POWASSAN: The Winter Olympics in Innsbruck got off to an impressive start on Wednesday, February 4th. It is interesting to learn that even though this city was host to the event in 1964 it still took some two millions to prepare for the 1976 competitions. Perhaps, even though our Canadian athletes are doing creditably, they might do better if money wasted on many expensive unnecessary details were used to prepare proper facilities for practice and to help with expenses toward their training.

I am sure we wonder if there is anything we can do to help the tragic victims of the disastrous earthquake in Guatemala. Two such terrible disasters in recent years seem just too much for these people. Perhaps service clubs, church groups, etc. will find a way to do what they can. Let us hope so!
