CHRISTMAS BEEF!

Wm Slattery,

Notwithstanding the serious loss and inconvenience entailed by the recent fire at Wellington Ward Market, the advertiser is happy to inform his many customers and the citizens of Ottawa that he will have no lack of good things in his line during the approaching festive season.

ON FRIDAY 22 INSTANT,

and following days, he will have a MAGNIFICENT SHOW of the very finest meat that can be bought, no matter by whom or where. This will include SEVERAL CATTLE FROM GUELPH AND ELORA, all prize takers, a number of Southdown and Cotswold Sheep, all fed by myself, a nice display of Veal, two Bears, fed at Spring Park, Porkers in quantities, likewise fed at Spring Park, Venison, Poultry, Fowl, etc.

THE CATTLE

are especially fine brutes. They have been purchased and brought from the West for the Christmas market, and may be thoroughly relied on.

THE SHEEP,

too, are particularly choice, and being fed by myself further warrants me in speaking of their good qualities. Of the

it is only needful to say that each will fully sustain the favourable position in the estimation of my fellow citizens I have the honour to enjoy, and that they are capable of affording the choicest morsels to the daintiest epicurean.

As already stated, all are of first-class quality, inferior to none, and therefore I trust to be favoured with many commands.

I desire to thank all my customers and friends for their favour, and to wish each a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Tampering with a Deed—The Lincoln Scrutiny—Liberality—Soup Kitchen—Decamped.

Special to THE TIMES.

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—Andrew Deacon, clerk in the Local Treasury Department, was arrested this morning on orders from Ottawa for tampering with a deed while clerk in the Indian Department. The deed referred to was a land patent in the township of Annabel, county of Bruce, made out to one Kennedy.

Mr. Brough delivered judgment on Saturday in Osgoods Hall on several reserved cases in the Lincoln election scrutiny. The Court was then adjourned till the sixteenth day after the close of the ensuing session of the Legislature.

Mr. E. O. Bickford last week gave away $600 worth of blankets to the poor in the west end of the city, and is having 1,000 overcoats made for distribution.

The West End soup kitchen gave relief to 1,069 persons yes erday.

J. W. Smith, a fruit and canned goods dealer, who was running three stores and understood to be doing a large business, has decamped, leaving a large number of creditors. It is said latterly he has been selling goods greatly under cost.

Progress of the Civil War.

PANAMA, Dec. 22.—The Chilian Congress has reduced the Missian to Washington to a 2nd class legation, negativing the proposition to abolish it altogether.

Another battle occurred on Nov. 29th in the State of Canca, the victory being claimed by the Liberals who lost some prominent officers. Over 150 killed and wounded were left on the battle field, the the loss in previously reported battle of Garrapata was Liberals 600 killed and 1,300 wounded, Conservatives 300 killed and 700 wounded. Of the wounded at least 500 will die.

NEW YORK.

Preparing for Tweed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31st—Elbert A. Woodward, Tweed's ex-confidential clerk, arrested in Chicago, to answer indictments for forgery and embezzlement, was yesterday discharged, having transferred to the City and County of New York property worth $155,000, and given up important documents and evidence against Tweed. The Attorney General ordered Woodward's discharge in his own recognisance that he might testify for the people in the civil suits, and directed he should not be re-arrested upon civil processes. No nolle prosqui has been entered in criminal cases. Should Woodward's testimony prove to be valuable, he will never be tried.

Inauguration of Governor.

ALBANY, Jan. 1.—Never was there such a large concourse of people assembled to witness the inauguration of the Governor of the State as that gathered to-day. Every seat in the Assembly Chamber was occupied, while hundreds were obliged to stand and other hundreds could not gain admission to the Chamber. At noon, Governor Tilden escorting the Governor elect, Robinson, entered the Chamber, followed by Lieutenant Governor Dorsheimer, Secretary of State Bigelow, and other State officers and the Governor's military staff. Gov. Tilden then addressed Mr. Robinson, the Governor elect, surrendering to him the chief official trust of the State of New York.

LOUISIANA.

