Mrs. Smee stated when arrested that she did not wish to harm any one or commit suicide, but having had much sickness, might have used the drugs in case she became ill again. She had been very lonely since her husband left her.

The census of the Windsor children of school age shows 790 white and 197 coloured. Protestant children, and 572 Catholic; total, 1,559; 174 names are on the school registers not included in these figures.

Manly Brickford and John Tucker were out practising with a revolver, when, after firing a shot or two, they had, of course, to squint into the muzzle evidently to see if the hole was still there; and, the bammy coming in contact with a cartridge at the same time, the ball entered Brickford's breast.

An absent-minded editor having courted a girl and applied to her father, the old man said: "Well you want my daughter, what sort of a settlement will you make? What will you give her?" "Give her," replied the editor, looking up vacantly; "oh! I'll give her a puff." "Take her," replied the father.

Professor—"What! can't translate that passage? You must be very ignorant of the simplest knowledge of Latin." Student—"I am not as ignorant as you," (he coughed, and after a pause added) "think him." Professor—"Well, I see means I shall it." Absent minded student—"Flush, see up!"

Another great hero, says the Army and Navy Gazette of a recent date, died lately at Christchurch—we refer to Admiral Vernon Jackson—at the age of eighty-nine years, who, believe, was the original of Marryat's capital character of O'Brien in Peter Simple. Admiral Jackson was the type of a British seaman. The story of his escape from different French prisons and his wanderings through the country is most interesting.

A melancholy accident happened at Lindsay, Friday, by which a young lady, Miss E. Ryley, lost her life by drowning. It appears that Mr. Robert Bell, hotel-keeper, and his wife, Mr. Arnott, Miss Ryley and another young lady, went on the river Songog in a skiff, and the current being very strong they were carried against the end of a scow, which caused their boat to upset. By assistance from the shore the four others were saved.

The young ladies of Dalton, on the Canada Southern Railway, have formed a base ball club, and about twenty of them go out each fine evening to practice. They find their garments a little awkward to run in, especially when pinned back, but they persevere womanfully, and put to shame many of the young men of the village, who spend their evenings in the barrooms, drinking, smoking, indulging in coarse slang, and injuring their moral and physical growth, while the girls get up muscle and grow more handsome on the ball-field.

LAKE FREIGHTS.

Owners of vessels navigating the inland waters are realising the fact that freights are now far below actual cost of running, and that the more grain carried at present rates the greater will be the deficit at the close of the season. Vessels were chartered in Chicago the present week to carry corn to Kingston at 5c. a bushel, and wheat has been taken at 5½c. There is no lack of vessels to carry wheat from Chicago to Buffalo at 2½c. These figures show that freights have reached a point below which it is impossible to go. There can be no profit to the owner in carrying grain at the prices quoted, and no doubt in most cases actual loss is incurred. Several of the leading vessel owners refuse to take any part in the traffic, and a large number of vessels have been laid up awaiting a change. The hope of a change for the better, we fear, will not be realised this season, for the railways are taking grain through from Chicago to New York at less than 11c per bushel. In view of the present stagnation of trade, it may afford some consolation to vessel owners to be reminded that still lower rates prevailed in 1857. In that year grain was carried to Buffalo from Chicago at 1c per bushel. During that season a fleet of upwards of thirty vessels, owned by the Lake Navigation Company, remained in ordinary at Chicago, owing to inability to secure cargoes for them. In striking contrast with this remarkable dearth of business is the fact that at one time during the season of 1856 vessels received 25c. per bushel for wheat to Buffalo. One vessel, the Mayave, that season loaded at Chicago with corn for Buffalo, the freight agreed upon being one-half the value of the cargo upon its arrival at its destination. Unfortunately for the owners of the vessel, however, she was never heard from after leaving port, having gone down with all hands during heavy weather.—St. Catharines Journal.

SPEYER ON THE POET.

From the Boston Commercial Bulletin.

The poet Longfellow, although naturally of a most amiable disposition, especially under the assaults made upon his time and his privacy by simple curiosity and literary lion-hunters who have no possible claim upon him, would be little short of a saint if he were not sometimes annoyed by the pertinacity of uninvited guests. Take for illustration two instances.

Three ladies, two from Chicago and one from Milwaukee, entirely unknown to the poet, send in their cards. They are courteously received by him in the reception room. Would he be good enough to let them see his library? The request is acquiesced in and the library undergoes inspection.

"Oh, it's lovely," "so nice," and now "mayn't we see the dining room?"

The cloth for dinner was laid and the hour for that meal close at hand, but nevertheless the ladies carried their point, but when it came to wishing to be shown the kitchen, the host was fain to ring for a servant lest further examination might extend to cellar or attic.

Another amusing instance also related to us by a friend was that of an English man who, like Sir Charles Coldstream, had "travelled everywhere, seen everything, and done everything," and yet was terribly ennuie.

"Haw! yes, Mr. Longfellow, thought I ought to see the great American poet, 'n' sent in my card."

The poet asked the visited to be seated, when he resumed.

"Yes, see Mr. Longfellow; I've been a great traveller, sir, been all over the Continent, been to Iceland, Sweden, Norway."

