

Town police

Perhaps the scorching weather on our first official summer weekend had something to do with it, but whatever the reason impaired driving charges dominated the police news.

Three charges

A 39-year-old Midland man faces three charges as a result of what police termed erratic driving on Penetanguishene's Main Street early Friday morning.

Daniel York, 39, of Vinden Street was charged with impaired driving, refusing to provide a breath sample and failure to produce an operators licence.

Parking lot accident

A two car accident in the Hotel Brule parking lot last Thursday evening has resulted in a charge of impaired driving and excess alcohol against one of the drivers. Charged is James Seeback, 69, of Weston. Damage to the Seeback car was estimated at $400.

Damage to the other vehicle driven by Albert Larose of the North West Basin was set at $100 by police.

Another impaired driving charge

A 48-year-old Penetanguishene man was charged with impaired driving and excess alcohol following a two car accident last Wednesday at the intersection of Main and Poyntz Streets.

Charged is Leonard Fournier of 72 Robert Street West. Damage to the Fournier vehicle is estimated at $150.

Police estimated the damage to the other car was also around the $150 mark. That car was driven by Jessie LeGarde of Coldwater.

Who took the ice cream?

Police are still investigating last Wednesday night's break in at the Bayfield Park Confectionary Booth. The thief or thieves made off with a quantity of ice cream and chocolates valued at $25.

Minor accident - two charges

Only minor damages to two vehicles were recorded following an accident in front of the Post Office parking lot early Saturday morning but both of the drivers were slapped with charges.

Howard Mitchell of 22 Water Street was charged with impaired driving and excess alcohol. Ernest Moreau of 8A Simcoe Street was charged with failing to yield from a driveway. Damage to the Moreau car was estimated at $75, and to the Mitchell car $125.

No injuries were reported.

Animal control changes

Council shorts

The town council formally approved a contract which puts Penetanguishene Animal Control under the Celestin Bidan's Huronia Animal Control Centre. Previously Animal Control services were directed by the Ontario Humane Society but the town council became satisfied with the Humane society's service. The agreement with Bidan runs for two years.

Sewer construction
Construction on 280 feet of storm sewers from Main Street west along Poyntz Street was approved by council. The estimated cost of the project is $15,072. It will be included in the town's 1976 budget. Plans for the sewer will now be drawn up.

Salary raised
The salary of Dr. P.H. Jones, the towns engineering consultant was raised from $4,000 to $6,000 per year. The $4,000 salary was originally set in 1974 when Dr. Jones was hired by the town.

Huronian Airport
Penetanguishene town council received formal notification on Monday night of the 1975 Huronia Airport Commission budget which amounts to $29,400. This budget is divided up between Midland, Penetanguishene and Tiny Townships. Midland's share is $16,170. Penetanguishene pays $8,232, while Tiny is charged $4,998.

Most of the Huronia Airport Commission's budget, $17,500; goes to pay for the Commission's share of a paved runway and to provide for runway lights.

Penetanguishene's share of the airport budget was included at the town's overall budget meeting which was approved on June 16.

Paul Rollinson
Paul Rollinson, the owner of the Odd Copy Bookstore, has been appointed to the Penetanguishene planning board to replace the late Edgar Moreau.

Special PGH day

The Penetanguishene Hospital Staff held a special day for senior citizens in the hospital last Wednesday. A total of 28 senior citizens were presented with a carnation from the president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Ruth

The occasion was held in honour of Senior Citizens Week.