Kellogg, the Master of the Situation.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31.—The Louisiana Legislature meets on Monday; the outlook to-night is pacific. Governor Kellogg is master of the situation, and has 150 policemen in the State House. Kellogg will only admit those on the list furnished by the Returning Board, until the Legislature is organised. It is rumoured to-night that ex-Governor Warmoth is trying to form a coalition with the Democrats, to have himself elected Speaker over Hahn, Governor Kellogg's candidate. The Democratic members of the Legislature have been commissioned by Governor McEnery, bearing State seal captured in the contest of 1872.

The Rival Legislatures.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 1.—A heavy force of police were on duty at the State House to-day, and United States troops are under arms at their quarters. United States Marshal Pitkin was at his office in the Custom House, which is connected with the State House by telegraph wire, ready for any emergency. The Democrats held a caucus and sent a committee to the State House to ask that the barricades and the police be removed, which Gov. Kellogg declined and the Democrats withdrew. At 12:30 the Clerk of the House made a similar demand, which was likewise refused. He then refused to call the roll, whereupon Louis Sauer called the House to order at the request of the Secretary of State, Deslande, and called the roll. Sixty-eight members answered making a quorum. Without administering the oath to the members, nominations for speakers were announced. Ex Governor Hahn being declared elected took the chair. The Senate was promptly organised by Lieutenant Governor Antoine with more than a quorum. During these proceedings about 500 persons were assembled around the State House, who cheered the Democratic Committ when it came out from the State House, but beyond this there was no noisy demonstration.

The Democratic Legislature met at St. Patrick's Hall. The Senate was called to order by Senator Ogden. The House was called to order by the Clerk, and 61 answered to their names which was more than a quorum. Louis Bush was elected Speaker.

THE TURCO-RUSSIAN WAR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 30.—At Thursday's sitting of the Conference which lasted four hours, it was decided that the armistice should be prolonged until the 1st of March, 1877. The Turkish delegates submitted objections to several of the proposals made by the Conference, chiefly the subject of guarantees. A discussion followed on those questions in which Count Chandordy, the French Plenipotentiary, took a leading part. The next sitting of the Conference will be on Saturday and Monday, and it is expected that rapid progress will be made with the deliberations. The apprehensions recently entertained of an unfavourable issue are now considerable diminished, and a pacific solution of pending questions is anticipated.

The British fleet has left Besika Bay for the Piraeus.

The Pall Mall Gazette states that the proposal for the prolongation of the armistice was made by the Porte, and considers that this action adds much to the hopefulness of the sitution. It believes Turkey has just framed a proposal that a police force composed of Turkish Regular Troops, under European officers, shall supervise the application of reforms in the Provinces. Whether the Czar and his ministers will be content with it the Pall Mall Gazette seriously doubts, declaring it easier to believe the Russian Army must fight unless its Sovereign can boast of far more obvious diplomatic victory than it is likely to obtain, than it will be ordered home by the Government virtually defeated in the Conference Chamber.

LONDON, Jan. 1,—A despatch from Constantinople, dated Dec. 27, says the Marquis of Salisbury at his audience with the Sultan yesterday advised the Sultan to accept the proposals of the Powers.

The Sultan deeply regretted he was compelled to decline, as his powers were limited by the constitution.

Lord Salisbury remarked that Turkey must not count upon European money or men from England, who would leave Turkey to her fate.

The Sultan answered—It is useless to [illegible] be at the [illegible] end.

TELEGRAPHIC.

Lord Salisbury asked on what His Majesty relied in case of war.

The Sultan said the army and people would defend him; he could not depend on them if he went against the unanimous wishes of his subjects.

At the conclusion Lord Salisbury informed the Sultan he would be compelled to withdraw the British fleet in order to dissipate the erroneous idea that the fleet supported Turkey in resisting the will of Europe.

The Marquis telegraphed to Admiral Drummond to withdraw his fleet immediately from Turkish waters. The Admiral asked for authority to winter in the harbour of Salonica, but Lord Salisbury refused. A portion of the fleet sailed for the Piraeus and the remainer for Malta.

