ARRESTED.—Constables Banning and Latimer on yesterday afternoon arrested Antoine Bourgoin, one of those who took a leading part in attempting to rescue Levesque from P. C. O'Leary on Thursday night. It is probable he will not be the only one to get into trouble on the same charge.

EXCURSIONISTS HOME.—To Philadelphia from Ottawa and back again, part land, part sea voyage, in ten days, and first-class board and lodging included for $60 Canadian currency. This excursion commences on the 7th September, and tickets must be secured for it not later than the 28th inst. For circulars affording full information, apply to Messrs. O'Connor & Waller, agents.

AN OBJECT OF ATTRACTION.—There is hanging near to Mr. Vincent's store, on Sparks street, a frame containing a number of excellent specimens of the photographic art, which are much admired. On enquiry we find these clever pictures are from the Lawson studio, Sparks street, at which that long experienced and very efficient artist, Mr. G. C. Arless, is the operator, a fact which quite accounts for their beauty.

HARD LINES.—On Wednesday night a man of the name of O'Loughlin received a severe beating in a house kept by Ann Kelly on Nelson street. The assailants were Sarasin, McHarney and Sayers, who were both sentenced to two months' imprisonment on Thursday by the Police Magistrate. Yesterday O'Laughlin proceeded against the woman in whose house they were, for selling liquor without a license, and had her fined $50 and costs, so that although he did get roughly handled he was pretty well revenged. In justice to Mrs. Kelly it may be mentioned that she warned O'Laughlin against the three men who beat him.

NOT BAD.—Dowsley & Green will sell tables, mirrors, pictures, beds, bedsteads, bureaus, carpets, chairs, &c., this evening, at 7.30, at 70 Rideau Street, next door to "Times" Office. Stock taken in yesterday.

MISUNDERSTANDING.—Mrs. Jones, a lady well known in fowl and vegetable circles, had an old hen stolen from her yesterday for a "lark," on the market place, and immediately charged Mrs. Mosley, a rival in her peculiar line, with the theft. Not only that, but Mrs. J. advanced and seized a hard looking old fowl belonging to Mrs. Mosley, claiming it as her property. Mrs. Mosley, too much amazed for the first few moments at the cool audacity of the other, to speak in the refined language she is accustomed to, soon found her tongue and a lively conversation ensued. After a while Mrs. Jones attacked the wool of her rival, and a battle began which lasted a considerable time, and was not ended until an old umbrella was injured by coming in contact with the heads of the Amazons. The fight attracted a large crowd, and the crowd attracted the police, who put an end to the disturbance by arresting the belligerents.

WHAT THE DUKE DID.

Yesterday, just as the hazy poetic shades of the evening came along, heavy clouds of dust came along also, and spoiled the poetic effect. Ladies on the sidewalk found it difficult to navigate, obliged as they were to keep one hand on to their loves of hats, the other to their pulls-back, having none left to hold their parasols. By this time a very heavy swell connected with the Civil Service emerged from a drug store on Rideau street, dressed as if he had slept down a silk ladder from the planet Mercury, with the usual white vest and neck-tie so necessary, at present, to get up a well regulated Ottawa beau. A very nice girl accompanied him, and they both moved westward. As they were on the point of entering Battle Brothers' book-store, a gust of wind, with that sublime impudence which has no more respect for a civil servant than a grasshopper, lifted the hat from off his head and blew it a considerable distance. It was one of those splendid Saratogas, as fragile and as beautiful as a flower, and as easily spoiled. But, nevertheless, the swell smiled on the lady, and saying he would be back in a moment, raced gracefully after his hat, which rolled lazily onwards in the direction of the bridge. Now a flying sombrero is a dangerous thing to wrestle with, and requires considerable dexterity as well as agility in the matter. It skipped along playfully enough at first, but fast as he stooped for it another gust came and whirled it around the corner of Sussex street, keeping it straight in the gutter. The young man turned after it and now that he could run (the lady being out of sight) he was confident of success. The hat halted, and the Civil Servant stooped once more, but just as he did so the malignant fates sent another gust of wind, and at the same time a youth who stood with hose in hand sprinkling the road turned it full on to the ear of the hatless one, and there kept it for a brief half-minute, but still long enough to make the swell fancy he was boarding under the falls of Niagara for the time being. Of course the boy did not intend any rudeness, but the advent of the hatless stranger was so unexpected and so sudden that he could not turn off the stream in a hurry. He would have by this time secured his chapeau, but, unfortunately, there came still another breeze as he was on the point of grasping it by the leaf, causing it to waltz off a distance of about twenty yards more or less, probably less. He was now undecided which of the three courses to pursue, whether to go at once and thrash the boy with the hose, follow his property, or go back and apologise to the lady. It was a question that required mature deliberation, but just he straightened himself up, looked at the boy and smiled in a manner "that was not child-like and bland" by any manner or means. It struck him in the dilemma he was in it would be rather ridiculous to go back in his present guise, and as for the boy with the hose he could find him at any time, and so he resolved to continue the pursuit. By this time a small crowd had collected, which watched with intense interest the struggles of the swell and the movements of his erratic head-gear. He made another advance, this time laying aside the otium cum dignitate, which characterized his former abortive movements, and would have infallibly succeeded had not a bakers waggon come along and passed right over the hat, crushing it out as flat as a pancake. He went into the nearest store and invested in a new one and retraced his steps, but the lady had gone.

