Women doing excellent work on TV

by Shirley Lane
 Women are doing more on the TV screen these days than flogging detergent and fretting about Ph content - however significant that may be. In line with Pierre Juneau's observation that "insufficient attention has been paid women in broadcasting" we are seeing excellent work by Barbara Frum, Jan Tennant, Helen Hutchinson, and Judy LaMarsh whose warmth, honesty and perception make her one of the best.

Coverage continues on Monday July 7 at 11:30 a.m. Ballotting is scheduled then, and each of the six candidates will speak while ballots are being counted.
 The news special will culminate in the announcement of the winner, the acceptance speech and an interview with the newly elected leader.
 If you'd rather listen to the proceedings over radio, they will be available on CBC at 9:03 Saturday night and from 1:00 to approximately 4:30 Monday.
On the Evidence
 CBC's On The Evidence deals with suspected murder this Saturday night at 8:00 p.m. W. Bruce Affleck, Q.C. is the prosecutor and Michael Wadsworth is defence attorney. The "case" will be heard before his Honour Frank Dunlap.
Banning animals
 Global's Great Debate Sunday at 7:00 is devoted to the resolution that "Animals should be banned from cities." Artist Harold Town will be defending that point of view. His opponent is Cleveland Amory, author, journalist and defender of animal rights. Pierre Berton will keep the pair from each other's throats.
Dangerous lies
 The Beachcombers, 7:00 on Sunday, CBC, poses an interesting problem this week. Margaret's pen-pal has tried to keep her retarded brother a secret. The secret explodes in her face, and both girls learn how dangerous lies can be.