A Reuter despatch from Constantinople, dated Thursday, says: The Turkish representative, at to-day's sitting of the Conference, accepted the prolongation of the armistice. The Conference afterwards discussed the Porte's counter proposals for reforms applicable to all of the Provinces without distinction. The Plenipotentiaries did not reject these. This seems to imply the willingness of the Powers to modify the original proposals. A mutually conciliatory spirit prevailed, the Ottomen delegates appearing disposed to make such concessions as are compatible with the integrity and independence of Turkey. Hopes are entertained that an understanding will be reached by which all interests will be reconciled.

A full Council of Ministers was held this evening. It began at 7 and ended at 10 o'clock. The Sultan presided in person. The Council was followed by a Council of Generals, under the Presidency of the Commander-in-Chief, which opened at 10:30 o'clock and concluded at midnight. Midhat Pasha attended the latter Council.

Midnight Despatches.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—A telegram from Constantinople reports that at Saturday's sitting of the Conference, after the Turks announced their counter proposals not ready, Count Chandordy, French Plenipotentiary, addressed the Conference, pointing out that the propositions of the European representatives contained nothing contrary to the integrity of the Ottoman Empire. Gen. Ignatieff declared Russia had made very concession in order to arrive at an understanding. It was to Turkey's interest to accept the proposals of the Powers. Lord Salisbury and the Austrian and Italian representatives expressed their approval of these statements. Hopes of a peaceful solution continue. The Plenipotentiaries appear disposed to make concessions in matters of detail. The Greek Envoy at Constantinople has informed Sir H. G. Elliott that Greece will subordinate her Eastern policy to that of England. The Marquis of Salisbury has promised the Cretan delegate that he will consider the claims of Crete. It is stated that the Porte is willing to concede that the Governors of the insurgent Provinces shall be Christians.

It is reported at Bucharest that in consequence of the prolongation of the armistice the Roumanian army will be placed on a peace footing.

It is asserted that the Turkish Government contemplate a fresh issue of paper money to the amount of 3,000,000 Turkish pounds.

THE TICHBORNE CASE.

Mr. Edward Kent Karslake, ex-M. P., for Colchester, and brother of the ex-Attorney-General, has always had a suspicion that justice was not done in the Tichborne case, and though not prepared to go as far as a belief in the "Claimant," he has lately obtained evidence, which he thinks very strong, showing that the crew of the Bella and her passenger Sir Roger were rescued by the Osprey and taken to Melbourne. Two witnesses testifying to this fact are now on their way to England, and Mr. Karslake thinks that something may come out of it.

The following is Mr. Karslake's communication to Vanity Fair:

SIR,—I send you a summary of some new evidence, mostly documentary, relating to the prisoner now in Dartmoor who used commonly to be called "The Claimant."

"Let me observe that I am by no means a partisan of this person—rather the contrary—for reasons which I ned not mention. I have in no way meddled with the Tichborne case since the conviction, and have carefully abstained from all reference to the matter even in conversation, unless when it was impossible, from the conduct of others, to avoid it. But no one would be worthy to be called a man, certainly not to be called an Englishman, if he did not do his best (little though that might be) to help an innocent man to get out of gaol, if it appeared that the evidence obtained since the conviction offered a fair chance of this result. The short summary which I send can scarcely fail to interest many of your readers. It may obviously lead to important results; on the other hand it may possibly lead to nothing. No further comment on it is necessary.

"E. K. KARSLAKE.