POLICE COURT.

Before M. O'GARA, P. M.

FRIDAY, Aug. 25.

E. H. Duffie for assault and drunkenness was fined $3 and costs. Plaintiff and defendant in this case were each decorated with a "mouse" under the eye, as indeed were the majority of prisoners and witnesses, who all seemed to have put on mourning for the occasion. Some folks go to the Caledonia Springs to enjoy a holiday, and some to the Caledonian games, while some get black eyes. People have different tastes, and it is nobody's business, except perhaps the Police Magistrate's.

James Toler, whose face presented a venerable but much battered aspect, was charged with drunkenness. He pleaded first offence and was discharged.

Joseph Levesque, for fighting yesterday on Sussex street and resisting the police, was fined $5 and costs.

A SORE DEFENCE.

Coyle, Monroe, and Brown were charged with fighting, and the two latter with assaulting the former, whose face was terribly disfigured. Brown tried hard to make His Worship believe that he was merely striving to keep the peace, but without success, as the fact of his having a stone in his hand and with it hammering a tattoo on the devoted head of Coyle did not confirm his statement. Coyle was discharged and the others were fined.

FILING FELION UPON OSSA.

Mrs. Ann Anderson, a resident of Clarence street, who was suffering from the prevailing disease of black eyes, was next arraigned. From the evidence it would seem that Mrs Anderson and her consort do not live as happily together as two turtle doves. On Saturday night last after a series of rows, in some of which Anderson was victorious, while in others he suffered disastrous defeats, he at length succumbed, and lay down on his own floor dead 'drunk'. Mrs. Anderson had no cannon to celebrate her victory, but she made as much noise as a battery of Lancaster guns, and drew the neighbourhood around her, and the police as well. When the police constable entered, he found fragments of furniture piled round the vanquished Anderson, and coal oil had been flowing on the ground. He observed also several matches, some entire and others half consumed, from which he inferred that a bold attempt at cremation had been made. When Anderson awoke and found his household goods scattered about, he felt more astonished than delighted. He did not appear, however, on yesterday morning to give evidence. As the charge was only for being disorderly, the case was dismissed.

A LIQUOR CASE.

The famous Mary Kelly, of Nelson Street, appeared to answer to the charge of selling liquor without license. The prosecutor, O'Laughlin, had a black eye. He swore that on the 23rd he got a bottle of ale in her house, for which he paid a dollar. Mrs. Kelly denied the charge, and called Maggy McManus as witness, who deposed that she went next door for the ale, and that it was not sold in the house. Mrs. Kelly complained that she might possibly be a bad character, but in this instance she was innocent. She had treated the prosecutor like a friend, and she was sorry for his ingratitude. Fined $50 and costs.

Francis Doe, for breaking Mrs. Taylor's windows, was remanded till this morning.

W. O. McCoy, for being drunk on Tuesday night, $5, or three weeks.

The celebrated aeronaut, M. Duruof, has just died from the rupture of a blood vessel. He became famous at the time of the siege of Paris, when he was the first man to leave the city in a balloon. The most prominent event in his adventurous life was his effort to cross to England in a balloon, accompanied by his wife. On that occasion he was overtaken by a storm and was on the point of being precipitated into the middle of the channel, when he was rescued by the crew of a coasting vessel. It was after that exploit that the medal of the Aeronautic Club of London was awarded to the daring navigator of the air. In the course of his life M. Duruof made seventy-five ascensions and his ambition was to make one hundred.

RELIEF.—It is expected the police force in Hull, composed of an acting sergeant and [illegible] will be relieved from Quebec on next Tuesday. They belong to the provincial force, and are relieved every two years.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS.—As the Christian Brothers who are to take charge of the Separate Schools in Ottawa will not arrive until next January, a meeting of the Board will be convened at an early date to provide teachers ad interim.

THEATRICAL.—Mr. McDowell's company will play Dion Boucicault's fine drama, "Lost Astray," on Monday night. The array of talent comprising the company were very popular in Montreal and will, no doubt, be equally successful here.