"Indeed, you must have found much to interest you."

"Well, something, but it's getting to be an awful bwar. I've just come from Egypt, old country—antiquities, you know."

"Yes," replied the poet, "many interesting remains of past ages."

"Ah, yes—just so, exactly; heaps of old ruins. I like ruins. Now, everything new here in America, you know—can't find any old ruins—so thought I'd come an' see you."

Mr. Spencer, who bred Petrarch, the winner of the Two Thousand Guineas, bought Laura, his dam, as if the London Sporting Times, 5th inst., for twenty-five sovereigns, and such is the uncertainty in horse-breeding, that her first foal, though an own sister to Lemnos, was worthless and useless even for a hack.

QUEBEC, May 31.

NOON.—Mr. Hearn's fine block on St. Amable street, Montcalm Buildings, is destroyed. The Church and Convent of Le Bon Pasteur had a narrow escape.

One nun has since died from fright.

One man died this forenoon from injuries received from burns.

Two or three children are reported missing.

Insurance, generally speaking, is very heavy, and mostly in this division, probably to the extent of half a million.

The Jesuit Barracks were thrown open to the homeless ones, as well as the drill shed, and food was supplied them by the Mayor. The scenes at these places were heartrending.

QUEBEC, May 30.—A fire broke out at 3 o'clock this afternoon in a hangard at the rear of the residence of Mr. Boivin, a carter, on Scott street. It gained such rapid headway that in a few minutes it was master of the situation, and spread out in every direction with alarming rapidity, until the whole of Montcalm Ward was in a mass of fire. All the houses, with few exceptions, within the following boundaries are totally destroyed:—North, by Artillery street; south, St. Amable and Lewis streets; east, Fortifications, back of Esplanade; west, Leclaire and Fontaine streets on Perrault's Hill. This covers a section of nearly three quarters of a mile long by a quarter broad, and includes Amable, Burton, Provost, Pleasant, Artillery, part of Lewis, and other streets running east and west; and Stewart, Augustin, St. Cimon, d'Artigny, St. Michael, Lachevotier, Bethelot, Drolet, Scott, and Claire, Fontaine and other streets running north and south. The number of houses destroyed is roughly estimated at six to eight hundred; the number of families rendered homeless by the sudden calamity will be about treble that number, as the burned district was occupied mostly by a labouring population, and a great portion of the houses were tenement buildings; it contained, however, some very handsome and substantial private houses and shops. The fields in the vicinity of the fire are filled with unfortunate families who have so suddenly been deprived of house and home, together with the remnants of what portions of their furniture they could hastily save and remove. B. Battery worked manfully and did good service in helping to check the flames. The Levis people also sent over their new steam fire engine. The fire now, at eleven o'clock, is still burning furiously, but seems pretty well under control, and will likely be confined within the above boundaries, with the loss of a slice of the new St. Patrick street, in the vicinity of the Berthelot Market, which is now in course of being consumed, but there seems no danger of its spreading north of that street. The Grey Nunnery in Amble street escaped but is damaged. Several accidents are reported including the burning of a woman and two children, but as nothing definite can be ascertained the rumours are probably much exaggerated through the prevailing excitement. There are several horses and cows burnt. The amount of insurance cannot be ascertained to-night, but will be heavy and is likely to be pretty evenly divided among various offices doing business. The value of property destroyed cannot be less than three quarters of a million of dollars. The authorities caused bread to be distributed among the people whose condition is certainly a most deplorable one.

LATER.—The fire now at mid-night is under control, and confined to the limits before reported.

TORONTO.

Special to THE TIMES.

At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Dredge & Co., wholesale stationers, who lately suspended, an offer was made by J. F. Billis, manager in the firm, of 62½ per cent. for the estate, which offer was accepted, payable in 3, 6, 9 and 15 months, the last two payments being secured. The firm's liabilities are $70,000, and the offer amounts to 63 cents on the dollar.

This morning while Wm. Cullen, a bricklayer, was working on some alterations being made outside of the stores of Messrs J. G. Joseph & Co., on Yonge street, a large quantity of brick and mortar fell on him, crushing his chest fearfully and knocking him off the lower part of the scaffold; he was picked up and taken to the hospital, life being almost extinct.

The Countess of Dufferin is lying off Yonge street wharf, and is being visited by thousands. All sorts of rumours are afloat as to her rate of speed, but Major Gifford and crew are very reticent, and if she has made any quick time they do not wish it known. This evening an entertainment will be given at the Yacht Club to her crew and passengers. Stock in her is being taken up fast and all fears of the necessary amount not being forthcoming are gradually being dispelled. She sails at midnight for Hamilton.

Much comment, by no means of a complimentary character, is made on Rev. Mr. Robbs' conduct in the Presbytery yesterday in so vigorously opposing the settlement of the Macdonnell case without allowing it to go to the Assembly.

Mr. D. McDougall, of Berlin, Canadian Centennial Commissioner, has a letter in this morning's Mail denying in toto all the charges of incivility and quarrelling by Commissioners made by the correspondent of that journal.

LATER.—The Rev. Canon Baldwin, of St. James Cathedral, died this evening.

Very Natural.

When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and valuable horse-medicine known as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the