(1) Some time since (after the conviction of the Claimant) Mr. Guildford Onslow inserted in various papers an advertisement, offering a reward of £50 to anyone who should produce a newspaper containing an account of any survivor from the Bella. A highly respectable Englishman, Mr. H. Abel (A), living near Dieppe, was in the East during the last trial. He returned home in the autumn of this year, and saw or was informed of the advertisement. He then at once remembered that he some years ago fell in with a Spaniard named Ramon Ortezegui, a native of Bilbao (B), who was then serving in Dorregaray's (Carlist) army, and with whom A became intimate. B told A that B, many years ago, was going from Rio to Havannah, and so to New Orleans, and thence to Spain, when he was wrecked not far from the coast of Brazil, and picked up and taken to Melbourne, together with an English count; that he wrote a letter from Melbourne to his father, resident at Tolosa, in Guipuscoa, relating what had happened; that this letter was sent by his father to a Spanish newspaper and printed in it; and that a copy of the account referred to, cut out of the paper, was sent to B, which he still had. A thereupon communicated by letter with B, and before long went in search of B. A soon found B, who handed over to A the printed account cut out of the newspaper. This is now in the possession of Baxter & Co., and I have read it. The translation which I give, made I presume, by A, is substantially accurate.

The newspaper, the Diario, published at Bilbao, contains—First an announcement by the editor (whose named I do not know), of which the following is a translation:—

"We have received the following letter from our co-religionist, Senor Alvarez Ortsegui, which we publish with much pleasure, as we ought always to sympathise with our beloved sailors (nuestros bizarros marineros) in the hour of their dangers and troubles."

2ndly. A letter, of which the following is a translation:

"To the Editor of the Diario:

"TOLOSA, Feb. 21, 1855.

"SIR,—Permit me to direct your attention to the narrative which I received yesterday from my son, in which he shows that the dangers of the sea and winds are not enough, but that man himself seeks to multiply them by his avarice and his crimes.

"Begging to accept the expression of etc.,

"ALVAREZ ORTSEGUI."

3rdly. A letter, of which the following is a translation:

"MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 17, '54.

"MY DEAR FATHER,—After having left Havanna in the latter days of December, in the ship Santa Cruz, for Rio Janeiro, I left again, April 24th, in the ship Bella, of Liverpool, commanded by Captain Birquet (sic), bound for New Orleans and New York, in order to take ship at New Orleans, whence I wanted to return to Havanna, and thence to Spain. But in the night of the second day, April 26th, or rather in the dawn of the 27th, we saw that the ship was half full of water. We were in the cabin drinking the wine and brandy which the captain had given us to keep his birthday (fiesta), but when we got on deck we found the captain, with his mate (cabo) and the pilot (who had been still on board, a thing that much astonished me) had abandoned us. There is no doubt that the three thieves (ladrones) had made their preparations to lose the ship before escaping themselves, whereupon we five got into the launch (lancha) after having fetched a passenger (some English or French count [conde], I am not certain which), who was ill in his berth; and after two days, thanks to Our Lady, we fell in with the ship Osprey, in which we arrived in Melbourne on the 29th of last month, where is now, in the land of gold, your affectionate son,

"RAMON ORTSEGUI."

The claimant, in an affidavit sworn by him on the 2nd July, 1867, in the Chancery suit (Tichborne vs. Lushington) deposed much to the same effect as B.'s letter. There are some slight discrepancies in the two accounts, and one serious discrepancy, viz.:—According to B., the vessel was scuttled by the captain, mate and pilot; according to the claimant, the captain and others went off in the long-boat at the same time when the claimant and others went off in the second boat. It seems tolerably clear that no material discrepancy as this would not have been intentionally introduced into a false statement by an impostor, although he might well have introduced slight discrepancies to enhance the plausibility of his narrative.

B. told A. that on B.'s arrival at Melbourne he went to one John Gray, a Justice of the Peace, who gave him a certificate to the effect that the bearer, Raymond (sic) Ortsegui, a Spanish subject, had been wrecked in the Bella, Captain Birkett (sic), of Rio, and picked up by the Osprey, of New Jersey, Captain Nelson, and that he was worthy of assistance to Spain.

The claimant, in his affidavit already referred to, spells Birkett "Birgeet," as does B. in his letter, and as a foreigner would probably do. Mr. John Gray naturally spells Raymon "Raymond." B. told A. that he had lost this certificate, and suggested that it was of no value But A. begged B. to continue his search, and said that he would probably find it, and ultimately it was found. A copy of it (which I have seen) is now in the possession of Baxter & Co. A. (as he states) has the original, and will very shortly bring it to England.