ATTORAS.—This celebrated Jubilist will arrive in the city to-day from Montreal, and will pay a visit to the Church of England Ladies School, by invitation of Miss Mann the principal. Probably a recital will be given, which will prove a rich treat to the pupils.

ENCORE.—Frank Dea, carter, was yesterday morning before the Police Magistrate, charged with breaking the windows of Mrs. Taylor. He pleaded that he had been up three weeks ago for the same offence, and the Magistrate put back the case till this morning. Yesterday evening Dea was again arrested—this time for assaulting another carter of the name of James.

THE O. B. G. A. BAND.—A regular practice of this band was held yesterday evening under the direction of Mr. Bonne, and several new pieces were introduced, including the new regimental march, which was played in capital style. The band is improving rapidly, and will soon hold its place among the best in Canada. After the practice the President, Mr. VanDusen, entertained the bandmaster and some of the officers to a spread, when a most agreeable evening was spent.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—Hartz, the celebrated magician, gave his first entertainment last night in the Opera House to a large audience. His tricks were all performed in a continually [illegible] proved that he has [illegible] sleight-of-hand so thoroughly that it is fascinating, and the greatest pleasure is experienced in witnessing the ease with which he makes the rapid changes. As all the tricks shown were equal in point of merit, it is unnecessary to mention any one in particular. Madame Hartz fully realised all that was expected of her as a pianiste. She plays with a considerable amount of execution, and her touch is clear and expressive. In the air by Herrmann, she was most successful and called forth loud applause. It is only sufficient to say, with reference to last night's entertainment, that of its kind it could not be equalled, and those who wish to enjoy a really pleasant evening had better attend the last performance to-night.

FAT MAN'S RACE.—For the Fat Man's race, which will take place to-day, on the Agricultural Grounds, at Almonte, the following gentlemen have entered:

	WEIGHT.
A. Hamilton, Almonte	205
S. H. Davis, "	about 195
P. Naismith, Ramsay	222
John Steele, "	about 210
Geo. McPherson, Pakenham	about 190
Mr. Brennan, Appleton	about 195
Mr. Broom, Carleton Place	about 200
Mr. Newman, "	about 210

Other "200 pounders" have signified their intention of running, and doubtless the competition will be a keen and exciting one. The race is open to all parties weighing 200 lbs. or over. A fat man, slightly under 200 lbs. can enter by carrying sufficient weights to bring his avoir dupois up to that figure. Considerable interest centres in the race, and betting is about even. The weight of some of the gentlemen whose names appear above, may not be accurately given, but scales will be on the ground, and each one will require to turn the beam at 200 lbs.—Gazette.

NEARLY SUFFOCATED.

Another Bank Street Road Sensation—A Man Found Lying in a Ditch Nearly Dead.

Yesterday afternoon as Mr. George Hitchcock was driving into the city from Billing's Bridge, he providentially saw the body of a man, with the face closely jambed against the bank. Supposing him to be dead, Hitchcock went to Powell's Grove Hotel, a short distance from the spot where he saw the body, and meeting Mr. James Connolly of the city, they both returned and made an effort to raise the man, but at the first attempt they found he was tightly wedged between the banks; a second trial was made, when they succeeded in lifting him out on to the road, in an insensible state. At first they tried to bring him to by shouting, and finding this had no effect, they shook him, when at last he opened his eyes in astonishment, and looked wildly at those before him. He was then brought to Powell's hotel, and some stimulants given him, when it was learned that in a fit of intoxication he fell into the ditch, and was perfectly helpless to move hand or foot, being wedged tightly between the banks, where the roots of trees formed a strong lining. In all probability in a few minutes later he

LYING IN A DITCH,

WOULD HAVE BEEN SUFFOCATED.

The unfortunate young man is only about 22 years of age, and is said to be a good mechanic, but owing to his being addicted to drink his cleverness is of little account. Had not Mr. Hitchcock been passing at the time, there is no doubt but that a coroner's inquest would be the result. It is to be hoped that the warning thus given him, may be the means of bringing about a reformation in his present mode of living.

NOTE.—Eclectric—Selected and Electrized.

THE DAILY TIMES, delivered every morning at 25 cents per week, in all parts of the city, suburbs and Hull.

The Common Council of London lately passed a resolution limiting its Entertainment Committee to expenditures. The cost to the city of entertaining the Sultan of Turkey, exclusive of the sum in whatever the Indian sports was stated to be equal to about $250,000, the Shah of Persia entailed an expense of $93,445, and the Czar of Russia $60,145; and all this within three years.

When a patriotic Scot sowed thistle seed in Australia, to remind him of home, he bestowed a very left-handed boon on his adopted country. Nor is the rabbit just now regarded with favour at the antipodes. They have multiplied so greatly, especially in New Zealand, as to become a perfect pest, and one reason for this is, that nature there has provided no polecat or weasels to destroy them.
